SEC. 2. Each State Senatorial District, as now constituted by law, shall be entitled to elect twice as many delegates to said Convention, as said district is now entitled to members in the State Senate.

SEC. 4. In all districts, composing two or more counties, the clerks of all the counties shall transmit to the clerk of the county first named by the law now forming said district, or in case there be no such clerk there, then to the clerk of the county as shall have one next named by the law, now forming said district, on the thirtieth day succeeding said election, a certificate, under their hands, of the number of votes given for each candidate in each respective county, and said returns shall be sent by special messengers, who shall receive the sum of five dollars a day for their services, to be paid out of the treasury of the county from which said return may be sent. SEC. 7. In cases of contested elections to said Convention, the contending candidates shall pursue the same course, and be governed by the same rules, as are now prescribed by law in relation to contested elections for members of the General Assembly; and the Convention shall be the judge of all such contested elections for membership therein.

SEC. 8. In case of vacancy occurring in said Convention, by death, resignation, or otherwise, of any member, the same shall be filled in the same manner as now prescribed by law for filling vacancies in the State Senate.

First. He shall take the chair every day at the hour to which the Convention shall have adjourned; shall immediately call the members to order, and, on the appearance of a quorum, shall cause the journal of the preceding day to be read.

Second. He shall preserve order and decorum; may speak to points of order in preference to the members, rising from his seat for that purpose; and shall decide all questions of order, subject to an appeal to the Convention, by any two members; on which appeal no member shall speak more than once, unless by leave of the Convention.

Third. He shall rise to put a question, but may state it sitting.

Fourth. When a question has been put, if the President doubts, or if a division be called for, the Convention shall divide: those in the affirmative shall rise from their seats, and afterward those in the negative. The President shall then arise and state the decision of the Convention.

Fifth. All committees shall be appointed by the President, unless otherwise specially directed by the Convention, in which case they shall be appointed by an open vote of the Convention.

Sixth. The President shall examine and correct the journal before it is read; he shall have a general superintendence of the hall; he shall have the right to name any member to perform the duties of the Chair; but such substitution shall not extend beyond an adjournment.

Seventh. In case of any disturbance or disorderly conduct in the lobby, he (or the Chairman of the Committee of the Whole Convention) shall have power to order the same to be cleared.

Eighth. No person shall be admitted within the bar but members and officers of the Convention, and such other persons as may be invited by a member of the Convention to a seat within the bar.

Tenth. If any member, in speaking, or otherwise, shall transgress the rules of the Convention, the President shall, or any member may, call to order; in which case the member so called to order shall immediately sit down, unless permitted to explain; and the Convention, if appealed to, shall decide on the case, but without debate; if there be no appeal, the decision of the Chair shall be submitted to. If the decision be in favor of the member called to order, he shall be at liberty to proceed; if otherwise, and the case require it, he shall be liable to the censure of the Convention.

Eleventh. When two or more members shall rise at once, the President shall name the person who is first to speak.

Twelfth. No member shall make use of any intemperate, personal, or improper language, nor commit any breach of order during the session of the Convention.

Twenty-first. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received but to adjourn, to lay on the table, for the previous question, to postpone to a day certain, to commit or amend, to postpone indefinitely; which several motions shall have precedence in the order in which they are arranged, and no motion to postpone to a day certain, to commit, or postpone indefinitely, being decided, shall be again allowed on the same day, and at the same stage of the proposition.

Twenty-second. A motion to adjourn shall always be in order, and shall be decided without debate.

Thirty-second. The unfinished business in which the Convention was engaged at the time of the last adjournment, shall have the preference in the orders of the day; and no motion, or any other business, shall be received without special leave of the Convention, until the former is disposed of; but any business that is made the order of a particular day, shall have the preference over other business on that day.

Fiftieth. In all cases not provided for in these rules, the parliamentary practice contained in Jefferson's Manual shall govern the Convention.

Fifty-first. When a proposition is made to amend the Constitution, it shall be read the first time for information, and if no objection be made thereto, it shall be ordered to a second reading, as a matter of course; but if objected to on the first reading, the only question shall be: "Shall the proposition be rejected?" If not rejected, it shall go to a second reading, as a matter of course; and the second reading shall be on a subsequent day. After the second reading, it may be referred, amended, or otherwise disposed of, as a bill on its second reading; and before it is ordered to a third reading, it shall be engrossed, and upon the third reading the question shall be: "Shall the amendment be adopted?" and if adopted, it shall go without a question to the Revising Committee.

ARTICLE —.

Declaration of Rights.

That the general, great, and essential principles of liberty and free government may be recognized and established, and that the relations of this State to the Union and Government of the United States, and those of the people of this State to the rest of the American people, may be defined and affirmed, we do declare—

1. That we hold it to be self-evident, that all men are created equally free, and are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, among which are life, liberty, the enjoyment of the fruits of their own labor, and the pursuit of happiness:

2. That there can not be in this State, either slavery or involuntary servitude, except in punishment of crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted:

3. That no person can, on account of color, be disqualified as a witness, or be disabled to contract, or be prevented from acquiring, holding, and transmitting property, or be liable to any other punishment for any offense than that imposed upon others for a like offense, or be restricted in the exercise of religious worship, or be hindered in acquiring education, or be subjected, in law, to any other restraints or disqualifications, in regard to any personal rights, than such as are laid upon others under like circumstances:

4. That all political power is vested in, and derived from, the people; that all government of right originates from the people, is founded upon their will only, and is instituted solely for the good of the whole:

5. That the people of this State have the inherent, sole, and exclusive right of regulating the internal government and police thereof, and of altering and abolishing their Constitution and form of government, whenever it may be necessary to their safety and happiness; but every such right should be exercised in pursuance of law, and consistently with the Constitution of the United States:

6. That this State shall ever remain a member of the American Union; that the people thereof are a part of the American nation; and that all attempts, from whatever source or upon whatever pretext, to dissolve said Union, or to sever said nation, ought to be resisted with the whole power of the State:

7. That every citizen of this State owes paramount allegiance to the Constitution and Government of the United States, and is not bound by any law or ordinance of this State in contravention or subversion thereof:

8. That the people have the right peaceably to assemble for their common good, and to apply to those vested with the powers of government for redress of grievances, by petition or remonstrance; and that their right to bear arms in defense of themselves and of the lawful authority of the State can not be questioned:

9. That all men have a natural and inalienable right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own consciences; that no person can, on account of his religious opinions, be rendered ineligible to any office of trust or profit in this State; and that no person ought, by any law, to be molested in his person or estate, on account of his religious persuasion or profession, or for his religious practice, unless, under the color of religion, he disturb the good order, peace, or safety of the State, or infringe the laws of morality, or injure others in their natural, civil, or religious rights:

10. That no person can be compelled to erect, support, or attend any place of worship, or to maintain any minister of the gospel or teacher of religion; but whatever contracts any person may enter into for any such object, ought, in law, to be binding and capable of enforcement, as other contracts:

11. That no preference can ever be given, by law, to any sect or mode of worship:

12. That no religious corporation can be established in this State, except that, by a general law, uniform throughout the State, any religious society or congregation may become a body corporate, for the sole purpose of acquiring, holding, using, and disposing of so much land as may be suitable for a house of public worship, a chapel, a parsonage, and a burial ground, and managing the same, and contracting in relation to such land, and the buildings thereon, through a board of trustees selected by themselves; but the quantity of land to be held by any such body corporate, in connection with a house of worship or a parsonage, shall not exceed five acres in the country, or one acre in a town or city:

13. That every gift, sale, or devise of land to any minister, public teacher, or preacher of the gospel, as such, or to any religious sect, order, or denomination, or to, or for, the support, use, or benefit of, or in trust for, any minister, public teacher, or preacher of the gospel, as such, or any religious sect, order, or denomination; and every gift or sale of goods or chattels to go in succession, or to take place after the death of the seller or donor, to or for such support, use, or benefit; and also, every devise of goods or chattels, to or for the support, use, or benefit of any minister, public teacher, or preacher of the gospel, as such, or any religious sect, order, or denomination, without the prior or subsequent sanction of the General Assembly, shall be void; except always, any gift, sale, or devise of land to a church, religious society, or congregation, for the uses and purposes, and within the limitations of the next preceding clause of this article:

by the judgment of his peers, or the law of the land:

19. That no person, after having been once acquitted by a jury, can, for the same offense, be again put in jeopardy of life or liberty; but if, in any criminal prosecution, the jury be divided in opinion, the court, before which the trial shall be had, may, in its discretion, discharge the jury, and commit or bail the accused for trial at the next term of such court.

24. That no person can, for an indictable offense, be proceeded against criminally by information, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service in time of war or public danger, or, by leave of court, for oppression or misdemeanor in office:

25. That treason against the State can consist only in levying war against it, or in adhering to its enemies, giving them aid and comfort; and that no person can be convicted of treason, unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on his own confession in open court:

26. That no person can be attainted of treason or felony by the General Assembly; that no conviction can work corruption of blood or forfeiture of estate; and that the estates of such persons as may destroy their own lives shall descend or vest, as in cases of natural death:

27. That the free communication of thoughts and opinions is one of the invaluable rights of man, and that every person may freely speak, write, and print, on any subject, being responsible for the abuse of that liberty; that in all prosecutions for libels the truth thereof may be given in evidence, and the jury may determine the law and the facts, under the direction of the court:

28. That no ex post facto law, nor law impairing the obligation of candidates, or retrospective in its operation, can be passed:

29. That imprisonment for debt cannot exist in this State, except for fines or penalties imposed for violation of law:

30. That no person who is religiously scrupulous of bearing arms can be compelled to do so; but may be compelled to pay an equivalent for military service, in such manner as may be prescribed by law; and that no priest, preacher of the gospel, or teacher of any religious persuasion or sect, regularly ordained as such, shall be subject to military duty, or compelled to bear arms:

SEC. 9. At the regular session of the General Assembly chosen at said election, the Senators shall be divided by lot into two equal classes. The seats of the first class shall be vacated at the end of the second year after the day of said election, and those of the second class at the end of the fourth year after that day; so that one-half of the Senators shall be chosen every second year. In making such division it shall be so conducted, in regard to any Senatorial District electing more than one Senator, as that the Senators from that district shall first be divided, as nearly equal as may be, into the two classes, so as to avoid the election of all the Senators from such district for the same term.

SEC. 10. No member of Congress, or person holding any lucrative office under the United States, or this State (militia officers, justices of the peace, and notaries public excepted), shall be eligible to either house of the General Assembly, or shall remain a member thereof after having accepted any such office, or a seat in either house of Congress.

SEC. 11. No person who now is, or may hereafter be, a collector or holder of public money, or assistant or deputy of such collector or holder of public money, shall be eligible to either house of the General Assembly, until he shall have accounted for and paid all sums for which he may be accountable.

SEC. 12. No person, while he continues to exercise the functions of a bishop, priest, clergyman, or teacher of any religious per-

SEC. 13. The Governor shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies as may occur in either house of the General Assembly.

SEC. 14. No Senator or Representative shall, during the term for which he shall have been elected, be appointed to any civil office under this State, which shall have been created, or the emoluments of which shall have been increased, during his continuance in office as a Senator or Representative, except to such offices as shall be filled by elections of the people.

SEC. 15. Senators and Representatives shall, in all cases, except treason, felony, or breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during the session of the General Assembly, and for fifteen days next before the commencement and after the termination of each session; and for any speech or debate, in either house, they shall not be questioned in any other place.

SEC. 16. The members of the General Assembly shall, severally, receive from the public treasury a compensation for their services, which may, from time to time, be increased or diminished by law.

SEC. 17. A majority of the whole number of members of each house shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner, and under such penalties, as each house may provide.

SEC. 18. Each house shall appoint its own officers; shall judge of the qualifications, elections and returns of its own members; may determine the rules of its proceedings; may arrest and punish by fine not exceeding three hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in a county jail not exceeding ten days, or both, any person not a member, who shall be guilty of disrespect to the house, by any disorderly or contemptuous behavior in its presence during its session; may punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds of all the members elected, may expel a member; but no member shall be expelled a second time for the same cause.

SEC. 19. Each house shall, from time to time, publish a journal of its proceedings, except such parts thereof as may, in its opinion, require secrecy; and the yeas and nays on any question shall be taken, and entered on the journal, at the desire of any two members. Whenever the yeas and nays are demanded, the whole list of members shall be called, and the names of absentees shall be noted, and published with the journal.

SEC. 20. The sessions of each house shall be held with open doors, except in cases which may require secrecy.

SEC. 21. Neither house shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than two days at any one time, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses may be sitting.

SEC. 22. Bills may originate in either house, and may be altered, amended, or rejected, by the other; and every bill shall be read on three different days in each house, unless two-thirds of the house where the same is pending shall dispense with this rule; and every bill, having passed both houses, shall be signed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and by the President of the Senate.

SEC. 23. The style of the laws of this State shall be: "Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Missouri, as follows."

SEC. 24. The General Assembly shall not pass special laws divorcing any named parties; or declaring any named person of age; or authorizing any named minor to sell, lease, or encumber his or her property; or providing for the sale of the real estate of any named minor, or other person laboring under legal disability, by any executor, administrator, guardian, trustee, or other person; or changing the name of any person; or establishing, locating, altering the course, or affecting the construction of roads; or the building or repairing of bridges; or establishing, altering, or vacating any street, avenue, or alley in any city or town; or extending the time for the collection of taxes, or otherwise relieving any collector of taxes from the due performance of his official duties; or giving effect to informal or invalid deeds or wills; or legalizing, except as against the State, the unauthorized or invalid acts of any officer; or granting to any individual or company the right to lay down railroad tracks in the streets of any city or town. The General Assembly shall pass no special law for any case for which provision may at the time exist under any general law; and shall pass general laws providing, so far as it may deem necessary, for the cases enumerated in this section, and for all other cases where a general law can be made applicable.

SEC. 25. The General Assembly shall not pass any law incorporating, or authorizing the incorporation of any bank, with authority to issue notes, bills, or other paper as a circulating medium, or renewing or extending the charter of any such bank heretofore established, beyond the period now fixed by law for its termination, or relieving any such bank from any penalty or forfeiture it may have incurred, or may hereafter incur.

SEC. 26. No law shall be passed reviving or re-enacting any act heretofore passed creating any private corporation, where such corporation shall not have organized, and commenced the transaction of its business, within one year from the date of such act; nor shall any law be passed reviving any such act which has heretofore been forfeited, abandoned, or surrendered.

SEC. 27. Corporations may be formed under general laws; but shall not be created by special act, except for municipal purposes. All general or special acts passed pursuant to this section may be altered, from time to time, or repealed.

SEC. 28. No municipal corporations, except cities, shall be created by special act; and no city shall be incorporated with less than five thousand permanent inhabitants, nor unless the people thereof, by a direct vote upon the question, shall have decided in favor of such incorporation.

Dues from private corporations shall be secured by such individual liabilities, and other means as may be prescribed by law; but in all cases, each stockholder shall be liable, over and above the stock by him or her owned, and any amount unpaid thereon, to a further sum, at least equal in amount to such stock.

SEC. 30. No private corporation for the transaction of any kind of business shall be authorized for a longer period than twenty years.

SEC. 31. The General Assembly shall never authorize any lottery, nor shall the sale of lottery tickets be allowed, nor shall any lottery heretofore authorized be permitted to be drawn, or tickets therein to be sold, after the first day of July, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five.

SEC. 32. No law enacted by the General Assembly shall relate to more than one subject, and that shall be expressed in the title.

SEC. 33. The General Assembly shall direct, by law, in what manner, and in what courts, suits may be brought against the State.

SEC. 34. When any officer, civil or military, shall be appointed by the joint or concurrent vote of both houses, or by the separate vote of either house, the votes shall be publicly given viva voce, and entered on the journals.

SEC. 35. The General Assembly elected in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, shall meet on the first Wednesday of January, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven; and thereafter the General Assembly shall meet in regular session once in every two years; and such meeting shall be on the first Wednesday of January, unless a majority of all the members elected to both houses concur in fixing a different day by law.

SEC. 36. At the regular session of the General Assembly, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven, all the statute laws of this State, of a general nature, shall be revised, digested, and promulgated, in such manner as the General Assembly may direct. The Supreme Court, as organized under this Constitution, shall appoint a suitable person or persons to prepare a complete revision of such general statutes, with such amendments as may appear beneficial, and report the same, printed, in bill form, by the public printer, to the next General Assembly. The person or persons so appointed may, with the approbation of the Supreme Court, employ such clerks as may be necessary in preparing said revision. The Secretary of State shall, at the expense of the State, provide all necessary stationery for the use of the revisers. The compensation of the person or persons so appointed, and that of the clerks employed, shall be such as the Supreme Court may, from time to time, authorize and allow; and the same, together with such reasonable incidental expenses as may be incurred, shall be paid out of the State Treasury upon the order of said Court. After the said revision of the statutes, no similar revision shall be made by the General Assembly prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

ARTICLE —.
Impeachments.

SECTION 1. The Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, Auditor, Treasurer, Attorney General, and all judges of the courts, shall be liable to impeachment for any misdemeanor in office; but judgment, in such case, shall not extend further than removal from office, and disqualification to hold any office of honor, trust, or profit, under this State.

SEC. 2. The House of Representatives shall have the sole power of impeachment. All impeachments shall be tried by the Senate; and when sitting for that purpose, the Senate shall be on oath or affirmation to do justice according to law and evidence. When the Governor shall be tried, the presiding Judge of the Supreme Court shall preside. No person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the Senators present.

On motion, one hundred copies of each were ordered to be printed for the use of the Convention.

Mr. GILSTRAP presented a petition from the Loyal Leagues of North Missouri, which was referred to the Committee on the Judicial Department.

Mr. BONHAM, Chairman of the Committee on the Elective Franchise, presented the following report:

A majority of the Committee on Elective Franchise have had the matter under consideration, examined the several propositions presented to the Convention, and have instructed me to report an article to be added to the Constitution as a new article, and recommend its adoption by this Convention. They also recommend that the article be read the first time by its title, laid upon the table, and one hundred copies of the same be printed for the use of the Convention.

D. BONHAM, Chairman.

The following is the article accompanying said report:

ARTICLE —.

Elections, and Qualifications of Voters, Officers, and others.

SECTION 1. All elections by the people shall be by ballot. No election shall continue longer than one day.

SEC. 2. General elections shall be held biennially, on the Tuesday next after the first Monday in November. The first general election under this Constitution shall be held on that day in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six. Should Congress direct the appointment of electors of President and Vice President of the United States on any other day than that now established, the General Assembly may change the time of holding general elections so as to provide for holding them on the day which may be designated by Congress for that purpose, and on the corresponding day two years thereafter. No special election (State, county, or municipal) shall be appointed to be held on a Monday.

SEC. 3. At any election held by the people under this Constitution, or in pursuance of any law of this State, or under any ordinance or by-law of any municipal corporation, no person shall be deemed a qualified voter who has ever been in armed hostility to the United States, or to the lawful authorities thereof, or to the government of this State; or has ever given aid, comfort, countenance, or support, to persons engaged in any such hostility; or has ever, in any manner, adhered to the enemies, foreign or domestic, of the United States, either by contributing to them, or by unlawfully sending within their lines, money, goods, letters, or information; or has ever disloyally held communication with such enemies; or has ever advised or aided any person to enter the service of such enemies; or has ever, by open act or word, declared his adherence to the cause of such enemies, or his desire for their triumph over the arms of the United States, or has ever, except under overpowering compulsion, submitted to the authority or been in the service of the so-called "Confederate States of America;" or has ever left this State and gone within the lines of the armies of the so-called "Confederate States of America," with the purpose of adhering to said States or armies; or has ever been a member of, or connected with, any order, society, or organization, having for its object to aid or encourage rebellion against the United States, or to promote the dissolution of the Union thereof, or to oppose by any unlawful means the laws or authority thereof, or the laws, ordinances, or authority of this State; or has ever been engaged in guerrilla warfare against loyal inhabitants of the United States, or in that description of marauding commonly known as "bushwhacking;" or has ever knowingly harbored, aided, or countenanced, any person so engaged; or has ever left this State for the purpose of avoiding enrollment for or draft into the military service of the United States; or has ever, in order to escape the performance of duty in the militia of this State, enrolled himself, or caused himself to be enrolled, as a disloyal Southern sympathizer; or having ever voted at any election by the people in this State, or in any other of the United States, or held office in this State, or in any other of the United States, shall thereafter have sought or received, under claim of alienage, the protection of any foreign government, through any consul or other officer thereof, in order to secure exemption from military duty in the militia of this State, or in the army of the United States; nor shall any such person be capable of holding, in this State, any office of honor, trust, or profit, under its authority; or of being an officer, councilman, director, trustee, or other manager, of any corporation, public or private, now existing, or hereafter established, by its authority; or of acting as a professor or teacher in any educational institution incorporated by, or under any law of, this State; or of teaching in any common or other school which is sustained, in whole or in part, by funds provided by law. But the foregoing provisions, in relation to acts done against the United States, shall not apply to any person not a citizen thereof, who shall have committed such acts while in the service of some foreign country at war with the United States, and who has, since such acts, been naturalized, or may hereafter be naturalized, under the laws of the United States; and the oath of loyalty hereinafter prescribed, when taken by any such person, shall be considered as taken in such sense.

SEC. 4. The General Assembly shall immediately provide, by law, for a complete and uniform registration, by election districts, of the names of qualified voters in this State, which registration shall be evidence of the qualification of all registered voters to vote at any election thereafter held; but no person shall be excluded from voting at any election on account of not being registered, until the General Assembly shall have passed an act of registration, and the same shall have been carried into effect; after which no person shall vote unless his name shall have been registered at least ten days before the day of the election; and the fact of such registration shall be not otherwise shown than by the register, or an authentic copy thereof, certified to the judges of election by the registering officer, or officers, or other constituted authority. A new registration shall be made within sixty days next preceding the tenth day prior to every biennial general election; and, after it shall have been made, no person shall establish his right to vote by the fact of his name appearing on any previous register.

SEC. 5. Until such a system of registration shall have been established, every person shall, at the time of offering to vote, and before his vote shall be received, take an oath, in the terms prescribed in the next succeeding section. After such a system shall have been established, the said oath shall be taken and subscribed by the voter at each time of his registration. Any person declining to take said oath shall not be allowed to vote, or to be registered as a qualified voter. The taking thereof shall not be deemed conclusive evidence of the right of the person to vote, or to be registered as a voter; but such right may, notwithstanding, be disproved. And after a system of registration shall have been established, all evidence for and against the right of any person as a qualified voter shall be heard and passed upon by the registering officer, or officers, and not by the judges of election.

SEC. 6. The oath to be taken, as aforesaid, shall be known as the "Oath of Loyalty," and shall be in the following terms:

"I, A. B., do solemnly swear that I am well acquainted with the terms of the third section of the ——— article of the Constitution of the State of Missouri, adopted in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-five, and have carefully considered the same; that I have never, directly or indirectly, done any of the acts in said section specified; that I have always been truly and loyally on the side of the United States, against all enemies thereof, foreign and domestic; that I will always bear true faith and unqualified allegiance to the United States, and will support the Constitution and laws thereof as the supreme law of the land, any law or ordinance of any State to the contrary notwithstanding; that I will always, to the best of my ability, protect and defend the Union of the United States, and not allow the same to be broken up and dissolved, or the Government thereof to be destroyed or overthrown, under any circumstances, if in my power to prevent it; that I will always discountenance and oppose all combinations, plans, and efforts, having for their object the dissolution of said Union, or the overthrow of said Government; that I will always, in word and deed, demean myself as a loyal and faithful citizen of the United States; that I will support the said Constitution of the State of Missouri; and that I make this oath without any mental reservation or evasion, and hold it to be binding on me."

SEC. 7. Within fifteen days after the adoption of this Constitution, the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, Auditor of Public Accounts, State Treasurer, Register of Lands, Attorney General, and all members and officers of both houses of the General Assembly, shall take and subscribe said oath; and, within two months after such adoption, every person in this State holding any other office of honor, trust, or profit, under the Constitution or laws thereof, or under any municipal corporation, or any of the other offices, positions, or trusts, mentioned in the third section of this article, shall likewise take and subscribe the same. If any officer or person referred to in this section shall fail to comply with the requirement thereof, his office, position, or trust, shall, ipso facto, become vacant, and the vacancy shall be filled according to the law governing the case.

SEC. 8. No vote in any election by the people shall be cast up for, nor shall any certificate of election be granted to, any person who shall not, within fifteen days next preceding such election, have taken, subscribed, and filed said oath.

SEC. 9. No person shall assume the duties of any State, county, city, town, or other office to which he may be appointed, otherwise than by a vote of the people; nor shall any person, after the expiration of two months after the adoption of this Constitution, be permitted to practice as an attorney or counselor at law; nor, after that time, shall any person be competent, as a bishop, priest, deacon, minister, elder, or other clergyman, of any religious persuasion, sect, or denomination, to solemnize marriages; unless such person shall have first taken, subscribed, and filed said oath.

SEC. 10. Oaths taken in pursuance of the seventh, eighth, and ninth sections of this article, shall be filed as follows: By a State civil officer, or a candidate for a State civil office, and by members and officers of the present General Assembly, in the office of the Secretary of State; by a military officer, in the office of the Adjutant General; by a candidate for either house of the General Assembly, in the clerk's office of the county court of the county or his residence, or in that of the county where the vote of the district is required by law to be cast up, and the certificate of election granted; by a city or town officer, in the office where the archives of such city or town are kept; and in all other cases, in the office of the clerk of the county court of the county of the person's residence.

SEC. 11. Every court in which any person shall be summoned to serve as a grand or petit juror, shall require him, before he is sworn as a juror, to take said oath, in open court; and no person refusing to take the same shall serve as a juror.

SEC. 12. If any person shall declare that he has conscientious scruples against taking an oath, or swearing in any form, the said oath may be changed into a solemn affirmation, and be made by him in that form.

SEC. 13. In addition to the oath of loyalty aforesaid, every person who may be elected or appointed to any office shall, before entering upon its duties, take and subscribe an oath or affirmation, that he will, to the best of his skill and ability, diligently and faithfully, without partiality or prejudice, discharge the duties of such office according to the Constitution and laws of this State.

SEC. 14. Whoever shall, after the times limited in the seventh and ninth sections of this article, hold or exercise any of the offices, positions, trusts, professions, or functions therein specified, without having taken, subscribed, and filed said oath of loyalty, shall, on conviction thereof, be punished by fine not less than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not less than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment; and whoever shall take said oath falsely, by swearing or by affirmation, shall, on conviction thereof, be adjudged guilty of perjury, and be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not less than two years.

SEC. 15. Whoever shall be convicted of having, directly or indirectly, given or offered any bribe to procure his election or appointment to any office, shall be disqualified for any office of honor, trust, or profit, under this State; and whoever shall give or offer any bribe, to procure the election or appointment of any other person to any office, shall, on conviction thereof, be disqualified for a voter, or any office of honor, trust, or profit, under this State, for ten years after such conviction.

SEC. 16. No officer, soldier, seaman, or marine, in the regular army or navy of the United States, shall be entitled to vote at any election in this State.

SEC. 17. No person who shall make, or become directly or indirectly interested in, any bet or wager depending upon the result of any election, shall vote at such election.

SEC. 18. Every white male citizen of the United States, over the age of twenty-one years, not disqualified by or under any of the provisions of this Constitution, and who shall have complied with its requirements, and have resided in this State one year next preceding any election, or next preceding his registration as a voter, and during the last sixty days of that period shall have resided in the county, city, or town where he offers to vote, or seeks registration as a voter shall be entitled to vote at such election for all officers, State, county, or municipal, made elective by the people; but he shall not vote elsewhere than in the election district of which he is at the time a resident, or, after a system of registration of votes shall have been established in the election district where his name is registered; except as provided in the twentieth section of this article.

SEC. 19. For the purpose of voting, no person shall be deemed to have gained or lost a residence, by reason of his presence or absence, while employed in the service of the United States, nor while engaged in the navigation of the waters in this State, or of the United States, or of the high seas; nor while a student in any seminary of learning; nor while kept at any poorhouse, or other asylum, at public expense; nor when confined in any public prison.

SEC. 20. Any qualified voter, under the eighteenth section of this article, who may be absent from the place of his residence, by reason of being in the volunteer army of the United States, or in the militia force of this State, in the service thereof, or of the United States, whether within or without the State, shall, without registration, be entitled to vote in any election occurring during such absence. The General Assembly shall provide by law for the taking of the votes of all such persons, wherever they may be, and the day fixed for such election, or at any time within twenty days next prior thereto, and for the due return and counting of such votes. Every such person shall take the same oath that all other voters may be required to take in order to vote.

SEC. 21. Voters shall, in all cases, except treason, felony, or breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their continuance at elections, and in going to and returning from the same.

SEC. 22. Any person who may at any time have done any act which, under the third section of this article, has disqualified or may disqualify him, as therein expressed, and who shall, after the commission of such act, have voluntarily entered the military service of the United States, and been honorably discharged therefrom, and after such discharge have demeaned himself in all respects as a loyal and faithful citizen, may be relieved from such disqualification. In order thereto, he shall, in person, present his petition to the circuit court of the county of his residence, stating specifically the act or acts which produced such disqualification, and the grounds upon which he prays to be relieved therefrom; and the court shall set a day for hearing the cause, not less than five days after the presentation of the petition; when, if it appear by competent proof that the petitioner is justly entitled to the relief prayed for, the court shall make a decree removing such disqualification. But any act done by such person after the date of such decree, which would impose a disqualification under said third section of this article, shall make such decree null and void, and remit him to his previous condition of disqualification; and no such decree shall be granted a second time in his favor.

SEC. 23. After any person shall have been so relieved by the decree of a circuit court, he shall, in order to vote, or hold any of the offices, positions or trusts, or exercise any of the privileges or functions hereinbefore specified, take the oath of loyalty aforesaid, except the part thereof which refers to the third section of this article, and to the past acts or loyalty of the person taking the oath.

SEC. 24. After the — day of —, one thousand eight hundred and —, and until the date next hereinafter named, the General Assembly shall have power, if a majority of all the members elected to both houses concur therein, to suspend or repeal any part of the third, fifth and sixth sections of this article so far as the same relate to the qualifications of voters, but no further. After the — day of —, one thousand eight hundred and —, the General Assembly may wholly suspend or repeal the third, fourth, fifth, sixth, eighth, ninth, tenth, eleventh and twelfth sections of this article, or any part thereof, if a like majority of both houses concur therein. But no such suspension or repeal shall have the effect of dispensing with the taking, by every person elected or appointed to any office in this State, of so much of the oath of loyalty aforesaid as follows the word "thereof" where it first occurs therein. On the passage of any bill suspending or repealing any of said sections, or any part thereof, the votes of both houses shall be taken by ayes and noes, and entered on the journals of the houses, respectively. The General Assembly shall also have power, at any time, to remove any such suspension or repeal, and reinstate the provisions suspended or repealed, in full force and effect as a part of this Constitution. Every suspension or repeal made in pursuance of this section, shall be general in its terms, and not in any case in favor of any named person; but the General Assembly may except from the benefit of such suspension or repeal any person, or class of persons, it may see fit.

SEC. 25. The General Assembly shall provide for the exclusion from every office of honor, trust, or profit within this State, and from the right of suffrage, of any person convicted of bribery, perjury, or other infamous crime.

SEC. 26. For the purpose of ascertaining the sense of the people in regard to the admission of persons of color to the right of suffrage, the question shall, in the manner hereinafter prescribed, be submitted to, and voted upon by, the qualified voters of the State, at the general election to be held in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy; and if the vote of the people should then be against such admission, the question shall, in like manner, be again submitted to, and voted upon by, such qualified voters, at the general election to be held in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six; and if the vote of the people should then be against such admission, the General Assembly may, at any time thereafter, provide by law for again submitting the question to the qualified voters, at any general election, and as often as it may be deemed expedient. Whenever the said question shall be so submitted, either at the times named in this section, or at any time fixed by the General Assembly, the votes thereupon shall be given on the same ballots upon which officers are voted for. The ballots in favor of the admission of persons of color to the right of suffrage shall have written or printed thereon the words "Colored Suffrage—Yes;" and those against such admission shall have written or printed thereon the words "Colored Suffrage—No." It shall be the duty of the judges of election, at any such election, to count and return, with the other votes, those given for and against colored suffrage, and the same shall be cast up and certified by the clerks of the several county courts to the Secretary of State; and at the expiration of forty days after the day of the election, that officer shall proceed to ascertain from the returns in his office the aggregate vote of the State upon said question, including the soldiers' vote hereinbefore provided for, and certify the same to the Governor, who shall thereupon make known the same by his proclamation; and if a majority of the votes given upon the question shall have been in favor of colored suffrage, then, from the date of such proclamation, persons of color, being otherwise qualified as voters, shall be entitled to vote at all elections by the people.

On motion, one hundred copies of the foregoing article were ordered to be printed.

Mr. FLETCHER offered the following resolution:

On motion, the resolution and amendments were laid on the table.

The PRESIDENT read the following letter to the Convention:

ST. LOUIS, January 16, 1865.

Hon. ARNOLD KREKEL, President of the Missouri State Convention:

SIR—I have the honor to be the bearer of a communication from His Excellency the Governor of Illinois, transmitting joint resolutions from the General Assembly of Illinois, passed on reception of intelligence of the adoption, by the Convention of Missouri, of an Ordinance of Emancipation, which communication I desire to present to your honorable body, at such time as it will be your pleasure to receive them.

Very respectfully, your ob't serv't,

(Signed) JOHN S. LOOMIS.

Sec'y and A. D. C. to His Excellency, Gov. Yates.

Mr. DRAKE offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

Resolved. That the Convention will receive, with pleasure, Mr. Loomis, the messenger bearing the communication from the Governor of the State of Illinois to this body; and that a committee of two be appointed to conduct Mr. Loomis into the hall and introduce him to the Convention.

The President appointed Messrs. Drake and St. Gem a committee to conduct in and introduce Mr. Loomis, who came forward and presented the following communication:

STATE OF ILLINOIS, EXECUTIVE DEP'T., }
Springfield, Jan. 13, 1865.

To the Honorable the President of the Constitutional Convention of the State of Missouri:

SIR—It is with feelings of unalloyed gratification that I submit to you the enclosed resolution of the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, congratulating her sister State on the passage, by the Constitutional Convention, of the ordinance abolishing slavery in Missouri.

Illinois was the third State which came into the Union under the glorious ordinance of 1787. Missouri is the third State to abolish slavery in accordance with the spirit of the still more glorious proclamation of emancipation of Abraham Lincoln.

May these two sister States henceforth run, hand in hand together, the race of liberty, prosperity, and happiness. They have hitherto been united by the ties of race and blood; hereafter they will be united forever by the ties of universal liberty, acknowledging the fraternity of but one brotherhood of humanity, and the supremacy of but one God, who is the Father of all, without respect of race or color.

All the natural and inevitable consequences of freedom must now be showered down upon the noble State of Missouri. She has accomplished the will of God, and of all good men, and her reward is being prepared for her by Him who holds the nations in the hollow of His hands.

With great respect, I am, sir,

Your obed't serv't.

(Signed) RICH'D YATES, Governor.

Official copy:

(Signed) RICH'D YATES, Governor.

Mr. DRAKE offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

Resolved. That Missouri accepts, with thanks, the greetings of her free sister, Illinois, and responds with earnest wishes that the current of good feeling between the two States may be as ceaseless in its flow as the tide of the mighty river which pours its rich blessings along the borders, which are no more to be divided by the black line of human slavery.

The ordinance offered by Mr. BONHAM, relative to abrogating certain parts of the constitution, was taken up, read the second time, and referred to the Committee on the Legislative Department.

On motion, the Convention adjourned till 3 o'clock P. M.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment, the President in the chair.

A quorum being present, the Convention proceeded to business.

The following committee, as a Committee on Accounts, was appointed under the 49th rule governing the Convention, viz: Messrs. Meyer, Holcomb, and Grammer.

The resolution heretofore offered by Mr. Bush, to amend the 4th rule, was read the second time, and, on motion, adopted.

Mr. ST. GEM presented the following communication, which was read and referred to the Committee on the Judicial Department:

To the Honorable Convention of Delegates to amend the Constitution of the State of Missouri:

Under the laws heretofore existing in Missouri slaves could own no property in real estate, and possess no property except his peculium.

There are many cases where wills have been made, or deeds of conveyance have been executed, to persons with secret trusts in favor of slaves.

There are other cases of property accumulated by slaves in time allowed them by their masters to work for themselves.

I have the honor to suggest that an ordinance should declare these secret trusts valid, and vest the legal title with them; also, render valid the title and ownership of personal and real estate.

Respectfully submitted for consideration.
J. B. ROGERS.

On motion of Mr. MITCHELL, Mr. Williams of Scotland was added to the Committee on Education.

Mr. GAMBLE offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Convention that all persons owning slaves on the 11th day of January, 1865, who were, and are, truly loyal to the Government of the United States, shall be paid the full value of such slaves so owned, and liberated by the Ordinance of Emancipation passed by this Convention on that day; and the Committee on Legislative Powers are hereby instructed to insert a clause in the Constitution of this State, requiring the Legislature, at the present session, to pass the necessary law or laws to carry this resolution into effect: Provided, That the Legislature shall pass no law which will allow any such owner more than three hundred dollars for any one such slave so emancipated.

Mr. BONHAM moved to lay the resolution on the table.

Upon which motion Mr. GAMBLE demanded the ayes and noes, and the vote being taken, stood as follows:

AYES—Messrs. Bonham, Budd, Childress, Clover, Cowden, Davis of New Madrid, Davis of Nodaway, Dodson, D'Oench, Drake, Esther, Evans, Filley, Folmsbee, Fulkerson, Gilstrap, Gilbert of Lawrence, Grammer, Green, Henderson, Holcomb, Holland, Hughes, Hume, Husmann, King, Leonard, Linton, McKernan, McPherson, Mack, Meyer, Mitchell, Newgent, Nixdorf, Owens, Peck, Rankin, St. Gem, Smith of Worth, Strong, Sutton, Swearingen, Thilenius, Williams of Caldwell, Williams of Scotland, and Mr. President—47.

ABSENT—Messrs. Adams, Bunce, Bush, Ellis, Fletcher, Foster, Harris, Holdsworth, Martin, Rohrer, Smith of Mercer, and Weatherby—12.

So the resolution was laid upon the table.

Mr. HOLCOMB offered the following resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Miscellaneous Business:

Resolved, That the Committee on Miscellaneous Propositions be, and they are hereby, instructed to examine into the expediency of taxing rebels, or rebel property, in the several counties of this State, to replace all township and county buildings, and all other county or township property, that have been destroyed by rebel armies or rebel guerrilla bands; also of refunding to all loyal men, and especially Federal soldiers, the amounts that have been stolen from them, and report to this Convention, by ordinance or otherwise, as they shall think proper.

Mr. DAVIS of New Madrid offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Constitution, together with all the provisions therein contained, and all the ordinances adopted by this Convention, shall be submitted to a direct vote of the people of this State, on the first Tuesday in November next.

So the resolution was laid on the table.

On motion the Convention adjourned to meet to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

EIGHTH DAY.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 17th, 1865.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment, the President in the Chair.

Prayer by Rev. Dr. Eliot.

The journal of the proceedings of the last session was read by the Secretary, and approved.

Mr. DRAKE offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

Resolved, That the Secretary of State be requested to make out and transmit to this body a tabular statement of the vote of this State, by counties, on the eighth day of November last, for and against a Convention.

Mr. NEWGENT offered the following ordinance, which was read the first and second times, and,

On motion of Mr. DRAKE, was referred to the Committee on the Judicial Department:

AN ORDINANCE TO PROTECT CITIZENS AND SOLDIERS.

Be it ordained by the People of the State of Missouri, in Convention assembled:

That no soldier nor citizen of this State shall be liable to any action by the civil authorities, for any act heretofore done, or that may hereafter be done, under the authority of any military command in this State.

Mr. FILLEY, Chairman of the Committee on Printing, presented the following report:

The Committee on Printing unanimously and respectfully report, that from the nature of the printing that the Convention will, from time to time, demand, it is impossible for the Committee, or the Convention, in advance, to determine, and, therefore, impossible to give a schedule upon which a specific contract can be based.

If the Committee could be informed as to the precise quantity, kind and style, it would afford them the basis for such a contract.

They have, therefore, adopted the basis of the last Convention, and made what appears to them a much more favorable arrangement, than, from the immense advance in labor and material, and the prices adopted by the last Convention, they expected, and, therefore, have arranged with Messrs. McKee, Fishback & Co., of the Missouri Democrat, as follows:

All printing, in book form, to be done on good strong paper, in such type as may be directed by the Committee or officer having superintendence thereof; all documents, and other job work, with such type and paper as may be directed by the proper officer. The printing to be done promptly and in a neat and workmanlike manner.

Price for blank forms, one dollar and three cents for the first eight quires, each; and for every additional quire eighty-five cents.

For public documents, eighty-five cents per thousand ems, for the first hundred copies, and twenty cents per thousand ems for each additional hundred copies.

For pressing sheets, folding and stitching, and covering with strong paper covers, not over ten cents per volume, for less than thirty-two pages for each volume; substantially half bound, leather covers and backs, and lettered, thirty cents.

The Committee recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Convention be instructed to have the printing done by Messrs. McKee, Fishback & Co., on terms as above.

(Signed) CHAUNCEY I. FULLEY, Ch'n.
WILLIAM D'OENCH.
WYLLYS KING.

On motion, the report and resolution were adopted.

Mr. STRONG offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

Resolved, That the Secretary of this Convention be, and hereby is, authorized to employ such clerks as are absolutely necessary to copy the reports of committees for the purpose of having them immediately printed, and such other business as requires additional assistance, under the direction of the President, and to receive such remuneration as the President may deem right.

Mr. STRONG, Chairman of the Committee on Credentials, reported that Mr. A. J. Barr, of the Tenth District, had presented his credentials, and that they are correct.

Mr. BARR came forward and took the oath, and was enrolled as a member of the Convention.

Mr. BONHAM offered the following resolutions:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Convention, that the Government of the United States should never propose terms of peace to the so-called Southern Confederacy, but should prosecute the war with all the means and power of the Government, to its final end, and until every rebel acknowledges and bows to the supremacy of the Constitution of the United States, and the laws passed in pursuance thereof.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be authenticated by the President and Secretary of this Convention, and forwarded to the President of the United States, the President of the Senate, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives in Congress.

Mr. GREEN offered the following resolutions as a substitute for the resolution of Mr. Bonham:

Resolved, That this Convention would hail with delight the cessation of hostilities between the armies of the Union and the armies of the so-called Confederate States of America: Provided, however, The same can be brought about on terms consistent with the honor, integrity, unity, and perpetuity of the Union of all the States, and the irrevocability of the Proclamation of Emancipation, issued by President Lincoln in January, 1863.

Resolved, That unless these ends can be accomplished in negotiations for peace, it is our opinion that the war should be prosecuted to its ultimate consequences, trusting that, under the providence of God, final victory to the Union arms will be secured, the ultimate overthrow of the rebellion, and the restoration of peace, with the Union preserved, and with universal emancipation through all the States.

Mr. STRONG offered as a substitute the following resolution:

Resolved, That the terms of peace proposed by the President of the United States, in his late annual message, which are in effect that peace will be restored when those who began the war lay down their arms, and submit to the Constitution and laws of the United States, meet with the cordial approval of this Convention, and of the loyal people of the State of Missouri; and we are of the opinion that they are the only terms consistent with the honor and the safety of these United States.

Mr. KREKEL offered the following resolution, which was read, as a substitute for the original proposition and substitutes therefor:

Resolved, That this Convention looks with apprehension to the preparation now making on the part of the Southern States to return to their allegiance as States by separate State action, because of the claim of State sovereignty implied therein, as well as the danger to the cause of freedom to the slaves yet held in bondage; and we call upon the Government, the Congress, and the people of the United States, not to expose the people of the South to that fearful ordeal of gradual emancipation, through which the people of Missouri have passed, which has laid waste her fields, and expelled from their homes and caused the murder of many of her best citizens.

On motion of Mr. BUSH, the resolution of Mr. Bonham, and the substitutes therefor, were referred to a select committee of five, to be appointed by the Chair.

On motion of Mr. WILLIAMS of Caldwell, Mr. Barr was allowed to record his vote on the Ordinance of Emancipation, which he recorded in the affirmative.

On motion of Mr. WILLIAMS of Caldwell, Mr. Barr was added to the Committee on Militia.

Mr. D'OENCH offered the following ordinance relative to banks and banking houses:

Be it ordained by the People of Missouri, in Convention assembled:

1. The General Assembly shall not have power to establish or incorporate any bank, or banking company, or moneyed institution, for the purpose of issuing bills of credit, or bills payable to order or bearer.

2. Corporations not possessing banking powers or privileges may be formed under general laws, but shall not be created by special acts, except for municipal purposes, and in cases where, in the judgment of the General Assembly, the objects of the corporation can not be attained under general laws.

3. The charters granted to banks of issue are hereby revoked; but, for the purpose of liquidation, they are permitted to continue their business until the first day of July, 1866, when they shall cease to exist.

On motion of Mr. BUSH, this ordinance was referred to the Committee on Banks.

On motion of Mr. DRAKE, the article on Declaration of Rights was made the special order of business at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

On motion, the Convention adjourned until 3 o'clock p. m.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Convention met pursuant to adjournment, the President in the chair.

A quorum being present, the Convention proceeded to business.

The PRESIDENT announced the following as the special committee to whom was referred Mr. Bonham's resolution, and the substitutes therefor: Messrs. Bush, Bonham, Green, Strong, and Barr.

Mr. MARTIN offered the following resolutions:

Resolved, 1. That all persons now holding, or who may hereafter hold, any real or personal property in trust for the uses and purposes of schools, academies, colleges, or other institutions of learning, or for purposes of religious worship, or for charitable or benevolent objects; and all officers and teachers in any institution of learning, and all ministers, ordained or licensed preachers, of any religious denomination, shall, within thirty days after the passage of this ordinance, and otherwise before entering on the duties of their several stations, take and subscribe an oath that they have not at any time taken up arms against the Government of the United States, or the State of Missouri, nor in any manner given aid or comfort, by word, deed, writing, or otherwise, to the enemies of the United States, or the State of Missouri.

2. All persons now holding any of the positions named in the foregoing article, who fail to take and subscribe the oath therein set forth, within thirty days after the passage of this ordinance, or who may at any time have enrolled themselves as disloyal, shall thereafter cease to hold or exercise any of the duties or functions of these several stations, and the proper courts may fill the vacancies that may be thus created in any board of trustees.

3. Any person who may be convicted of taking the said oath falsely, shall be punished as for perjury, in such manner as the Legislature may prescribe by law.

On motion, the resolutions were read the second time and ordered to be referred to the Committee on Elective Franchise.

Mr. NEWGENT presented the following petition from the loyal citizens of Platte county, Mo., which was read for information, viz:

To the Honorable the President and members of the Convention of the State of Missouri:

The undersigned, the loyal citizens of the county of Platte, respectfully represent that the courthouse and jail of the said county have been destroyed by fire, and the County Court of said county desire soon to rebuild the same; that the seat of justice of the said county has been located at Platte City for more than ten years, and can not be removed except by the present oppressive and prohibitory law, or by ordinance of your honorable body; that the loyal men of the county, almost without exception, earnestly desire and now petition for an immediate and peremptory removal and change of said seat of justice, and its permanent location in the city of Weston.

The undersigned would further represent that, in consequence of Platte City being situated in the interior of the county, and in the midst of a population almost unanimous against our national and State governments, among whom bushwhackers and guerrillas have been persistently maintained, the records of the county are in constant danger of destruction so long as they are kept in said place, and loyal men are in danger at times when going to said place to examine the same, or to attend the several courts. These bands of guerrillas have prevented the sessions of our courts at different times—have once arrested our Circuit Judge when attempting to hold court, and at our last fall term it was unsafe and impracticable to hold court without a constant escort of the court by a large military force.

The present law prohibits the loyal men from removing the county seat, until they have paid the disloyalists for their property at the present county seat; and as we do not desire to reward these for keeping the county seat so long in the hands of rebels and traitors, we do not propose to buy their property, which, in most cases, if justice were done, would be forfeited to the Government for treason.

We therefore most earnestly pray your honorable body, whatever may be your disinclination to this class of business, to do that for us which no other body can effectively and lawfully do.

WESTON, Jan. 9, 1865.

(Signed by 905 names.)

Mr. NEWGENT offered the following resolution, which was not agreed to:

Resolved, That the petition of the loyal citizens of Platte county be referred to a select committee of five, to be appointed by the President, with instructions to inquire into the expediency of reporting an ordinance that will secure the object sought by said petitioners.

Upon motion, the petition offered by Mr. Newgent was referred to the Committee on the Legislative Department.

Mr. BARR offered the following ordinance, which was read the first and second time, and referred to the Committee on the Judicial Department:

AN ORDINANCE TO ABOLISH CERTAIN PENALTIES.

Be it ordained by the People of the State of Missouri, by their Delegates in Convention assembled, as follows:

1. That all penalties and causes of action which may heretofore have accrued to, or which may have been incurred by, any person or persons, or by any incorporated company, or body corporate, by reason of the violation of any statute in relation to the transportation of slaves, are hereby annulled and forever abolished; and all suits now pending for the recovery, or enforcement of any and every penalty, or cause of action, are hereby declared to be abated.

Mr. BUDD offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

Resolved, That the Committee on Printing be instructed to cause 200 copies of all ordinances or other matter to be laid before the Convention, instead of 100 copies, as heretofore ordered.

Mr. SMITH of Worth offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Committee on Printing cause to be published 4,900 copies of the Ordinance of Emancipation, as engrossed, with the names of the members of the Convention, and vote of each member opposite his name, upon its passage, duly certified by the President and Secretary, for the use of the members of this body.

Mr. OWENS moved to amend the resolution by striking out "4,900" and inserting "71,000."

Mr. FLETCHER moved to lay the resolution and amendment on the table.

Upon this motion, the ayes and noes were demanded, and the vote being taken, stood as follows:

AYES—Messrs. Bush, Davis of New Madrid, Drake, Esther, Evans, Fletcher, Fulkerson, Gamble, Gilbert of Lawrence, Gilbert of Platte, Green, Harris, Holland, Hume, King, Leonard, Linton, Martin, Morton, Nixdorf, Owen, Rankin, Rohrer, St. Gem, Sutton, Switzler, Thilenius, Williams of Caldwell, and Williams of Scotland—29.

NOES—Messrs. Barr, Bedford, Bonham, Budd, Childress, Clover, Cowden, Davis of Nodaway, Dodson, D'Oench, Ellis, Filley, Folmsbee, Grammer, Henderson, Holcomb, Husmann, McKernan, McPherson, Mack, Meyer, Mitchell, Newgent, Peck, Smith of Mercer, Smith of Worth, Strong, Swearingen, and Mr. President—29.

ABSENT—Messrs. Adams, Bunce, Foster, Gilstrap, Holdsworth, Hughes, and Weatherby—7.

So the motion to lay on the table was lost.

On motion, Mr. OWENS' amendment was then rejected.

The question then being on the adoption of the resolution offered by Mr. SMITH of Worth, Mr. ST. GEM demanded the ayes and noes, which being taken, the vote stood as follows:

AYES—Messrs. Barr, Bedford, Bonham, Budd, Childress, Clover, Cowden, Davis of Nodaway, D'Oench, Ellis, Filley, Folmsbee, Fulkerson, Grammer, Henderson, Holcomb, Husmann, McKernan, McPherson, Mack, Martin, Mitchell, Newgent, Peck, Rohrer, St. Gem, Smith of Mercer, Smith of Worth, Strong, Sutton, Williams of Caldwell, and Mr. President—32.

NOES—Messrs. Bush, Davis of New Madrid, Dodson, Drake, Esther, Evans, Fletcher, Gamble, Gilbert of Lawrence, Gilbert of Platte, Green, Harris, Holland, Hume, King, Leonard, Linton, Morton, Nixdorf, Owens, Rankin, Swearingen, Switzler, Thilenius, and Williams of Scotland—25.

ABSENT—Messrs. Adams, Bunce, Foster, Gilstrap, Holdsworth, Hughes, Meyer, and Weatherby—8.

So the resolution, as offered by Mr. Smith of Worth, was adopted.

Mr. MACK offered the following resolution, which was read the first and second time, and referred to the Committee on the Judicial Department:

A RESOLUTION TO CREATE COURTS OF APPEAL.

Resolved, That the Committee on the Judicial Department be instructed to inquire into the expediency of creating courts of appeal, said courts to be composed of the judges of the circuit courts of the State; the State to be divided into districts; each district to consist of five judicial circuits; the judges of the said circuits to be the judges of the said courts of appeal, who shall hear and determine all writs of error and appeal from the circuit courts of their districts; and that writs of error and appeals shall alone be taken from said courts of appeal to the Supreme Court of this State.

Mr. GREEN offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

Resolved, That the regular hours for the assembling of this Convention shall be 10 o'clock A. M., and 3 o'clock P. M.

Mr. HOLLAND offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That we most heartily approve of General Dodge's General Order No. 7, believing, as we do, that the only way to give to the loyal people of Missouri that security and protection to which they are justly entitled, and which alone can secure the peace and prosperity of the State, is to hold the rebels, and their sympathizers at home, to a rigid responsibility and accountability for the outrages committed by their friends, the bushwhackers and rebel marauders. And on behalf of the Union-loving people, we tender General Dodge our thanks for the decided step he has inaugurated, and pledge him a cheerful and cordial co-operation in carrying his order into effect throughout the State.

Mr. NEWGENT moved the adoption of the resolution, and demanded the ayes and noes thereon, which being taken, the vote stood as follows:

AYES—Messrs. Barr, Bedford, Bonham, Budd, Bush, Childress, Cowden, Davis of Nodaway, Dodson, D'Oench, Drake, Ellis, Esther, Evans, Fletcher, Folmsbee, Fulkerson, Gamble, Gilbert of Lawrence, Gilbert of Platte, Gilstrap, Grammer, Green, Harris, Henderson, Holcomb, Holland, Hume, Husmann, King, Leonard, Linton, McKernan, McPherson, Mack, Martin, Mitchell, Morton, Newgent, Nixdorf, Owen, Peck, Rankin, Rohrer, St. Gem, Smith of Mercer, Smith of Worth, Strong, Sutton, Swearingen, Switzler, Thilenius, Williams of Caldwell, Williams of Scotland, and Mr. President—55.

NOES—None.

ABSENT—Messrs. Adams, Bunce, Clover, Davis of New Madrid, Filley, Foster, Holdsworth, Hughes, Meyer, and Weatherby—10.
So the resolution was unanimously adopted.

Mr. DRAKE offered the following resolution:

Resolved. That the President of this Convention appoint a committee of three to wait on Major General Dodge, and present him with a copy of the resolution as offered by Mr. Holland this day, and unanimously adopted by this body.

The resolution was adopted, and the President appointed Messrs. Drake, Holland, and Davis of Nodaway, as said committee.

On motion, the Convention adjourned until to-morrow at 10 o'clock.

NINTH DAY.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 18th, 1865.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment, the President in the chair.

Prayer by Rev. Mr. Snead.

Journal of yesterday's proceedings read.

Mr. GILBERT of Lawrence stated that he was not absent, but voted in the affirmative for laying on the table the resolution offered by Mr. Smith of Worth, yesterday, relative to having the Ordinance of Emancipation printed. His vote was so ordered to be recorded, and the vote on that proposition then stood, 29 affirmative to 29 negative.

Journal of proceedings approved.

Mr. DRAKE called for the regular order of the day, being the article on Declaration of Rights.

Upon motion of Mr. STRONG, the Convention resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole for the purpose of taking under consideration amendments to the Constitution. After some time spent therein, the President resumed the chair, and Mr. NEWGENT reported that the Committee of the Whole had, according to order, had under consideration amendments to the Constitution, and particularly the article on Declaration of Rights, but had come to no resolution thereon.

Mr. GREEN, Chairman of the Committee on the Executive Department, presented the following report and accompanying article:

To the President and Gentlemen of the Convention:

Your Committee on the Executive Department beg leave to submit herewith their report, which has been in all particulars agreed to by the majority of the committee. Two members of the committee dissenting therefrom only because of the employment of the word "white" in two sections of the article. The majority recommend the adoption of the article herewith reported, as a part of the Constitution of the State. It will be perceived that we have made but few alterations in the article as it at present stands in the Constitution, preferring to adopt it as it is in every respect, where we did not deem a change necessary.

All of which is most respectfully submitted.
M. P. GREEN, Chairman.

St. Louis, January 18, 1865.

ARTICLE IV.

SECTION 1. The supreme executive power shall be vested in a chief magistrate, who shall be styled "The Governor of the State of Missouri."

SEC. 2. The Governor shall be at least thirty-five years old, a white male citizen of the United States ten years, and a resident of the State of Missouri seven years, next before his election.

SEC. 3. The Governor shall hold his office four years, and until a successor be duly elected and qualified. At the time and place of voting for members of the House of Representatives, the qualified electors shall vote for a Governor; and when two or more persons have an equal number of votes, and a higher number than any other person, the election shall be decided between them by a joint vote of both houses of the General Assembly, at their next session.

SEC. 4. The Governor shall be ineligible for the next four years after the expiration of his term of service.

SEC. 5. The Governor shall be commander-in-chief of the militia and navy of this State, except when they shall be called into the service of the United States; but he need not command in person unless advised to do so by a resolution of the General Assembly.

SEC. 6. The Governor shall have power to remit fines and forfeitures, and, except in cases of impeachment, to grant reprieves and pardons. He shall take care that the laws be distributed and faithfully executed, and shall be a conservator of the peace throughout the State.

SEC. 7. The Governor shall, from time to time, give to the General Assembly information relative to the state of the government, and shall recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall deem necessary and expedient. On extraordinary occasions he may convene the General Assembly by proclamation, and shall state to them the purposes for which they are convened.

SEC. 8. When any office shall become vacant, the Governor, unless otherwise provided by law, shall appoint a person to fill such vacancy, who shall continue in office until a successor shall be duly elected or appointed, and qualified according to law.

SEC. 9. Every bill which shall have been passed by both houses of the General Assembly, before it become a law, shall be presented to the Governor for his approbation. If he approve, he shall sign it; if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the house in which it shall have originated; and the house shall cause the objections to be entered at large on its journals, and shall proceed to reconsider the bill. After such reconsideration, if a majority of all the members elected to that house shall agree to pass the same, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall, in like manner, be reconsidered, and, if approved by a majority of all the members elected to that house, it shall become a law. In all such cases the votes of both houses shall be taken by ayes and noes; and the names of the members voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journals of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the Governor within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall become a law in like manner as if the Governor had signed it, unless the General Assembly, by its adjournment, shall prevent its return; in which case it shall not become a law, unless the Governor, after such adjournment, and within ten days after the bill was presented to him (Sundays excepted), shall sign and deposit the same in the office of the Secretary of State; in which case it shall become a law, in like manner as if it had been signed by him during the session of the General Assembly.

SEC. 10. Every resolution, to which the concurrence of the Senate and House of Representatives may be necessary, except on questions of adjournment, and of amending this Constitution, shall be presented to the Governor; and, before the same shall take effect, shall be proceeded upon in the same manner as in the case of a bill.

SEC. 11. The Governor shall, at stated times, receive for his services an adequate salary, to be fixed by law, which shall neither be increased nor diminished during his continuance in office.

SEC. 12. There shall be a Lieutenant Governor, who shall be elected at the same time, in the same manner, for the same term, and shall possess the same qualifications as the Governor.

SEC. 13. The Lieutenant Governor, by virtue of his office, shall be President of the Senate. In committee of the whole, he may debate on all questions; and when there is an equal division, shall give the casting vote in the Senate, and also in joint vote of both houses.

SEC. 14. When the office of Governor shall become vacant, by death, resignation, absence from the State, removal from office, refusal to qualify, impeachment, or otherwise, the Lieutenant Governor, or in case of like disability on his part, the President of the Senate pro tempore, or if there be no President of the Senate pro tempore, the Speaker of the House of Representatives shall possess all the powers and discharge all the duties of Governor, and shall receive for his services the like compensation, until such vacancy be filled, or the Governor, so absent or impeached, shall return, or be acquitted. And if at any time the President of the Senate or Speaker of the House of Representatives shall be the acting Governor, another presiding officer shall be chosen in his place by the body over which he presides.

SEC. 15. Whenever the office of Governor shall become vacant by death, resignation, removal from office, or otherwise, the Lieutenant Governor, or other person exercising the powers of Governor for the time being, so soon as may be, shall cause an election to be held to fill such vacancy, giving three months' previous notice thereof; and the person elected shall not thereby be rendered ineligible to the office of Governor for the next succeeding term. Nevertheless, if such vacancy shall happen within eighteen months of the end of the term for which the late Governor shall have been elected, no such election shall be held to fill such vacancy.

SEC. 16. The Lieutenant Governor, or President of the Senate pro tempore, while presiding in the Senate, shall receive the same compensation as shall be allowed to the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

SEC. 17. There shall be a Secretary of State, a State Auditor, a State Treasurer, and an Attorney General, who shall be elected by the qualified voters of the State at the same time, in the same manner, and for the same term of office as the Governor. No person shall be eligible to either of said offices unless he be a white male citizen of the United States, and at least twenty-five years old, and shall have resided in this State five years next before his election. The Secretary of State, the Auditor, the State Treasurer, and the Attorney General shall keep their respective offices at the seat of Government, and shall perform such duties as may be required of them by law.

SEC. 18. The returns of all elections of Governor, Lieutenant Governor, and of other State officers, shall be made to the Secretary of State, in such manner as may be prescribed by law.

SEC. 19. Contested elections of Governor and Lieutenant Governor shall be decided by joint vote of both houses of the General Assembly, in such manner as may be prescribed by law.

SEC. 20. Contested elections of Secretary of State, State Auditor, State Treasurer, and Attorney General, shall be decided before such tribunal and in such manner as may be by law provided.

SEC. 21. The Secretary of State shall, as often as may be necessary, procure the seal of State, with such emblems and devices as are now established by law, which shall not be subject to change. It shall be called the "Great Seal of the State of Missouri;" it shall be kept by the Secretary of State; and all official acts of the Governor, his approbation of the laws excepted, shall be thereby authenticated.

SEC. 22. The Secretary of State shall keep a register of the official acts of the Governor, and, when necessary, shall attest them; and shall lay copies of the same, together with copies of all papers relating thereto, before either house of the General Assembly, whenever required to do so.

SEC. 23. No money shall be drawn from the treasury but in pursuance of appropriations made by law; and an accurate account of the receipts and expenditures of the public moneys shall be published annually, and a strict accountability therefor enforced.

SEC. 24. There shall be elected, by the qualified voters in each county, at the time and places of electing representatives, a sheriff and a coroner. They shall serve for

MR. HUSMANN, of the Committee on Executive Department, submitted the following minority report:

The undersigned, members of the Committee on Executive, beg leave to submit the following minority report:

We cordially agree with the majority of the committee, in all the propositions submitted by them to your honorable body, except in including the single word "white" in sections 2 and 23 of article 4, which we wish to see omitted. In differing thus from the majority of the committee, we beg leave to state that we do so not from petty inclination to cavil or strife, but because we believe that one all-merciful God is the Father of all, and that, before Him, all men are equal; that we act in accordance with His will, as well as with the dictates of our conscience, and the views of our constituents, by protesting against any distinction, to be made in the organic law henceforth to govern the free State of Missouri, between white, black, red, or brown, but that all are equal. We hold that we were not sent here to pander to a prejudice which may unfortunately exist, but to deal equal justice to all, without regard to color.

With all due deference and kindly feeling toward the views of the other members of the committee, we beg leave to enter our most solemn protest against inserting the word "white" in any of the articles of the new Constitution of our State, which we still hope and pray will be a model of justice to all. We are not afraid that a colored citizen will ever be an aspirant to the office of Governor, or any other State office; but should it be so, should he—though sprung from a race systematically kept in ignorance by the tyranny of the white man—still be the superior of his white competitor, in qualification or talent, we do not wish that he should be barred out because, unfortunately, his skin was not as white.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

GEORGE HUSMANN,
G. C. THILENIUS,

of his own body alive, justly belongs to the State of Missouri forever; and

OFFICE SECRETARY OF STATE, MISSOURI, }
City of Jefferson, January 19, 1865. }

Hon. A. KREKEL, President of the State Convention, St. Louis, Mo.:

SIR—In obedience to a resolution adopted by the State Convention, I have the honor to submit the enclosed abstract of votes cast in the several counties of the State at the last November election "for" and "against" a "State Convention," as returned to this office. The Fifteenth Senatorial District, composed out of the counties Johnson, Henry, Benton and St. Clair, returned the vote "for" and "against" a "State Convention," as cast in the whole Senatorial District, consequently I am not able to furnish the vote of these counties separately.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant.

Alexander, Provost Marshal General of Missouri, which were received and read, and, on motion of Mr. DRAKE, ordered to be printed for the use of the Convention:

Mr. PRESIDENT—The special committee appointed to memorialize the President of the United States, concerning our quota and the coming draft, beg leave to make the following report:

We have had the matters referred to us under careful consideration, and find that notwithstanding corrections are being constantly made in our enrollments, and that our quotas are assigned from the latest corrected returns, and not from any original enrollment, still, our enrollments, which were largely in excess of our available arms-bearing population, when first made, have never been fully corrected, and we are constrained to believe that a correct enrollment would show a total much less than the numbers apparent on our present roll: we, therefore, recommend the adoption of the accompanying memorials to the President of the United States and the Assistant Provost Marshal of Missouri.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. WILLIAMS,
W. S. HOLLAND, } Committee.
E. SMITH.

SMALL HALL, MERCANTILE LIBRARY, }
St. Louis, Mo., January 31, 1865. }

His Excellency ABRAHAM LINCOLN, President of the United States:

The Constitutional Convention, now in session in St. Louis, on behalf of the people of Missouri beg leave respectfully to represent that, after a very patient and careful investigation into the number of soldiers we have furnished the Government, and the probable arms-bearing population of the State at the present time, we think we are justified in submitting for your consideration the following facts:

At the Presidential election in 1860, this State gave a total vote of 165,518, which has been diminished by the rebels going south, by the bushwhackers, by the Union men murdered at their homes, by the soldiers who have died in the service, by all the disloyal who have gone to other States to escape military duty in this, and by all the Union men who have been compelled to seek refuge in other States, because they could not safely live here.

Notwithstanding all these heavy drains on our population, we have furnished, up to December 31, 1864, to the Government, 83,466 men; but these heavy drains have rapidly reduced our population, as is clearly shown by the election returns of the last Presidential election, at which we only polled 103,302 votes, or 62,216 less than at the beginning of this war.

Our present enrollment represents this State as having, subject to military duty, 158,915, to which add the number of soldiers now in the United States service, about 38,000, which foots up 196,915, or 31,397 more than we had voters at the outbreak of this rebellion, notwithstanding we have sustained a loss of 62,216 voters.

Now, again, take the vote of November 8, 1864, which was 103,302; subtract from this our soldier vote, which can not be arrived at precisely, but we put it at the low estimate of 16,000, which leaves our civil voting strength at 87,302, or 71,613 less than our enrollment.

These figures, which imply that we have almost twice as many fighting men as voters, clearly demonstrate, as we think, that our present enrollment is largely in excess of our real arms-bearing population.

This excess is attributable to the fact that at the time of our first enrollment many thousands of rebels in the rebel army and in the bush were enrolled because their families were here; and many thousands of Union men and rebels have changed their homes since, which changes have not yet been noted on our enrollments, owing to the difficulty of getting corrections made.

While we are proud to say that, so far as our loyal people are concerned, there is not in this government a more Union-loving people, or a people who are more willing to give the last man and the last dollar, if necessary, to sustain the government, yet we wish to call your attention to the peculiar and suffering condition of the people of this State.

You will bear in mind that at the beginning of the second year of this war almost, if not quite, half of our people were disloyal, and the men who have been cheerfully given to fill up the Union armies have been taken almost exclusively from the Union element—the disloyal going either to the rebel army, into the brush, to other States to avoid militia duty, or remaining at home, protected by the Federal arms, and fearing nothing from rebels or bushwhackers.

Our Union men have not only cheerfully gone into the Federal armies—they have also done all the efficient militia service in the State, which has, at times, required the active service, in the field, of every able-bodied Union man in the State; and with all the Federal forces we have had, assisted by the militia of the State and at times by thousands of Union citizens not subject to military duty, we have not been able to afford that protection to Union men which would make them secure in their persons and property; in consequence of which thousands of them have left their homes and gone to seek that security and safety in other States which we are unable to afford them in this; and large numbers are now fixing to leave different parts of the State, because of the troubles apprehended during the coming summer and fall. From many counties the Union men have gone into the service until the few left among the many rebels have no adequate power to protect themselves.

If the draft could take largely from the disloyal population, which has furnished very few men, we could fill our present quota and then feel stronger and more secure than we do now; but most of the rebels drafted either furnish loyal substitutes, or run off to evade the service, and hence nearly all the men furnished are from the Union ranks.

We need every loyal man within our borders for home protection, they being the only portion of our population worth any thing for militia service or home defense.

Every loyal Missourian is a soldier, and they, knowing our country, the people, and our wants, are worth a great deal more for our protection from guerrillas than any soldiers from abroad can be.

We do not require any special favors to keep our loyalty alive, but in view of the past, present and prospective sufferings of the loyal people of Missouri—she being a weaker and more afflicted sister in the great family of States—we almost feel that we have a right to expect to be treated with a little more tenderness and favor than some of our stronger sisters.

In conclusion, while we feel that our own safety requires the complete organization and co-operation of every Union man in the State, at home, still we will not ask to be excused from a draft if, in your judgment, the good of the nation requires it. We do, however, most respectfully ask that the draft may be suspended until we can have a complete and thorough re-enrollment of the State made wherever it is necessary. And we would further ask, if not inconsistent with the public good, that Missouri soldiers may be assigned to the duty of protecting her borders.

SMALL HALL, MERCANTILE LIBRARY, }
St. Louis, January 30, 1865. }

Colonel E. B. ALEXANDER, Provost Marshal
General of Missouri:

The Constitutional Convention now assembled in the city of St. Louis, knowing that in a great many counties in this State the original enrollments included numbers of men then in the rebel army and in the bush, as well as every class and condition of the physically disabled; and that great numbers have left the State since they were enrolled; and that, owing to the great distance of many counties from the headquarters of boards of enrollment, and the consequent trouble and expense to individuals of getting their names stricken from the rolls, persons who are clearly entitled to exemption, if drafted, can not be expected to be at the trouble and expense of going to the board for examination; and the corrections of the rolls, being the business of everybody, have to a great extent been neglected by everybody; therefore, that this important matter may not be left to chance, we have to ask that, if within your power, you will send to every county in the State, where it has not been done, an enrolling board, who can pass not only on the non-residence and alienage of parties, but also on their physical disabilities.

Mr. BUSH, chairman of the Committee on

Banks, presented the following report, which was read, and two hundred copies ordered to be printed for the use of the Convention:

The Committee on Banks, to which was referred the eighth article of the Constitution, has had the same under consideration, and instructed me to report that, in the opinion of your committee, a change in regard to the creation and further continuance of banks in this State is demanded alike by the almost unanimous voice of its loyal citizens against those banks, and by the patriotic desire to support the nation and Government in the creation of a national system of banking. Upon examination of the subject of banks, as corporate bodies, your committee found that the provisions concerning other corporations are so indissolubly connected with it, that it felt authorized to report an article on banks and corporations; the more so as no committee on corporations has been appointed by this Convention, and as other State Constitutions, almost without exception, treat on the subject of both banks and corporations, in the article herewith proposed for your adoption, in lieu of the eighth article of the present Constitution:

ARTICLE —.

Banks and Corporations.

SECTION 1. No corporate body shall hereafter be created, renewed, or extended, with the privilege of making, issuing, or putting in circulation any notes, bills, or other paper, or the paper of any other bank to circulate as money, and the Legislature shall prohibit, by law, individuals or corporations from issuing bills, checks, tickets, promissory notes, or other paper, as money; but nothing herein contained shall be construed as preventing corporations or associations from forming for such purposes, under the acts of Congress, for a national system of banking.

SEC. 2. No bank of issue established under the laws of this State shall, after the adoption of this Constitution, issue bills or notes of any denomination, or pay out any of its notes for circulation; but they may receive and pay out the national currency. Any bank of issue violating this provision, shall forfeit its charter, and the Legislature shall, at its first session after the adoption of this Constitution, impose proper penalties upon persons or corporations engaged in the violation of the foregoing provision.

SEC. 3. It shall be the duty of the General Assembly, at its first session after this Constitution goes into effect, to enact laws, enabling any of the existing banks of issue to reorganize as national banks, under the act of Congress, and further to provide for the sale of the stock owned by the State of Missouri in the Bank of the State of Missouri, upon such terms and conditions as shall be by law established.

SEC. 4. The State shall not hereafter become a stockholder in any bank; nor shall the credit of the State ever be given or loaned in aid of any person, association, or corporation, nor shall the State hereafter become a stockholder in any corporation or association.

SEC. 5. The General Assembly shall not authorize any county, city, or incorporated district, by virtue of a vote of its citizens, or otherwise, to become hereafter a stockholder in any company, association, or corporation, or to loan its credit to any corporation, association, institution, or party.

SEC. 6. Corporations may be formed under general laws, but shall not be created by special acts, except for municipal purposes. All general laws and special acts passed pursuant to this section, may be altered, amended, or repealed.

SEC. 7. No municipal corporation, except cities, shall be created by special act; and no city shall be incorporated with less than five thousand permanent inhabitants, nor unless the people thereof, by a direct vote upon the question, shall have decided in favor of such incorporation.

SEC. 8. Dues from private corporations shall be secured by such means as may be prescribed by law, and the stockholders of all corporations and joint stock companies shall be individually liable for the indebtedness of said corporations to the amount of their stock subscribed and unpaid, and no more.

SEC. 9. The property of all corporations for pecuniary profit shall be subject to taxation, the same as that of individuals.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment, the President in the chair.

Mr. HOLDSWORTH requested leave of absence for three days, which was granted.

On motion of Mr. HOLLAND, the Convention resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole, to consider the amendments to the Constitution. After some time spent therein, the committee rose, and Mr. MCKERNAN reported that the committee had, according to order, had under consideration amendments to the Constitution, and especially the article on Elections and Qualifications of Voters, Officers and others, but had come to no resolution thereon.

On motion of Mr. GREEN, the Convention adjourned until half-past 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 4th, 1865.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment, the President in the chair.

Prayer by Rev. J. F. Gublemann.

Mr. BUDD, Chairman of the Committee on Finance, presented the following report of said committee, which was read for information, and, on motion of Mr. DRAKE, received, and five hundred copies of the report ordered to be printed in pamphlet form, and two hundred copies of accompanying bill in usual form:

The committee to whom was referred the present depressed condition of the finances of the State, with implied instructions to devise, if possible, ways and means to resuscitate her credit, and finally to liquidate the principal and interest of her indebtedness, beg leave to submit, for the consideration of the Convention, the following report:

Missouri was born into the sisterhood of States in the year 1821, and, in the judgment of your committee, she has been a sinful and sickly child since the day of her birth—forty-five years ago. Sinful, because she has held, by the will of the people, a portion of her children in bondage for a period of more than forty years, and valued their bodies, under the assessment law of the State, as so many sheep and oxen, for the purpose of imposing a tax (amounting, in 1860, to $88,000) on their current value, to support, in part, the Government of the State; and sickly, as the institution of human slavery within her borders has operated to paralyze her industry, and, as a consequence, to prostrate her credit beyond (as some think) redemption.

Happily, on the 11th of January last, God, in His infinite mercy, put it into the hearts of the people—operating through their representatives on this floor—to blot out from the statute-book of the State all laws designed to hold human beings in bondage, and to declare Missouri, then and forever, a free commonwealth; and, having thus purged ourselves of the crime of slavery, may we not hope that the blessing of Him who holds in the hollow of his hand the destiny of states and nations will in the future rest on this people, in their efforts to inaugurate a system tending to advance the State in all her moral, political and pecuniary interests? The moral and political questions submitted to this body by the people we represent, of abolishing slavery and disfranchising rebels of their right of suffrage—hitherto exercised in attempts to throttle the life of the State and the Nation—having been passed on by the Convention, it now remains for your committee to endeavor to devise ways and means to pay the principal and interest on the great public debt of the State; and, if this can be accomplished within a reasonable period, her patient creditors will doubtless award to the Convention as full a meed of praise as the people of the loyal free States have awarded to it, for enacting the great charter of freedom. In the performance of this duty, the enlightened spirit which decreed her the role of a free State will, in the judgment of your committee, induce her people to accept any practicable proposition looking to the recovery and preservation of her good name in the great marts of the world, where her principal indebtedness is held. Your committee are therefore agreed that the time has arrived for action on the subject of our suspended indebtedness; and, further, that it is especially appropriate that the Convention which has liberated the State from her greatest moral and social evil should take measures to secure for her the character of a trustworthy and honest commonwealth.

According to the eighth census report, Missouri contains upwards of 43,000,000 acres of land, of which 28,000,000 are capable of cultivation, and the major portion of the remainder is filled with inexhaustible supplies of coal, iron, lead, and other minerals. Of our arable land only 6,246,871 acres were under improvement in 1860, so that 21,000,000 and over are open to an agricultural population. In 1861, of the whole real property of the State, 16,707,313 97-100 acres were assessed, leaving more than 11,000,000 arable, and 15,000,000 otherwise, exempt from taxation. Of the land so exempt about 6,000,000 acres may be estimated as unassigned to the State by the United States; 1,223,308 are held by railroad corporations; 5,000,000 are supposed to be held by the State; 1,200,000 are school lands, leaving apart from public grounds say 10,000,000, arable or mineral, subject to become sources of revenue under a more thorough system of assessment. Not alone has the basis of assessment been erroneously curtailed, but the assessment itself is confessedly irregular and defective. It is safe to say that an improved system, recognizing the increased value of real estate, owing to emancipation, would enlarge the basis of taxation $150,000,000 more than it was in 1860 ($335,900,700), and without working injustice to the people of the State. Any scheme, looking to the payment of the State debt, may, therefore, legitimately contemplate:

First—An increase of revenue from — acres heretofore unassessed.

Second—An increase of revenue from the sale of lands by the United States, or by railroad corporations, and the appreciation of property, heretofore assessed, or unassessed, owing to inevitable growth, or the stimulus of freedom, peace and immigration.

In the decade 1850 to 1860 the increased value of real estate in the State of Illinois was $715,595,276, or nearly four hundred and fifty-eight per cent. If it be urged that Illinois possessed advantages in an established system of free labor, untrammelled by civil war and a border situation, it may be answered that her population, during a greater part of the time, was little over one half our present numbers, that her territory is 12,000 miles less than ours, and that Missouri, as a free State, is now assured, by a radical policy, against the invasions which her slave labor system invited and encouraged. Assuming, however, that our growth of values for purposes of taxation should be as low as three hundred per cent., against four hundred and fifty-eight per cent. of that of Illinois, our valuation in ten years will be, in round figures, as follows:

1866.....	$ 480,000,000
1867.....	576,000,000
1868.....	672,000,000
1869.....	768,000,000
1870.....	864,000,000
1871.....	960,000,000
1872.....	1,056,000,000
1873.....	1,152,000,000
1874.....	1,248,000,000
1875.....	1,344,000,000

The problem to be solved is—giving this basis of taxation—how shall the principal debt of the State for railroads ($23,000,000) and $5,000,000 past due interest, and interest thereon, together with $4,000,000 military and floating debt, and interest thereon, be paid? Your committee are satisfied that no additional tax, higher than one-half of one per cent., can be levied and collected from the real and personal estate valuation for several years, without discouraging emigration and rendering the possession of property an almost unendurable burthen, even in view of an early peace and a rapid development of our agricultural interests. It is, therefore, considered impracticable to look for the payment of our railroad debt from this source. Such a tax, however, will, in the opinion of your committee, at present suffice to cancel the present military and floating debt of the State in eight years or less, if the stock in the State Bank ($1,303,000) be disposed of, and a tax of one per cent. be levied upon the capital of all private corporations which shall hereafter ask [of the Legislature, for their own pecuniary gains] franchises, which the State should sell, and not, as heretofore, give away! Your committee would, therefore, recommend:

First—That from and after the 1st day of October, 1866, a tax of one-half of one per cent. on all the real and personal property of the State, in addition to all other taxes now levied by law, be annually assessed and collected in the same manner as other State revenue may be assessed and collected; the fund so created to be kept separate, and annually, on the 1st day of March, appropriated and paid over pro rata upon all State indebtedness (other than railroad debt or interest), which may be presented for that purpose by the holders of the same, to be entered as credits, and to that intent, in extinguishment of the said indebtedness.

Second—That the State stocks in the Bank of the State of Missouri be disposed of, and the proceeds paid into the State treasury to the credit of the military fund, to be paid out as above.

Third—That a tax of one per cent., on not less than its par value, be assessed and collected on the authorized capital stock of all private corporations which shall hereafter obtain charter franchises from the State.

The first proposition is similar in most respects to the constitutional provision, article fifteen of the new constitution of Illinois, which enabled that noble State to relieve herself from nearly the whole burden of debt contracted prior to April 1st, 1848. The second is based on the conviction that the stock in the State Bank should be applied, at the earliest possible moment, to the payment of the military debt for which it is pledged, the new system of national banks rendering such investments anomalous and useless. The third is regarded as a legitimate means of securing some equivalent for the transfer of general franchises to particular citizens, it being understood that dividends are declared in successful corporations on the authorized as distinguished from the paid in stock.

If, the better to secure full returns from this additional general tax of one-half of one per cent., the Legislature be prohibited from exempting from taxation any species of property except that of the State, counties, and municipalities, property in use for public schools and public cemeteries, your committee feel assured that the debt contracted for other than railroad purposes will be paid off in the time stated, and without detriment to the current necessities of the State.

The payment of the railroad debt must be secured, in the opinion of your committee, by the railroads themselves; therefore, your committee propose to require the Iron Mountain, Pacific, North Missouri, and Hannibal and St. Jo. railroads to pay sixteen and two-thirds of their gross earnings (except on government freight) into the hands of a commissioner appointed by the State, and to allow them to charge twenty per cent. additional to their present rates on freight and passengers.

Assuming the gross earnings of the four roads to be $3,000,000, to March 1st, 1866—an estimate in which several of the most astute railroad directors agree—and to increase thereafter in the rates claimed by their respective companies, such an assessment will pay two per cent. on the railroad debt in the first year, three and a half in the second year, and, in the opinion of your committee, the fourth year (1870) six per cent.

Whenever it shall have reached this rate, and the principal debt shall have been reduced to fifteen millions of dollars, let it be enjoined that the railroads shall resume the payment of interest directly, the past due interest, and a portion of the principal having been meantime paid pro rata from the collections of the present railroad tax. Then let the railroad tax be abrogated, if it is deemed expedient in the wisdom of the General Assembly.

The propriety and efficacy of this scheme is sustained by the following considerations:

First—The real and personal property of the State is relieved from any additional tax on railroad account.

Second—The authorized advance in charges for freight and passengers will largely fall on non-residents, and on freight merely in transitu.

Third—Freight and trade can not be materially diverted, for only such comes as can find no other channel than one of the four roads for which the debt was contracted.

Fourth—The roads are not embarrassed by the impost (sixteen and two-third per cent.), for the increased rates allowed (twenty per cent.) bear an exact proportion to it.

Fifth—The claims of the stockholders, public and private, without being imperiled more than now, are properly subordinated to those of the creditors, to whom the faith of the State has been pledged.

Influenced by these reasons, and finding no other means so likely to retrieve the credit of the State—indeed, your committee believe, on the most mature consideration, that there is no other way of liquidating the present debt, except by levying a tax of at least three per cent. on the people of the State, and this, in the judgment of your committee, would be wholly inoperative—your committee would recommend:

First—That, on the 1st day of March, 1866, and every year thereafter, until the railroads shall resume payment of interest in full, and principal at maturity, the Iron Mountain, Pacific, North Missouri, and Hannibal and St. Joseph railroads shall pay into the hands of the commissioner appointed by the State, sixteen and two-thirds per cent. of their gross earnings (except as aforesaid on government freight) for the preceding year, to be paid out, pro rata, in extinguishment of the debt and interest contracted for railroad purposes.

Second—That the better to enable them to fulfill this obligation, from and after the 1st day of March next, they be allowed to increase their rates of freights and passengers twenty per cent., until such time as, besides having paid all current and past due principal, the debt shall be reduced to fifteen millions of dollars.

Third—That all tax collected on railroad account hereafter for the extinguishment of interest and principal of State bonds issued to the railroads shall be used pro rata.

Your committee are conscious of the difficulties presented in the advocacy of any attempt to resume payment of our suspended liabilities, and to continue meeting, at maturity, our prospective bond and interest indebtedness. The question of war or peace—of social order or embittering and wasting class and land controversies, arising out of the rebellion, enter so much into such calculations, and are so apt to be colored by our wishes and prepossessions, that the feasibility of any scheme is liable to suspicion, and open, apparently, to strong objections. The one proposed, however, is, in the judgment of the undersigned, the more to be favored, because its success depends less upon a sanguine view of affairs than any other which your committee could have devised.

First—It is predicated on an increased valuation of real and personal property, in the coming ten years, of one hundred and fifty-eight per cent. less than that of Illinois in the ten years from 1850 to 1860—superficies and population being, relatively, largely in the favor of our State.

Second—It requires the real estate interest of the State, now needing so much encouragement, to assume the payment of less than one-fifth of the accumulated debt, and for this purpose taxes it one-half of one per cent., an addition relatively small when we consider the object to be obtained.

Third—It places the burthen of debt where it belongs, on the railroads, and enables them to pay it, by advancing their fares and freightage, so that, when so advanced, these will still be less than the prevailing rates of increase in other branches of business.

Fourth—It affords the only guarantee for an early resumption of payments, without shifting the security of the stockholders and creditors, or lessening the ability of the roads to develop their facilities in proportion to their incomes.

Your committee will be pardoned for alluding to the specific legislation which is essential to the successful operation of this scheme.

First—An act to prevent omissions and inaccuracies of assessment, so that all the land in the State not held by the general government, by the State, by counties, municipal bodies; or in use for public schools and public cemeteries, shall contribute to the revenue, and be assessed at its full value. The fact that millions of acres have not been assessed, and other millions assessed at merely nominal instead of market rates, indicates the want of a more stringent law in this relation.

Second—A constitutional enactment, prohibiting the Legislature from exempting any property from tax other than State, county, and municipal, or property in use for free schools and public cemeteries. There is no valid reason, in the judgment of the committee, why churches, parsonages, private cemeteries, private hospitals, private academies, etc., or property not in use for public free schools, should not contribute to the payment of our State debt and expenses. Religious and charitable endowments of this sort are properly the result of voluntary contributions. Their exemption from tax is, in effect, their endowment by the State to the amount of the tax, and, in so far as the general community is concerned, is necessarily an involuntary one. The tax of a distant community should not be dependent upon, nor enlarged by, the exemption of the religious establishments and charities of another community. The custody of the criminal, the care of the destitute, the rudimentary free education of the young, are matters of common concern; but the founding of a church by a particular congregation, the erection of a private institution of benevolence, or the opening of a cemetery by private enterprise, should be at the expense of the parties contemplating them, and not of the State treasury. Besides, religion and philanthropy will really suffer nothing by a withdrawal of the customary immunity from taxation. The promises of future reward are proportioned to the sacrifices made in deserving it. Nor is it to be supposed that the hopes inspired by faith, or the consolation conferred by sympathy for suffering, will become the less dear by being taxed. Let it be understood that the support of the Government (the first duty the citizen owes to the State) is to be drawn from all property not in use under its direction for general objects, and private charity will accommodate itself to circumstances, just as it has succeeded in bearing the growing strain upon its largess, owing to the cost of living and the scarcity of labor. It is also due to the credit of religion, and the success of the charitable institutions already in existence, that religious and benevolent bodies which cannot afford to pay State tax, when the State is almost overwhelmed in debt, should regulate their enterprises by their assured means. Undertakings likely to be thwarted or imperiled by a system of taxation under which the community lives and thrives, had better be deferred until they can surmount even greater obstacles.

In conclusion, your committee have an abiding conviction that if the essential features of the plan now recommended be adopted by the Convention, and made part of the organic law of the State, it will do—

First—Justice to suffering but patient creditors, many of whom have purchased the State bonds at nearly their par value, and which, with accumulated unpaid interest, are worth on their face $1.25, but are now daily sold for sixty-five cents on the dollar! thus inspiring these creditors with the hope (and that hope predicated on a sound basis) that ere long their securities will be at par.

Second—It will avoid the necessity of a forced sale of the roads by the State, which, should it take place, would inevitably work a loss to the commonwealth of many millions of dollars.

Third—It will enable the roads rightfully to absolve themselves in a period of twenty-five years—which is but a day in the life of a State—from the pressing burden of a debt of twenty-eight millions of dollars, and that, too, without working injury to themselves or to the people of the State.

Fourth—It will, in a few years, make the credit of Missouri stand side by side with the credit of her sister State of Illinois, whose bonds, in 1847, sold at thirty-two cents on the dollar, but which are now sought for at par and a premium, the effect of a tax provision inserted in her organic law.

Fifth, and lastly—It will enable a father—an original subscriber—now holding almost worthless stock in at least three of these roads, to transmit the same as a legacy to his children, who, in after years, will, in the judgment of your committee, be in the receipt of six per cent. dividends from the same. We append (paper A) a detailed account of State indebtedness due and not due, for the information of the Convention.

Your committee having explained the result of their deliberations, see, they think, in the plan proposed, a certain means of relieving the State from debt, and report, for the action of the Convention, the following articles to be embodied in the Constitution of the State. Respectfully submitted,

GEO. K. BUDD, Chairman.

ARTICLE I.

Railroad Indebtedness.

First—The Pacific Railroad Company, and Southwest Branch, the North Missouri Railroad Company, the St. Louis and Iron Mountain Railroad Company, and the Hannibal and St. Joseph Railroad Company, are hereby required to pay an annual tax of sixteen and two-thirds per cent. on all their gross receipts for freight and passengers, except on transportation for the government of the United States, and may deduct out of the same the United States tax, and this tax shall begin on the 1st day of March, 1865, and be paid quarterly.

Second—The tax of sixteen and two-thirds per cent., to be paid by the Pacific Railroad Company, and Southwest Branch thereof, shall be paid into the hands of a commissioner, to be appointed by the Governor, who shall hold his office for four years from the date of his appointment, and until his successor is duly appointed and qualified, and his salary shall be $4,000 per annum, payable, pro rata, by the railroads, in proportion to their present State indebtedness, and the said commissioner shall enter into approved bonds to the State, for the faithful performance of his duties, in the sum of $100,000, and the said tax of sixteen and two-thirds per cent., when so paid to the said commissioner, shall be invested by him in buying up the State bonds or guarantee bonds, issued to the Pacific Railroad Company, with coupons attached, or to paying off the over due interest on the said bonds, the longest due, and all payable the same year, and such payments shall be continued until all coupons or bonds (except as hereinafter stipulated, 7th section) over due, are paid. The bonds and coupons thus canceled shall, by the commissioner, be delivered to the Auditor of the State, who shall give his receipt for the same, and it shall be his duty to credit the Pacific Railroad Company with the amount so canceled. When the tax of sixteen and two-thirds per cent. shall be paid into the hands of the commissioner, he shall issue to the railroad company, paying the tax, duplicate receipts, and the railroad company paying the same shall file one receipt with the Auditor, who shall charge the commissioner with the amount, and when the commissioner shall surrender to the Auditor the bonds or coupons, he shall receive credit for the same on the books of the Auditor.

Third—The tax of sixteen and two-thirds per cent., to be paid by the North Missouri Railroad Company, shall be paid to the commissioner aforesaid in the manner prescribed for the payment to the Pacific Railroad Company, and shall be by him invested in like manner as prescribed to the Pacific Railroad Company, to wit: to buying up the State bonds and paying off the coupons issued to the North Missouri Railroad Company, and the commissioner and Auditor shall give receipts and credits to the North Missouri Railroad Company in the manner hereinbefore prescribed to the said Pacific Railroad Company.

Fourth—The tax of sixteen and two-thirds per cent., to be paid by the St. Louis and Iron Mountain Railroad Company, shall be paid to the commissioner aforesaid in the manner prescribed to the Pacific Railroad Company, and shall be by him invested in like manner as prescribed to the Pacific Railroad Company, in buying up the State bonds and coupons issued to the St. Louis and Iron Mountain Railroad Company, and the commissioner and Auditor shall give receipts and credits to the St. Louis and Iron Mountain Railroad Company, as hereinbefore prescribed to the said Pacific Railroad Company.

Fifth—The Hannibal and St. Joseph Railroad Company shall pay to the said commissioner the tax of sixteen and two-thirds per cent., as required in section first, and the money paid in on account of said tax shall be by him invested in purchasing the bonds of the State issued to the Hannibal and St. Joseph Railroad Company, and the interest on said bonds shall be paid by said company as it becomes due, and the forfeiture of their charter, to which the Hannibal and St. Joseph Railroad Company is liable for having failed to pay the amount stipulated by law into the sinking fund of the State, is hereby waived, so long as the said company shall pay the said annual tax of sixteen and two-thirds per cent. and the interest on the bonds, until all State bonds issued to said company shall be canceled.

Sixth—The railroad companies hereinbefore named are hereby authorized to collect twenty per cent. more for freight and passengers than their ordinary rates, to reimburse themselves for the tax hereinbefore imposed on their gross receipts.

Seventh—As soon as the State indebtedness, present and contingent, for bonds issued to the railroads aforesaid, shall be reduced to the sum of fifteen millions of dollars, the tax of sixteen and two-thirds per cent. hereinbefore imposed shall cease, provided it shall be deemed expedient by the General Assembly, and the privilege given to the roads of collecting twenty per cent. from freight and passengers in addition to their ordinary charges shall also cease, and the different railroad companies shall simply be held liable to pay both principal and interest of the bonds granted to them by the State, or guaranteed by the State, as it shall mature.

Eighth—It shall be lawful for the four railroads named in the first section to exchange their own bonds for the first mortgage bonds of the State, or the first mortgage bonds of the Southwest Branch, guaranteed by the State, with coupons attached; each road, however, only for such bonds as were issued for same, and such bonds issued by any of the four roads, shall, upon the return to the Auditor of the State of the State bonds, or bonds guaranteed by the State, participate, pro rata, in the security the State now holds on the roads, but no sale of any of the four roads named in section first, under the mortgage to the State, shall take place before the year 1875, provided they comply with the injunction hereinbefore imposed on them to pay annually the tax of sixteen and two-third per cent., nor shall the exchange of bonds, as provided for in this section, be compulsory on the roads.

Ninth—The office of road commissioner shall be abolished when the railroad indebtedness shall be reduced to fifteen millions of dollars.

Bank Stock Owned by the State.

The commissioner to be appointed under section second of article on Railroad Indebtedness, is hereby authorized, with the concurrence of the Governor, whenever in his judgment it shall be deemed expedient, to sell the stock of the Bank of the State of Missouri, owned by the State, and deposit the proceeds in the treasury of the State, to be used in liquidating the military bonded indebtedness of the State, and for no other purpose whatever.

ARTICLE II.

Taxes.

First—In addition to the taxes already levied by law, there shall be levied and collected, in October, in the year 1866, and yearly thereafter, until it shall cease as provided in section second, a tax of one-half of one per centum per annum, on all property, real and personal, in the State (except property belonging to the United States or this State), property belonging to any municipal corporation in this State, or property belonging to any county, or property belonging to the Board of President and Directors of ——— St. Louis Public Schools, provided all property belonging to said Board of Public Schools, which shall be leased for a period of over five years, shall be liable to tax as other property. Public cemeteries shall be exempt from taxation, and all personal property owned by the Pacific Railroad Company, the North Missouri Railroad Company, the St. Louis and Iron Mountain Railroad Company, and the Hannibal and St. Joseph Railroad Company, shall be exempt from taxation—provided said companies comply with section first of Railroad Indebtedness—until the liabilities of these several corporations to the State shall be reduced to fifteen millions of dollars, and no longer.

Second—The taxes to be paid of one-half of one per cent., provided for in the first section, shall be paid only in the national currency of the United States, or in the currency issued by any bank authorized by act of Congress, denominated "National Banks;" or in the bonds of the State, other than bonds issued to the several railroads; in defense warrants, or in military bonds, or in any other authorized bonded indebtedness of the State. And when the indebtedness of the State—whether it be in bonds proper, military bonds, defense warrants, or floating indebtedness—shall be paid off, then this tax of one-half of one per cent. shall cease; and should the Government of the United States pay off or assume the payment of the military debt of the State, then the tax shall be reduced from one-half of one per cent. to one-tenth of one per cent.

Third—There shall be levied and collected annually, commencing in October, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, and be continued until the indebtedness of the State, present and contingent, shall be reduced to five millions of dollars, a tax of five per cent. on the gross cash premiums of all fire and marine mutual insurance companies, chartered by this State, having no authorized corporate capital stock; and affidavits shall be filed, by the presidents of such companies, with the collectors of the several counties where such insurance companies shall be located, setting forth the amount of premiums received by such insurance companies within the year.

Fourth—There shall be levied and collected annually, commencing in October, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, and be continued until the indebtedness of the State, present and contingent, shall be reduced to five millions of dollars, from all life insurance companies, whether chartered by this State, or by other States (when such foreign insurance companies shall have agencies in this State), a tax of five per cent. on the gross premiums realized during the year, whether the premiums shall be paid in money, or contingent notes given for such premiums or parts of premiums; and affidavits shall be filed, by the presidents of such companies, or the agents of such companies, with the collectors of the several counties where such insurance companies, or the agents of such companies, shall be located, setting forth the amount of premiums received by such life insurance companies, or their agents, within the year.

Fifth—Personal property in this State, other than that specified in section fourth, owned by non-residents of this State, shall not be liable to taxation.

Legislative Prohibitions.

First—The General Assembly shall have no power to increase the present bonded indebtedness of the State, until the said bonded indebtedness shall be reduced to the sum of five millions of dollars; Provided, The General Assembly shall have power, at any time, to borrow money to suppress insurrection, repel invasion, or to defend the State, in time of civil or foreign war, and may also borrow to meet casual deficiencies in her revenue, limited, however, to one hundred thousand dollars; or to build a State capital, in case of removal of the State capital from its present location; but such borrowing, for said latter purpose, shall not exceed five hundred thousand dollars, and no money shall be borrowed as aforesaid without the General Assembly shall first levy, by law, an annual tax, sufficient to pay such increase of indebtedness in ten years from the date of the State's liability.

Second—The General Assembly shall have no power to diminish the per centum tax, as at present authorized by law, until the bonds and warrants issued for military purposes, and the present floating debt of the State, shall be paid.

Third—The General Assembly shall have no power to grant acts of incorporation to individuals, for banks or other moneyed institutions, or for insurance companies, or for any business purposes, when such acts shall provide for capital stock, without enjoining on such corporators the payment of a tax of one per cent. per annum during the continuance of the charter on the capital stock named in the grant, and this tax shall be levied and collected in the county in which the corporation is located: Provided, when railroads are incorporated, the tax of one per cent. per annum shall be paid into the county treasury of St. Louis.

Fourth—The General Assembly shall have no power to exempt from taxation any property, real or personal, until the present debt of the State shall be reduced to five millions of dollars.

Legislature.

It shall be the duty of the General Assembly, at its first session after the adoption of this Constitution, to enact a law dividing the State into nine districts, each comprising from twelve to thirteen contiguous counties; and also providing for the appointment of nine commissioners, who shall hold their office for six years, whose duty it shall be to classify the lands of the State and equalize the value of the same for taxation.

Assessors.

Assessors shall value all real and personal property at what it will bring, in their judgment, if sold at public auction for cash.

To His Excellency the President of the United States, and the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States, in Congress assembled:

The Convention of this State respectfully memorialize you to grant to the State the means to pay her military debt; and base their application on the following facts:

That the whole of said debt has been incurred by the State in support of the General Government and the cause of the Union, and, without which expenditure on the part of the State the Government of the United States would have had to maintain a force, at greater expense, to protect the Union people of the State; that, in their efforts to remain in the Union and to perpetuate our Government, our people have had to bear great losses and burdens, with little ability to bear up under them; that our State has, for the last four years, been devastated by war, preventing the raising of crops or doing anything to enable them to pay taxes; that, in their effort to remain in the Union, this State has emancipated her people hitherto held in bondage, and, as a consequence, curtailed a portion of the labor of the State, and that this labor it will take time to replace; that, in consideration of our condition and the justice of the claim, we earnestly appeal to the Government to grant, without delay, the legislation necessary to enable us to discharge this debt in full.

Resolved by the Representatives of the People of the State of Missouri, in Convention assembled, That we do unqualifiedly approve, uphold and sustain President Lincoln in the declaration of those terms, and do thank him for so plainly laying down the only basis upon which, in our judgment, a peace can be made which will be honorable to the United States, permanent in its duration, and true to the cause of freedom.

THIRTY-THIRD DAY.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 15th, 1865.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment, the President in the chair.

Prayer by Rev. Mr. Cole.

Mr. DRAKE offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the people of Missouri, in authorizing, by a majority of more than thirty thousand votes, the holding of this Convention, and in electing the members thereof, in our opinion, intended and expected not only that slavery should be abolished and disloyalists disfranchised, but that the Constitution of this State, framed nearly forty-five years ago, for a slave State of less than seventy thousand inhabitants, should be carefully revised and amended, so as to adapt it to a free State of more than a million of inhabitants; and that such revision, amendment, and adaptation should be made in such manner as to the people's representatives here assembled should seem expedient.

Resolved, That we will proceed, as rapidly as may be consistent with due deliberation and proper care for the public good, to perform, in all its parts, the duty devolved upon us, confident that the people will not complain of the time occupied therein, and trusting that our work, when completed, will vindicate itself before them.

Mr. FOSTER offered the following as a substitute for the resolutions of Mr. Drake:

Resolved, That the loyal people of Missouri, in the opinion of this Convention, did not, at the election, and do not now, expect or desire us to revise or remodel the whole Constitution of the State; but, on the contrary, to adopt amendments on the subject of emancipation, and the disfranchisement of rebels, and such others as the public good demand, and adjourn.

Mr. BUSH offered the following as a substitute for the proposition of Mr. Foster, which Mr. Foster accepted:

Resolved, That the proceedings and debates of this Convention, during the past five weeks, have satisfied a majority of its members that this Convention should not attempt to amend the present old Constitution, except by such amendments as have become absolutely necessary: 1st, by changing this State from a slave State into a free State; and further, 2d, to protect the purity of the ballot-box; and lastly, such other amendments about which there is scarcely any diversity of opinion among us; and that we should refrain from all amendments about which this Convention is almost equally divided, and for which this time of war is by no means propitious.

Mr. BUSH moved to lay the original proposition and substitute on the table; on which motion Mr. DRAKE demanded the ayes and noes.

But since that day I have, at all times, faithfully adhered to my allegiance to the Government of the United States, and of the State of Missouri; I will Memorial to the Congress of the United States, asking the construction of the Southwest Branch of the Pacific Railroad, as a military necessity.

By an act of Congress, entitled "An act granting the right of way to the State of Missouri, and a portion of the public land, to aid in the construction of certain railroads in said State," approved June 10th, 1852, this State obtained one million of acres of the public lands, to aid in the construction of a railroad from St. Louis to the western border of the State, and these lands were appropriated by the State to construct said road, by applying them to the building of the road from St. Louis to Franklin, and thence, by what is called the Southwest Branch of the Pacific, to the western border of the State. One hundred and thirteen miles have been built, but their means becoming exhausted, and being unable to sell the lands at such prices as they should command, they have not been able to command the means to make any further progress. Could the road be completed through these lands, it is believed that the lands would very nearly pay the cost of construction, and if constructed, it would be of great advantage to the Government of the United States, in a military point of view, and would save to the Government much money in the cost of transportation.

Your memorialists will further report, that the southwestern portion of our State has been devastated every year since the rebellion began; that its inhabitants have been murdered, and driven from their homes and lands; that this portion of the State is now the property, in part, of helpless widows and orphans of murdered Union men; that the State has had, in a great measure, to relieve it from taxation, and that anything Congress should do for this portion of Missouri, would be serving the best interests of the Government, and taking care of the widows and orphans of those brave and good men who have given up their lives for their country. The heart sickens in contemplating the ruthless destruction that has been visited on this portion of our people—the monuments of chimneys, left to point where was once the happy home of a Union family, and the walls; the effect of persecution and suffering, which come up to us from this quarter of the State, should, in the judgment of your memorialists, command from the Government its every effort to give them some relief. The construction of this road would soon render this portion of the State again safe to live in. It would advance the value of the lands of the widows and orphans, who have now no homes, and they might be able to sell a portion of their property to rebuild their burnt houses, and purchase farming utensils and stock.

We believe, if the Government would build the road on condition the lands granted should be ceded back to the United States, that after the road was built the sales of the lands would go far toward reimbursing the Government, and would, perhaps, wholly pay the cost of construction.

In view of all the circumstances, we earnestly urge the Government to construct this road, and that the legislation required to construct it may be had at this session of Congress.

Mr. GILBERT of Platte presented a remonstrance from citizens of Platte county, against the removal of the county seat of said county, which, on motion of Mr. GILBERT, was read for information, and referred to the Committee on the Judicial Department.

Mr. MORTON asked leave of absence for Mr. Gilbert of Platte during this week, which was granted.

Mr. SMITH of Worth offered the following article on Jurisprudence, which was read the first and second time, and referred to the Committee on the Judicial Department.

SEC. 2. The said commissioners shall revise, reform, simplify, and abridge the practice, pleadings, forms, and proceedings of the courts of record of this State, and, as far as practicable and expedient, shall provide for the abolition of the distinct forms of action at law, now in use, and for the administration of justice by a uniform mode of proceeding, without reference to any distinction between law and equity.

Mr. HOLLAND moved that a committee of five be appointed, to whom shall be referred the thirteenth and fourteenth sections of the act for the organization and government of the Missouri militia, passed by the General Assembly at its present session.

After debate, Mr. HOLLAND withdrew his motion.

On motion of Mr. DRAKE, the Convention resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole, to resume the consideration of amendments to the Constitution. article on the Legislative Department, but had come to no resolution thereon.

Mr. GREEN offered the following amendment to said resolution:

Amend by striking out "Friday next," and inserting, in lieu thereof, "the first Wednesday in April next."

Mr. WEATHERBY moved that the committee report at 5 o'clock P. M., this day.

Mr. WEATHERBY withdrew his motion.

Mr. WILLIAMS of Caldwell moved that the committee consist of five members.

Mr. HUSMANN moved the committee be increased to nine, which was accepted by Mr. Williams of Caldwell, and on motion, the resolution was adopted.

The PRESIDENT appointed the following gentlemen as such committee: Messrs. Williams of Caldwell, Drake, Green, Newgent, St. Gem, Mack, Bedford, Morton, and Husmann.

On motion of Mr. HOLLAND, the Convention resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole to resume the consideration of amendments to the Constitution. After some time spent therein, the President resumed the chair, and Mr. FOLMSBEE reported that the committee had, according to order, had under consideration amendments to the Constitution, and particularly the article on the Legislative Department, but had come to no resolution thereon.

Mr. CLOVER, Chairman of the Committee on the Judicial Department, submitted the following report, accompanied by an ordinance providing for the removal of certain officers:

The Committee on the Judiciary Department of the Government, to whom was referred the resolution instructing the committee to report an ordinance providing for the vacating of such civil offices as may be necessary to protect the loyal people of the State, and to harmonize the working of the State Government, and likewise to protect citizens from injury and harassment from prosecution for acts done by them in support of the Government in the existing rebellion, respectfully report the accompanying ordinance.

The committee deem themselves at liberty to preface the ordinance which they report in obedience to the instructions given them, with some remarks in explanation and statement of the reasons which have led them to the conclusion at which they have arrived.

The resolution of instruction embraces, it will be seen, two distinct and independent positions: first, the vacating of certain civil offices of the State; and second, the protection of citizens from injury and harassment, from prosecutions for acts done by them in the support of the Government in the existing rebellion.

As the two propositions are embraced in a single resolution, so have the committee thought fit to embrace the two subjects in a single ordinance, not deeming it well to propose two ordinances when one could accomplish both objects, or desiring to overload the work of the Convention with repeated instances of distinct constitutional action where the same was not, in the opinion of the committee, absolutely necessary.

The resolution of instruction does not declare what, or what number, of civil offices of the State, in the opinion of the Convention, it is necessary to vacate, in order to protect the loyal people of the State and to harmonize the working of the State Government; wherefore, the committee are left to exercise their own best judgment in the matter, and to report their views in the premises, leaving it to the Convention to adopt, in whole or in part, the report of the committee, or indeed to wholly reject the same.

Two ideas are potently presented in the resolution upon this subject, namely, the protection of the loyal people of the State, and harmony in the working of the State Government, after the very fundamental and extensive changes in our governmental system, which were undoubtedly to be produced by the action of the Convention. Two matters the Convention is unquestionably called upon to perform, viz: the emancipation of the slaves in the State, and the preservation in purity of the elective franchise to the loyal citizens; and the two other matters of protection to the loyal people of the State, and harmony in the working of the State government, ought, in the opinion of the committee, and it appears likewise of the Convention, to follow upon these.

If the Judicial Department of the State Government, throughout and in detail, be not in unison and harmony with the executive and legislative departments, then, in the opinion of the committee, the working of the social system will be harsh, discordant and indeed incapable of efficient and beneficial result—and thereby likewise may follow injustice, oppression and wrong to the citizens of the State.

It may not be improper or useless for this committee to prefer the statement of the fact, that this State has undergone for the past four years, and is still undergoing, the most terrible social and political revolution, and the action of this Convention is not to be measured and regulated by the standard of ordinary and normal times. Our State is in an abnormal condition, produced not by its friends and supporters, but by those who would seek its ruin and destruction; wherefore, are we to be governed by the rules of conduct and legislation which should prevail in ordinary times?

In consideration of this condition of things in the State, and without entering into a detail of them, the committee is of opinion that, to harmonize the working of the State Government in all its departments, it is necessary to vacate throughout, and in detail, all the judicial offices in the State.

The committee see fit to point their views in this respect with illustration. The Convention has already enacted an ordinance emancipating slaves in the State. Should the Judicial Department of the State Government be held at liberty to impeach the entire lawfulness of this act of the Convention? Property in man exists, and has always heretofore been recognized in the State, and if rightfully existing at one time, may always rightfully exist.

The Convention, or the majority of the people, have no right or lawful authority to deprive a citizen of property without compensation, not even pretended to be taken for public use. The right or authority so to do is denied in the very nature of the social contract. Upon this plea the lawfulness of this act of the Convention may be denied by the judges. Should it be so permitted, if it can be prevented?

Again, the Convention has considered the measure of preserving in purity the elective franchise, and, in so doing, to disfranchise the rebel and rebel sympathizer. Shall the effect of this measure be allowed to be frittered away by unfavorable and hostile construction and interpretation of term and phrase?

The committee had no difficulty whatever in carrying their views, as to the vacating of offices, to the extent thus far indicated. They have felt warranted by such considerations as these, as well as by the general idea of securing protection to the loyal people of the State, through this the chief safeguard of the rights and liberties of the people, to report in favor of a general vacating of all judicial offices in the State, and the filling of them anew.

The committee are well aware that a large proportion of the administrators of the law throughout the State are earnest, determined and loyal men, fitted, in every respect of the times and the places, for the harmonious uniting in the conduct of the State Government at the present time; and they would have been glad to be able to make distinction in the operation of their report, but this they have been unable to do.

The committee, however, have gone further, and their reported ordinance makes provision for the vacating, likewise, of the offices of the clerks of the several courts of record in the State. The justification and the necessity of this provision are, in the opinion of your committee, to be found in the fact that the election for clerks of the different courts occurred at a date generally prior to the outbreak of the present rebellion, and when the issue of loyalty or disloyalty on the part of the incumbents of those offices could not be made; and especially and particularly in the further fact that, in the cases of not a few of the incumbents of those offices, they are generally, and indeed universally, regarded by all loyal men, in any degree acquainted with their character, as indisputably hostile to the Government in its present crisis. If this be so, and the committee believe it to be so, what an extraordinary and unjustifiable state of things is thereby shown. That it should be endured seems passing strange—that a man, an enemy to his country, and wishing and seeking its destruction, actively so, should be allowed to draw profit from and grow rich upon the income of a public office, the revenues of which are derived from taxes paid by loyal men.

The committee are happy to believe, indeed to know, that these remarks can apply to but few of the class of men named. The mere fact, however, that some such cases as are mentioned do exist, constitutes, in the opinion of the committee, full justification for their action.

The committee, however, in the progress of their work, have here arrived at a point where they have felt the greatest difficulty existed; that is to say, in the matter whether the vacating of the civil offices should extend further than they have already declared, and upon this point there exists diversity of opinion among them, which can only be settled by the action of the Convention itself. Upon the most careful and anxious consideration the undersigned members of the Committee have been able to give the subject, it is not, in their opinion, wise to extend the provisions of this ordinance further than to the offices they have named in their report, the incumbents of which are so intimately connected with the administration of the Judiciary Department of the Government.

The committee feel, with its full force, the suggestion which has been made by members of the Convention, that in some instances, in particular parts of the State, disloyal men were elected by the people, as recently as November last, to fill the very important office of sheriff, as well as other offices in some of the counties. And the committee incline to the opinion that such may have been the case, for if a single county elected to the General Assembly a member whom that loyal body has thought fit, as we suppose, upon competent and full proof, to declare disloyal and unfitted for membership in a loyal body of men, it would seem to them to warrant the belief that the same result may have been produced in the cases of other persons occupying other offices; and the committee have likewise felt the force of the other suggestion, that loyal districts have not needed, and do not need, protection in this way; that it is the loyal citizens in the disloyal districts—fortunately, it is true, at the present time but few in the State—who can specially claim the exertion of our prerogative for their benefit and protection.

While the committee would have been willing to attempt a remedy for this condition of things, if entirely practicable, yet, as clearly, in their opinion, this could not be done without applying it as a general rule to all of the classes of offices referred to, and as the evil is of a partial and temporary character, existent only for a limited period—and with the opportunity, as the committee sincerely hope, offered the people aggrieved, themselves to remedy the unfortunate state of things at the next occurring election, beyond the possibility of the same evil recurring, and this through the efficient working of the new Constitution, in the disfranchizing of rebels and rebel sympathizers—the committee have concluded to here stop.

It is not to be denied that the ordinance reported by this committee is liable to the objection, that, thereby an extraordinary amount of patronage and power is lodged in the hands of a single citizen of the State, in the fact that all the offices proposed to be vacated are to be filled by the appointment of the Executive.

The committee have considered this matter with the seriousness which it requires, and with the distrust which they naturally feel in vesting any one man with so great a power, and the dislike they entertain of depriving the people, in the smallest degree or for a limited time, of the right, which they unquestionably possess, of being permitted to choose their own servants and magistrates. But the committee have felt that it would be entirely impracticable to fill the offices which, in their opinion, it is necessary to vacate, in order to protect the loyal people and in order to harmonize the working of the State government, by popular elections, at the present time. And in the matter of the filling of the vacancies so created, the committee have not felt themselves at liberty to doubt that the Executive, in the filling of them, will feel himself in all instances bound to recognize and to ratify the voice of the people in all loyal districts, and as to all loyal men, as it shall be clearly manifested and declared unto him. Upon this subject they can entertain no doubt whatever.

Finally, upon this point, while the committee feel that the change in the entire judicial system of the State, as proposed, is of a most striking and radical character, undoubtedly not to be done in ordinary times upon such considerations as are stated in this their report, and not to be tolerated under the idea of performance for mere partisan purposes, yet, in view of the grave character of the measure, and fully regarding the condition of our State, the new system of fundamental law upon which, as a people, we are entering, the great and sudden change from the old to the new, and likewise believing that a decent respect for the opinions of the whole political community should be observed, they are of opinion that the course which they have recommended will be justified by candid opinion, not only in the present time, but with posterity.

The committee now come to the consideration of the second subject embraced in the resolution of instruction, to-wit: the protection of citizens from injury and harassment from prosecutions for acts done by them in the support of the Government in ordering the present rebellion. Upon this subject, so important and interesting in its nature, the committee have entertained no difficulty whatever.

As before remarked, the unexampled nature and condition of affairs which have prevailed in the State since the rebellion, and are now existing, in the opinion of the committee, leads to the necessity and points to the wisdom of the action which they have recommended.

Not only has civil war actively raged in the State, between the citizens thereof, but martial law, for a time nearly coexistent with that war, has been imposed and enforced upon us by a superior jurisdiction to our own—that of the Government of the United States.

The committee apprehend that no loyal man has questioned the lawfulness, if such a term may be used in such connection, of this condition of affairs, however much all may be disposed to regret the necessity of its being instituted and enforced, or continued. If this condition of affairs—the prevalence of martial law—has produced inconvenience and detriment, and, it may be, particular cases of oppression and wrong, on the other hand, it cannot be denied that it also has produced the most beneficial and salutary results. That it has been the means, in a large degree, of preserving peace, order, and quiet throughout the State; that it is, this very day and hour, promoting the peace and safety of the citizen, the almost unanimous vote of this Convention, had but a few days ago, protesting against its abrogation, witnesses and attests.

And what is this law, called martial law? The Convention knows that it is the abrogation of the civil law, and the substitution therefor of simply the will of the military commander. Disguise it as we may, this is the simple and true definition of the law denominated martial. This power, since its institution in this State, has suppressed newspapers; has stopped, as well as regulated commercial intercourse; has seized property; has punished, by its own law, the citizen; has controlled the courts; has forbidden the institution or prosecution of suits, has imprisoned the person of the suitor, has instructed the judge; has entered houses; has taken household furniture, has sold the same, has made title thereto, has appropriated the proceeds thereof—not the property of citizens actually engaged in war, but of those who were simply disloyal and disaffected; has levied assessments, collected monies, imprisoned, banished, and put to death. All this is utterly incompatible with the ordinary and usual workings of civil government.

This has been done and is being done in palpable and direct violation of the plainest principles of the Constitution which we are amending, and which principles we are retaining in our new work. It has been done, not through the medium of courts of justice, not through the intervention of a jury, not by the judgment of the peer, not by the law of the land, but in the opinion of the committee it has been necessarily done. This condition of affairs has been brought about by no fault of the loyal people of the State.

The exercise of martial law, therefore, is utterly subversive of civil law, wherever the two come in conflict. It is true that civil organism has been permitted and encouraged in this State wherever it could be safely done, but in portions thereof, to this hour, there exists no law worth mentioning the name of, except the law military. The committee deeply regret this condition of things, and trust that the hour is not far distant when we may be safely restored to a better condition of things; but it is only a few months since our State was traversed from the southeastern border to its western line by a host of invading foes.

And the question recurs, shall all the matters which the committee have spoken of be drawn into controversy and adjudication by the civil or criminal courts of the land now, or when martial law shall in the future be abrogated and annulled? In the opinion of the committee it would not be the part of wisdom to have this be.

The officer of the United States Government, acting in willful and wanton violation of his duty to the Government and to the citizen, should unquestionably meet with speedy and proper punishment for his offense, and if he can not be reached by the civil law, ought to be punished by that Government, not only in the way of penalty for the offense, but redress likewise to the injured individual.

In all times of peace, and even of war, where practicable, the military should be held subordinate to the civil authorities, and the committee are anxious to assert that for acts of wanton and willful violation of private rights neither the citizen or soldier can be exempt under the plea of justification by military necessity. The committee trust that the cases are but few, indeed, where such qualities of acts can be shown to exist, but in the large class of acts done without any justification or sanction of law whatever; but, nevertheless, in the emergency of the times, rightfully done, these acts, in the opinion of the committee, can not, will not be permitted to and should not be drawn into adjudication according to the principles of civil law by the civil courts.

Upon what safe principle can the judge of a civil court decide upon the quality of such acts? He can only declare the law, and seeing no legal justification or excuse, he can only pronounce the judgment of the law. He can not make the law and say what, in his opinion, the law should be in a given state of facts. He can not say that a man ought to be justified, excused, or indemnified, and exonerated by reason of a just motive and a good result to the State, however detrimental to the individual affected.

The committee make reference to the highest authority in speaking of indemnity to the individual for damages sustained by him in a war, as declaring the general rule governing such cases.

Says Vattel, in treating of the question whether the State be bound to indemnify individuals for the damages they have sustained in war:

"The damages are of two kinds, those done by the State itself, or the sovereign, and those done by the enemy. Of the first kind, some are done deliberately, and by way of precaution, as, when a field, a house, a garden, belonging to a private person, is taken for the purpose of erecting on the spot a town rampart, or any other piece of fortification; or when his standing corn are destroyed, to prevent their being of use to the enemy. Such damages are to be made good to the individual, who shall bear only his quota of the loss. But there are other damages, caused by the artillery, in retaking a town from an enemy. These are merely accidents; they are misfortunes which chance deals out to the proprietors on whom they happen to fall. The sovereign, indeed, ought to show an equitable regard for the sufferers, if the situation of his affairs will admit of it, but no action lies against the State for misfortunes of this nature, for losses which she has occasioned, not willfully, but through necessity, and by mere accident, in the exertion of her rights. The same may be said of damages caused by the enemy. All the subjects are exposed to such damages, and woe to him on whom they fall. The members of a society may well encounter such risk of property, since they encounter a similar risk of life itself."

Modified as this law should be by regard to the circumstances of modern warfare, the condition of things prevailing, especially in civil war, the character of the country and the people, the committee deem all such acts as they have spoken of, as coming within the general rule of acts authoritatively done by the State in the exercise of her rights, to the maintenance of her existence as a sovereign and integral nation. And the principle asserted by the committee is thought to be a safe one, when it is regarded that war hath its rules of action, as hath peace.

The committee likewise refer to the fact that the action recommended by them in this particular finds support in the action taken by our progenitors in the troublous times existing at the period of our revolutionary history. It may gratify the curiosity as well as instruct the minds of legislators at the present day, to reproduce, from the musty folios of the past, the work of legislation on this subject as performed by our ancestors, and particularly by the then good people of the good old commonwealth frequently styled the "Old Dominion."

On a very cursory examination, the committee are enabled to produce the following enactments of the General Assembly of Virginia, and doubt not that a more extended examination of the statutes of the several States composing the original thirteen, in their revolutionary existence, will afford very numerous instances of this kind and measure of legislation:

"An act for indemnifying the Governor, and Council, and others, for removing and confining suspected persons during the late public danger."

WHEREAS, On the late appearance of a hostile fleet in the Bay of Chesapeake, a large body of militia were collected and arrayed; and to prevent the dangerous consequences which might have been produced by a communication of intelligence to the enemy, it became necessary for the Governor and Council, for the public safety, to remove and restrain, during the imminence of the danger, at a distance from the posts and encampments of the said militia, and from other places near the posts and harbors of this Commonwealth, certain persons whose affections to the American cause were suspected, and more especially such as had refused to give assurance of fidelity and allegiance to the Commonwealth, according to the act of the Assembly for that purpose made and provided; and it may happen that some of the said persons so removed and restrained may be disposed to vex with actions at law those who were concerned in advising, issuing or executing the orders for that purpose:

“Be it therefore enacted by the General Assembly, That the Governor, members of the Council, and all others concerned in advising, issuing or executing the said orders for the removal or restraint of such persons, stand indemnified and clearly exonerated from all actions, suits and damages on account thereof, and that if any action or suit should be brought by or on behalf of any person so removed or restrained, for the recovery of damages for such removal or restraint, against any person or persons so indemnified, the defendant or defendants may plead the general issue, and give this act in evidence.” — Cap. vi of acts of the General Assembly of Virginia, Anno. 1777.

“An act to indemnify certain persons in suppressing a conspiracy against this State.

“I. WHEREAS, Divers evil disposed persons, in the year one thousand seven hundred and eighty, formed a conspiracy, and did actually attempt to levy war against this commonwealth; and it is represented to the present General Assembly that William Preston, Robert Adams, junior, James Callaway and Charles Lynch, and other faithful citizens, aided by detachments of volunteers from different parts of the State, did, by timely and effectual measures, suppress such conspiracy: and, whereas, the measures taken for that purpose may not be strictly warranted by law, although justifiable from the imminence of the danger:

“II. Be it therefore enacted, That the said William Preston, Robert Adams, junior, James Callaway and Charles Lynch, and all other persons whatsoever concerned in suppressing the said conspiracy, or in advising, issuing or executing any orders or measures taken for that purpose, stand indemnified and exonerated of and from all pains, penalties, prosecutions, actions, suits and damages on account thereof; and that if any indictment, prosecution, action or suit shall be laid or brought against them, or any of them, for any act or thing done therein, the defendant or defendants may plead in bar, or the general issue, and give this act in evidence.” — Cap. xv of acts of the General Assembly of Virginia, Anno. 1782.

The committee report the following ordinance.
CLOVER, for the Committee.

AN ORDINANCE PROVIDING FOR THE VACATING OF CERTAIN CIVIL OFFICES IN THE STATE, FILLING THE SAME ANEW, AND PROTECTING THE CITIZENS FROM INJURY AND HARASSMENT.

Be it ordained by the People of the State of Missouri, in Convention assembled, as follows:

SEC. 2. No court or officer in this State shall take or retain cognizance of any civil action, or criminal proceeding against any person for, or on account of, any act by him done, performed or executed, after the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one, by virtue of military authority vested in him by the Government of the United States, or that of this State, to do such act, or in pursuance of orders received by him or them from any person vested with such authority, and if any action or proceeding be brought or instituted against any person for the doing of any such act, the defendant may plead in bar thereof, and give this ordinance in evidence.

On motion of Mr. DRAKE, the report was received, and Mr. Drake moved that five hundred copies of the report be printed in pamphlet form, and two hundred copies of the accompanying ordinance be printed in the usual form.

Mr. BONHAM moved to amend by inserting “two thousand” copies of the report, instead of “five hundred,” which was accepted by Mr. Drake.

The motion, as amended, was agreed to.

Mr. HUGHES moved that the ordinance presented by Mr. Clover be made the special order of the day for Monday next.

So the motion was rejected.

Mr. STRONG's motion, that the ordinance be made the special order for Wednesday next, was then adopted.

Mr. MACK, Chairman of the Committee on Internal Improvements, presented the following report on the memorial to Congress of the United States, asking the construction of the Southwest Branch of the Pacific railroad, as a military necessity:

Your committee beg leave to report that they have had said memorial under consideration, and recommend the adoption of the same by this Convention.

On motion of Mr. BONHAM, the report was received and adopted.

On motion of Mr. GREEN, the Convention adjourned until half-past 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

Prayer by Rev. Dr. Nelson.

ABSENT WITHOUT LEAVE—Messrs. Leonard, Smith of Mercer, and Williams of Scotland—3.

EXCUSED FROM VOTING—Mr. St. Gem—1.
SICK—Mr. Meyer—1.

So the resolution was not laid on the table.

Mr. BUSH moved to refer the resolution to the Committee of the Whole.

Pending which, Mr. DRAKE offered the following as a substitute for Mr. Bonham's resolution, which was accepted by Mr. Bonham:

WHEREAS, In a report contained in the Daily Missouri Democrat of the 20th inst., there appeared what purports to be an account of a public meeting held at Turner Hall, in the city of St. Louis, on the 18th inst., in which account there is what purports to be a report of a part of a speech made by Gustavus St. Gem, a member of this body, in the following words: "I do not believe that they (the Convention) will dare to refuse to submit that Constitution, or at least those portions thereof that were not discussed before the people at the recent general election—they will not refuse to submit those portions to the voice of the people; but if the whole Constitution should be submitted in such an obnoxious form, they may cause the whole thing to be defeated, and defeat the measures that the people of Missouri cheerfully voted for at the recent election—the emancipation of the slaves, and the disfranchisement of traitors and their sympathizers. Therefore, I do rejoice to see that your demonstration is so vigorous here to-night, and I am informed that your petition is of such a magnitude that you can walk up to the hall of that Convention like the barons of old, and force upon that Convention to submit to proper measures, as those barons did upon King John of England. And if they don't do it, I hope that there will be a spirit that will have the force of a Cromwell, and walk up in those halls and dissolve that long Parliament;" and whereas, the said Gustavus St. Gem has, on the floor of this Convention, admitted that he did, on that occasion, use the words aforesaid:

Resolved. That the said Gustavus St. Gem, for the use of said words at said meeting, deserves the censure of this body.

Mr. CLOVER moved that the resolution be referred to a select committee of five.

Mr. FOSTER offered the following as a substitute for the preamble and resolution of Mr. Drake:

Resolved. That the explanation of Mr. St. Gem—to the effect that he used the words "in a Cromwell-like manner," and other words of like character, at the meeting in Turner Hall on Saturday night last, as expressive of moral force—be accepted as satisfactory by this Convention.

Mr. HOLLAND demanded the previous question; on which, Mr. DRAKE demanded the ayes and noes, and the vote being taken, stood as follows:

ARTICLE —.

Declaration of Rights.

(The amendments are printed in Italics.)

That the general, great, and essential principles of liberty and free government may be recognized and established, we declare:

SECTION 1. That all political power is vested in, and derived from, the people.

SEC. 2. That the people of this State have the inherent, sole, and exclusive right of regulating the internal government and police thereof; and of altering and abolishing their constitution and form of government whenever it may be necessary to their safety and happiness.

SEC. 3. That this State shall ever remain a member of the American Union, and that the people thereof are a part of the people of the United States; that all attempts to dissolve said Union ought to be resisted with the whole power of the State; that every citizen owes paramount allegiance to the constitution and government of the United States; that no law or ordinance in contravention or subversion thereof can have any binding force.

SEC. 4. That the people have the right peaceably to assemble for their common good, and to apply to those vested with the powers of government for redress of grievances, by petition or remonstrance; and that their right to bear arms in defense of themselves and of the State can not be questioned.

SEC. 5. That all men have a natural and inalienable right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own consciences; that no man can be compelled to erect, support, or attend any place of worship, or to maintain any minister of the gospel or teacher of religion; but whatever contracts any person may enter into for any such object ought, in law, to be binding and capable of enforcement, as other contracts; that no human authority can control or interfere with the rights of conscience; that no person can ever be hurt, molested, or restrained in his religious profession, or sentiments, if he do not disturb others in their religious worship.

SEC. 6. That no person, on account of his religious opinions, can be rendered ineligible to any office of trust or profit under this State. nor be disqualified from testifying or serving as a juror; that no preference can ever be given, by law, to any sect or mode of worship; and that no religious corporation can ever be established in this State; but provision may be made by general laws for the incorporation of religious societies, so as to enable them, through trustees of their own choosing, to acquire, hold or transfer such property, as may be required for church buildings, parsonages or burial grounds, and for no other purpose.

SEC. 7. That all elections shall be free and equal.

SEC. 8. That courts of justice ought to be open to every person, and certain remedy afforded for every injury to person, property, or character; and that right and justice ought to be administered without sale, denial, or delay; and that no private property ought to be taken or applied to public use without just compensation.

SEC. 9. That the right of trial by jury shall remain inviolate.

SEC. 10. That in all criminal prosecutions, the accused has the right to be heard by himself and his counsel; to demand the nature and cause of accusations; to have compulsory process for witnesses in his favor; to meet the witnesses against him face to face; and, in prosecutions on presentment or indictment, to a speedy trial by an impartial jury of the vicinage; that the accused can not be compelled to give evidence against himself; nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, but by the judgment of his peers, or the law of the land.

SEC. 11. That no person, after having been once acquitted by a jury, can, for the same offense, be again put in jeopardy of life or liberty; but if in any criminal prosecution the jury be divided in opinion, the court before which the trial shall be had may, in its discretion, discharge the jury, and commit or bail the accused for trial at the next term of such court.

SEC. 12. That all persons shall be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offenses, when the proof is evident or the presumption great; and the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus can not be suspended, unless when, in cases of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require it.

SEC. 13. That excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.

SEC. 14. That there can not be in this State either slavery or involuntary servitude, except in punishment of crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted.

SEC. 15. That no person can, on account of color, be disqualified as a witness, or be subjected, in law, to any other restraints or disqualifications in regard to any personal rights, than such as are laid upon others under like circumstances.

SEC. 16. That the people ought to be secure in their persons, papers, houses, and effects, from unreasonable searches and seizures; and no warrant to search any place, or to seize any person or thing, can issue without describing the place to be searched, or the person or thing to be seized, as nearly as may be, nor without probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation.

SEC. 17. That no person can, for an indictable offense, be proceeded against criminally, by information, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia when in actual service, in time of war or public danger, or by leave of the court, for oppression or misdemeanor in office.

SEC. 18. That treason against the State can consist only in levying war against it, or in adhering to its enemies, giving them aid or comfort; that no person can be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on his own confession in open court; that no person can be attainted of treason or felony by the General Assembly; that no conviction can work corruption of blood; that there can be no forfeiture of estate for any crime, except treason; that the estates of such persons as may destroy their own lives shall descend or vest as in cases of natural death; and when any person shall be killed by casualty, there ought to be no forfeiture by reason thereof.

SEC. 19. That the free communication of thoughts and opinions is one of the invaluable rights of man, and that every person may freely speak, write, and print on any subject, being responsible for the abuse of that liberty; that in all prosecutions for libels, the truth thereof may be given in evidence, and the jury may determine the law and the facts, under the direction of the court.

SEC. 20. That no ex post facto law, nor law impairing the obligation of contracts, or retrospective in its operations, can be passed; nor can the person of a debtor be imprisoned for debt, except for fines or penalties imposed for violation of law.

SEC. 21. That all property, subject to taxation in this State, shall be taxed in proportion to its value.

SEC. 22. That no title of nobility, hereditary emolument, privilege, or distinction, shall be granted.

That the military is, and in all cases and at all times, shall be, in strict subordination to the civil power; that no soldier can, in time of peace, be quartered in any house, without the consent of the owner, nor in time of war but in such manner as may be prescribed by law; nor can any appropriation for the support of any army be made for a longer period than two years.

County of Callaway.

William R. Wilson, aged forty-seven years, by occupation clerk of county court, makes oath and says, that on or about the 17th day of July, 1861, it being the day of the Overton Run fight, he saw Thomas B. Harris, of Callaway county, ride into Fulton, and at the time deponent and others, who he does not now remember, were sitting in front of the "Western Bank" building in Fulton, when said Harris, passing by, called upon the crowd to know "what they were doing there," saying, "why don't you go and assist in driving out the invaders of our State," or words to that effect, meaning, as deponent supposed; the Federal soldiers then approaching Fulton, under Colonel John McNeil, urging the citizens to arm themselves as best they could and offer resistance to the invader. Deponent further states that said T. B. Harris has never since the "Overton Run," or about that time, been regarded by Union men anything else but a rebel or rebel sympathizer; his associations have been with what are termed "Southern men," and not with "Union men," as far as my observation has enabled me to judge.

J. S. Williams, of lawful age, being duly sworn, deposeseth and says: "I know Thos. B. Harris, of Callaway county, and have known him since 1859; his general character for loyalty to the Government of the United States is bad; I have heard him since the 17th day of December, 1861, make use of expressions of disloyalty and treason; during the summer and fall of '61, he, at divers times, endeavored to excite the people of Callaway, at Fulton, to armed resistance to the United States troops, calling upon the citizens to get arms of any kind, scythes, pitchforks, or anything—that the 'damned Dutch' would get the county if not resisted."

Patrick Cain, of lawful age, being duly sworn, deposes and says: "I know Thomas B. Harris, of Callaway county; have known him over five years; his character for loyalty is bad; on the day after the battle at Overton's run, in Callaway county, near Fulton, I was at Fulton when the rebel General Harris came into the town, and told the people that he wanted them to assist him, that if they did not do so that McNeil would drive them out of the town; Thomas B. Harris was there, standing close to the General, and after he had got through his speech, spoke, and said: 'That is so, General, and I will do my part; if we do not do as you ask, the damned Dutch will take the town.'"

Statement of Dr. John W. Martin, aged fifty-three years, by occupation a physician, and a citizen of Callaway county, Missouri: Witness states that, some time about the middle of July, 1861, he saw Thomas B. Harris, of Callaway county, Missouri, passing along the street, in Fulton, on horseback, and heard him say, "what are you all doing there?" meaning, as he supposed, to urge men to assist in resisting Federal authority, or to oppose the advance of Colonel McNeil's command; and that he has, since that time, understood him to be a Southern sympathizer, and opposed to the exercise of Federal authority.

I, John Saunders, a resident of Audrain county, Missouri, on oath declare: I was at Lakeland's Schoolhouse on the Sunday after the taking of Fort Sumter, and I saw Thomas B. Harris there; in the course of a conversation that sprung up between him and George Sullivan, Joseph Lakenan, and a Mr. Ross, at which I was present, Sullivan accused Harris, in a rather playful manner, of being a Union man, at which Harris got nettled, and replied to Sullivan not to call him a Union man if he did not want to insult him; further, during the gathering of the rebels in Callaway county, under Jeff. Jones, I was captured by Jones, and, under the charge of being a Federal spy, I was kept prisoner by him until he got scared, and suddenly disbanded his men one night; I believe it was on Friday night men came into camp, and notified Jones that General Prentiss was moving on him; they moved from Dyer's mills to Stringfield's store on Saturday, and Thomas B. Harris came into camp, and went with us part of the way to Stringfield's store, apparently directing movements; on the march he espied me in a wagon; he rode back and forth along the lines, and, when passing by me, he always stopped talking; he was in company with Joseph Lakenan all the time; this was in the fall of 1861, during the encampment of General Henderson and Colonel Krekel at Wellsville; I have stated that Harris went part of the way; the rebels were divided into two parts, after crossing the Mexico and Fulton road, one going by Jeff. Jones' house, the other, by a more southern route, to Stringfield's store; Harris, after this division, was not with the gang I was with; I am unable to say whether he was with the other party or not, after the division. ST. LOUIS, February 22, 1865.

Statement of James M. Martien, with regard to the political character of David L. Whaley, William T. Snell, A. A. Fant, R. R. Buckner, and G. W. Sullivan: I know David L. Whaley to be a rebel; can prove he was in arms against the government in the early part of the rebellion, and recruited and drilled men for the rebel "State Guard;" no truly loyal man regards Whaley as anything but a rebel sympathizer at the present time; I know William T. Snell to be also a rebel sympathizer; can prove he contributed ten dollars in cash to raise and outfit Dan. McIntyre's rebel company, in 1861; Snell has since been on duty as commander of the E. E. M.; can prove that, whilst on that duty, he (Snell) stated that the State authorities would, and ought to, resist the United States conscription law; can also prove that Snell said that there were four persons, citizens of Fulton (radicals), that would not be permitted to live in the State when the war was over; A. B. Fant is a horse and mule trader; made a large amount out of the Government; says but little; but is regarded by myself and all loyal men as a rebel sympathizer. R. R. Buckner is notoriously disloyal; an out-and-out fire-eater. With regard to James Harris, I believe he is a brother-in-law of Thomas B. Harris; if so, he is disloyal; I do not know one of the name that is not disloyal. G. W. Sullivan was a rebel sympathizer when he lived in Audrain county, in the neighborhood of T. B. Harris; he associated habitually with rebels, and was required to give a heavy bond. With regard to the statement of General McNeil, it is, no doubt, true that Harris "appeared to be as loyal as any of his neighbors;" I know his neighbors well; they were, and are, all disloyal; I do not think there is one loyal man, at the present time, in the township Harris resides in; Thomas B. Harris is a man of influence in his county, and has had much to do in shaping public opinion, particularly in his own township; Thomas B. Harris was, in 1860, apparently a Union man, but, upon the capture of Camp Jackson, became intensely rebel; was a friend of the rebel General Tom. Harris, at the time he was operating in Callaway county; held to the doctrine that the government had been usurped; that, in fact, no government existed; that President Lincoln had no legal authority; that the Constitution had been violated and trampled under foot; Thomas B. Harris has always looked with contempt and detestation on Federal soldiers.

Before me, William R. Wilson, Clerk of the Callaway County Court, personally come James H. Tucker, Edwin R. Parker and Rufus Abbot, who make oath and say that they have been acquainted with A. B. Fant, Wm. H. Bailey, Angus Berry, Thos. A. Howard and John H. Howard, from the commencement of the present rebellion, and have regarded them as disloyal, and consider that they have been so regarded by Union men; they have not acted with Union men; Joseph Flood is and has been regarded as a loyal man, of which we have no doubt; it is true that he was a judge of the court when an order was made to assist wounded rebels to return to their homes, in Callaway county, from Springfield, Mo., in 1861; it is also true that he, with others declined to take the Convention oath, and retain his place as judge of the county court; notwithstanding these things, Judge Flood has opposed secession, Jeff. Davis & Co., as much as any man in Missouri, Illinois or New York, and has acted with Union men from the commencement of the rebellion.

Bailey, and are so considered by the loyal men of this county; Joseph Flood was a member of the county court of Callaway county, which court made an appropriation to bring wounded rebels home from Springfield, in 1861, which is on record in the clerk's office of said county; he also resigned his seat as judge of the county court, refusing to take the oath prescribed by the Convention; William H. Bailey resigned his office as clerk of the county court of Callaway county, refusing to take the oath prescribed by the Convention.

On the morning of the Overton Run fight I was standing before my house, and saw Thomas B. Harris when he came into town—I think something near 10 o'clock; saw him when he stabled his horse; talked to him about the attack on Colonel McNeil's forces; returned to the hotel with him; went up on my veranda with the Reverend S. A. Muchmore; saw Colonel McNeil's forces approaching the town nearly in a south direction; some were then still firing from houses in town; asked Mr. Muchmore to go down town with me and make some arrangements about a flag of truce; he asked me who had best go; I told him James S. Henderson would be best for one; we went together down town; met Mr. T. B. Harris and Judge Bailey; Mr. Harris then went into the clerk's office, and soon came out again, and assisted in making arrangements to start the flag of truce, and I think went out with James S. Henderson and S. A. Muchmore; the next I recollect of T. B. Harris he came to my hotel with Colonel McNeil and Dr. Dudley H. Overton, when T. B. Harris introduced Colonel McNeil to me; this was after the wounded men were brought to my hotel by the assistant surgeon and Lieutenant Colonel Fritz; the next I recollect of T. B. Harris I saw him on horseback, in company with Judge Hopkins, Judge King, and Judge Flood, starting toward the battle-ground, and going out toward Jefferson City; I understood Colonel McNeil requested some persons to go out and examine the ground, to see if more dead or wounded were left on the field; I saw Mr. T. B. Harris and Judge Joseph Flood returning, in company with others, from the direction of the battle-ground; I am fully satisfied Thomas B. Harris was at no time armed during the day, and was not in, nor south or southwest of, town on the day of said battle, nor in the town of Fulton, until 10 o'clock or later, on that day; nor do I, from any reasonable conclusion, believe he was ever in favor or countenanced the actions of those who made the attack on Colonel McNeil's forces, but, on the contrary, has frequently, in unqualified terms, showed that he disapproved of secession—first, as a remedy for Southern grievances; and secondly, altogether against the mode of warfare as carried on in Missouri.

Henderson and Mr. Muchmore went down the street and received Colonel McNeil and his command; saw Harris with Colonel McNeil and officers after they got in; when things settled down a little, Harris, with myself, went out on the battle-ground, under Colonel McNeil's order, to see if there were any dead or wounded men on the ground.

Hon. T. B. HARRIS—Dear Sir: In answer to interrogations propounded by you, I have to say that I think I know your political record since the first outbreak of this rebellion. Having been on the most intimate terms, there has been nothing reserved in our interviews, which have been frequent from the beginning of the present conflict. I know that you was one of the first men in Boone or Callaway county to oppose the "heresy," as you called it, of secession, and opposing all efforts to take Missouri out of the Union, asserting and affirming that there never could be two governments established and sustained out of the territory of the United States. For entertaining and advocating these views, you, as well as others of like views and opinions, have been continually denounced by men taking the Southern side of the question.

Yours, respectfully,

Harris, of Callaway county, well; he lives in Callaway county, some six miles from where I lived; we were on the most intimate terms; I know his views and opinions well from the beginning of this rebellion; he was a most active and zealous opposer of secession and disunion; I know that he was active and earnest in keeping men out of the rebellion, contending that the rights of American citizens were to be secured in the Union, and not out of it; know that he was violently opposed to all guerrilla warfare and bushwhacking; have heard him publicly and privately advocate the union of all the States under one government and one constitution, stating that secession was a heresy, and would ruin the government; have no recollection of ever hearing him at any time, by word or act, favor any other views or sentiments than those above expressed; I know to my personal knowledge of his doing all in his power to keep men out of the rebel army.

Harris, was at home, in the harvest field with the hands, the day before what was called the Overton Run fight with the Federal forces under General (then Colonel) McNeil, and that he was at home that night and to breakfast next morning, viz., the day of the fight, and that we did not know anything of the fight until he returned home that evening; I know he had no arms, and was then, and has ever since been, opposed to secession, bushwhacking and everything of the sort; he has at all times counseled me to have nothing to do with the rebellion, and has kept others out of it; I know, also, that he was opposed to the Jones encampment, and that his house was inside the lines; pickets were stationed in all the avenues leading to and from his house.

Mass Meeting in Old Callaway.

On Monday last, November 19, 1860, a large mass meeting of our citizens was held at the courthouse in this city, for the purpose of considering the present condition of our national affairs.

The meeting was presided over by Mr. Thomas B. Harris, as President, and Captain Samuel Blount, Major W. W. Snell, and Judge Thomas Ansell, as Vice Presidents. Jesse C. Fox, Esq., acted as Secretary.

A committee of eleven was appointed to draft resolutions expressive of the sense of the meeting, composed of the following gentlemen: Judge I. O. Hockaday, Benjamin Cason, Major John Harrison, Dr. J. T. Collier, John S. Henderson, George Law, I. W. Boulware, George Bartley, John G. Provines, Dr. J. W. Martin, and Dr. James M. Martien. Whilst the committee was absent, Judge Thomas Ansell and Major P. B. Reed, of Audrian county, were called for, and addressed the meeting in appropriate, well-timed and eloquent speeches. The committee, after a short absence, returned, bringing in two reports—a majority and minority report. The following is the majority report:

WHEREAS, By the recent election of Abraham Lincoln to the chief magistracy of the United States, the country has been thrown into violent agitation, and particularly the cotton-growing States of this confederacy; and whereas, imminent and sudden danger threatens the integrity of the Union, the prosperity and perpetuity of the General Government, and the harmony, peace and happiness of the people; and whereas, the citizens of the various States, one in aim and destiny, are in danger of being brought into hostile and deadly conflict; and whereas, the social, religious and moral relations of our people are involved in almost inextricable difficulties, threatening alike the lives, liberties and the property of the citizens of the common territory; therefore,

Resolved, That while we deprecate the election of Abraham Lincoln to the Presidency of the United States, we do not regard his mere election as sufficient reason for the secession of any State from the confederacy.

Resolved, That we will abide by the constitution as it is, the laws as they exist, and the Union of the States, as it was framed and handed down to us by a brave, a generous, and a noble ancestry.

Resolved, That ignoring the political differences that have heretofore divided us, we will cling to the constitution of our country as the sheet-anchor of our hopes and the ultimatum of our desires.

Resolved, That we regard the prospective disruption of the existing government as one of the most direful calamities that could befall not only the American people and American institutions, but the cause of freedom and self-government throughout the world.

Resolved, That we recognize the Supreme Court of the United States as the proper tribunal to determine the constitutionality or unconstitutionality of all laws, and as such we will look to it as the conservator of the public peace and the preserver of public tranquillity.

Resolved, That this government was formed out of the privation, the suffering, the patriotism and the sacred blood of our fathers, and as the richest legacy they could leave to us, we will preserve it unimpaired by civil broils, strengthened by a mutual and sacred endeavor to render it the fairest, the freest, the most indestructible ligature of brotherhood.

Resolved, That we do not, nor can we, regard the inhabitants of the seceding States of the Union as other than revolutionists and disorganizers, and as such, we cannot offer them assistance nor extend to them the right hand of fellowship.

Resolved, That so long as the chief magistrate of the government shall confine his action within the limits of the national constitution, we will use all lawful means, and exert all our rightful powers, to uphold his administration and render his term of office glorious by our loyalty and devotion to the interests of self-government and the cause of freedom.

Resolved, That as the condition upon which God has given liberty to man is that of eternal vigilance, we will not break that condition by a cold and active indifference to things around us, but will labor for the spread of a liberal and just policy, and the success of our free institutions throughout all time.

(Signed)

I. O. HOCKADAY,	GEORGE BARTLEY,
JOHN HARRISON,	JOHN G. PROVINES,
J. T. COLLIER,	J. W. MARTIN,
JNO. S. HENDERSON,	JAS. M. MARTIN.

Minority Report.

MR. PRESIDENT: We, the undersigned, a minority of your committee, although we deem this mass meeting uncalled for and premature, yet as a duty assigned us, beg leave, in the discharge of that duty, to make the resolutions of the majority report, except the seventh, our report.

(Signed)

I. W. BOULWARE,
G. W. LAW,
BENJAMIN CASON.

Some discussion took place between President S. S. Laws, Judge Thomas Ansell, and John G. Provines, Esq., on the presentation of the two reports—the two former gentlemen sustaining the minority report, and the latter gentleman the majority report, containing the seventh resolution. The majority report was rejected by an overwhelming vote, only twelve voting for it, and the minority report was adopted.

On motion of Mr. DRAKE, the report of the Committee on Loyalty, with accompanying papers, was ordered to be printed.

Mr. DRAKE, Chairman of the Committee on Revision, made the following report:

The Revising Committee, to whom was referred the article entitled "Declaration of Rights," beg leave to report the same back without amendment.

C. D. DRAKE, Chairman.

On motion of Mr. FOLMSBEE, the article on Declaration of Rights, as reported back from the Committee on Revision, was ordered to be read.

On motion of Mr. PECK, the Convention adjourned until half-past 2 o'clock P. M.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment, the President in the chair.

Mr. SMITH of Worth moved that the further consideration of the Declaration of Rights be postponed till the 16th day of March next; on which motion, Mr. DRAKE demanded the ayes and noes, and the vote being taken, stood as follows:

AYES—Messrs. Bush, D'Oench, Foster, Gamble, Gilstrap, Harris, Holcomb, Husmann, Leonard, Linton, McKernan, Newgent, Rohrer, St. Gem, Smith of Worth, Swearingen, Switzler, and Mr. President—18.

NOES—Messrs. Bedford, Bonham, Budd, Childress, Clover, Davis of New Madrid, Davis of Nodaway, Dodson, Drake, Esther, Evans, Folmsbee, Fulkerson, Gilbert of Lawrence, Green, Henderson, Holdsworth, Holland, Hume, King, McPherson, Mack, Morton, Peck, Rankin, Smith of Mercer, Strong, Sutton, Weatherby, and Williams of Scotland—30.

ABSENT WITH LEAVE—Messrs. Adams, Barr, Bunce, Ellis, Gilbert of Platte, Grammer, Hughes, Martin, Nixdorf, Owens, Thilenius, and Williams of Caldwell—12.

ABSENT WITHOUT LEAVE—Mr. Fletcher—1.
SICK—Messrs. Cowden, Filley, Meyer, and Mitchell—4.

So the motion to postpone was rejected.

The question being on the enrollment of the Declaration of Rights as a part of the Constitution, Mr. GILSTRAP demanded the ayes and noes thereon; and the vote being taken, stood as follows:

AYES—Messrs. Bonham, Budd, Childress, Clover, Davis of Nodaway, Drake, Esther, Folmsbee, Fulkerson, Gilbert of Lawrence, Green, Henderson, Holdsworth, Hume, King, McPherson, Mack, Peck, Rankin, Smith of Mercer, Strong, Sutton, Weatherby, and Williams of Scotland—24.

NOES—Messrs. Bedford, Bush, Davis of New Madrid, Dodson, D'Oench, Evans, Foster, Gamble, Gilstrap, Harris, Holcomb, Holland, Husmann, Leonard, Linton, McKernan, Morton, Newgent, Rohrer, St. Gem, Smith of Worth, Swearingen, Switzer, and Mr. President—24.

ABSENT WITH LEAVE—Messrs. Adams, Barr, Bunce, Ellis, Gilbert of Platte, Grammer, Hughes, Martin, Nixdorf, Owens, Thilenius, and Williams of Caldwell—12.

ABSENT WITHOUT LEAVE—Mr. Fletcher—1.
SICK—Messrs. Cowden, Filley, Meyer, and Mitchell—4.

So the Declaration of Rights was not ordered to be enrolled.

Mr. DRAKE moved to reconsider the vote by which the article on Declaration of Rights was rejected; which motion was withdrawn.

Mr. BUSH moved that the article on Declaration of Rights, as offered by him, be made the special order for Monday next.

Mr. FOLMSBEE moved a call of the house. Decided out of order.

The article on Declaration of Rights, offered by Mr. BUSH, was read the third time.

Mr. BUDD demanded a call of the house, which was agreed to, and the call being made the following members responded to their names:

Messrs. Bedford, Bonham, Budd, Bush, Childress, Clover, Davis of New Madrid, Davis of Nodaway, Dodson, D'Oench, Drake, Esther, Evans, Folmsbee, Foster, Fulkerson, Gamble, Gilbert of Lawrence, Gilstrap, Green, Harris, Henderson, Holcomb, Holdsworth, Holland, Hume, Husmann, King, Leonard, Linton, McKernan, McPherson, Mack, Morton, Newgent, Peck, Rankin, Rohrer, St. Gem, Smith of Worth, Strong, Sutton, Swearingen, Switzer, Weatherby, Williams of Scotland, and Mr. President—48.

ABSENT WITH LEAVE—Messrs. Adams, Barr, Bunce, Ellis, Gilbert of Platte, Grammer, Hughes, Martin, Nixdorf, Owens, Thilenius, and Williams of Caldwell—12.

ABSENT WITHOUT LEAVE—Mr. Fletcher—1.
SICK—Messrs. Cowden, Filley, Meyer, and Mitchell—4.

Mr. GILSTRAP moved that further proceedings under the call be dispensed with, and demanded the ayes and noes thereon, which being taken the vote stood as follows:

AYES—Messrs. Bedford, Bush, Childress, Clover, Davis of New Madrid, Dodson, D'Oench, Esther, Foster, Fulkerson, Gamble, Gilbert of Lawrence, Gilstrap, Green, Harris, Henderson, Holcomb, Holdsworth, Holland, Hume, Husmann, Leonard, Linton, McKernan, Morton, Newgent, Rohrer, St. Gem, Smith of Worth, Swearingen, Switzer, and Mr. President—32.

FORTY-SECOND DAY.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 25th, 1865.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment; the President in the chair.

The Declaration of Rights, offered by Mr. Bush, was taken up.

Pending which, Mr. SMITH of Worth offered the following as a substitute therefor:

ARTICLE —.

Declaration of Rights.

That the general, great and essential principles of liberty and free government may be recognized and established, and that the relations of this State to the Union and government of the United States, and those of the people of this State to the rest of the American people, may be defined and affirmed, we do declare:

1. That we hold it to be self-evident that all men are created equally free, and are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, among which are life, liberty, the enjoyment of the fruits of their own labor, and the pursuits of happiness.

2. That there cannot be in this State either slavery or involuntary servitude, except in punishment of crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted.

3. That no person can, on account of color, be disqualified as a witness, or be disabled to contract otherwise than as others are disabled, or be prevented from acquiring, holding, and transmitting property, or be liable to any other punishment for any offense than that imposed upon others for a like offense, or be restricted in the exercise of religious worship, or be hindered in acquiring education, as shall be provided by law, or be subjected, in law, to any other restraints or disqualifications in regard to any personal rights, than such as are laid upon others under like circumstances.

4. That all political power is vested in and derived from the people; that all government of right originates from the people; is founded upon their will only, and is instituted solely for the good of the whole.

5. That the people of this State have the inherent, sole and exclusive right of regulating the internal government and police thereof, and of altering and abolishing their constitution and form of government, whenever it may be necessary to their safety and happiness; but every such right should be exercised in pursuance of law, and consistently with the Constitution of the United States.

6. That this State shall ever remain a member of the American Union; that the people thereof are a part of the American nation, and that all attempts, from whatever source or upon whatever pretext, to dissolve said Union, or to sever said nation, ought to be resisted with the whole power of the State.

7. That every citizen of this State owes paramount allegiance to the Constitution and Government of the United States, and that no law or ordinance of this State, in contravention or subversion thereof, can have any binding force.

8. That the people have the right peaceably to assemble for their common good, and to apply to those vested with the powers of government for redress of grievances, by petition or remonstrance; and that their right to bear arms in defense of themselves and of the lawful authority of the State can not be questioned.

9. That all men have a natural and inalienable right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own consciences; that no person can, on account of his religious opinions, be rendered ineligible to any office of trust or profit under this State, nor be disqualified from testifying or serving as a juror; and that no human authority can control or interfere with the rights of conscience; that no person ought, by any law, to be molested in his person or estate, on account of his religious persuasion or profession, or for his religious practice, unless, under the color of religion, he disturb the good order, peace or safety of the State, or offend against public morals, or injure others in their natural, civil or religious rights.

10. That no person can be compelled to erect, support, or attend any place of worship, or to maintain any minister of the gospel, or teacher of religion; but whatever contracts any person may enter into for any such object, ought, in law, to be binding and capable of enforcement, as other contracts.

11. That no preference can ever be given, by law, to any church, sect, or mode of worship.

12. That no religious corporation can be established in this State; except, that by a general law, uniform throughout the State, any church, or religious society, or congregation, may become a body corporate, for the sole purpose of acquiring, holding, using, and disposing of so much land as may be required for a house of public worship, a chapel, a parsonage, and a burial ground, and managing the same, and contracting in relation to such land, and the buildings thereon, through a board of trustees selected by themselves; but the quantity of land to be held by any such body corporate, in connection with a house of worship or a parsonage, shall not exceed five acres in the country, or one acre in a town or city.

13. That every gift, sale, or devise of land to any minister, public teacher, or preacher of the gospel, as such, or to any religious sect, order, or denomination; or to or for the support, use, or benefit of, or in trust for, any minister, public teacher, or preacher of the gospel, as such, or any religious sect, order or denomination; and every gift or sale of goods or chattels, to go in succession, or to take place after the death of the seller or donor, to or for such support, use, or benefit; and also every devise of goods or chattels, to or for the support, use, or benefit of any minister, public teacher, or preacher of the gospel, as such, or any religious sect, order or denomination, shall be void, except always any gift, sale, or devise of land to a church, religious society or congregation, or to any person or persons in trust for the use of a church, religious society or congregation, whether incorporated or not, for the uses and purposes and within the limitations of the next preceding clause of this article.

14. That all elections ought to be free and open.

14. That courts of justice ought to be open to every person, and certain remedy afforded for every injury to person, property, or character; and that right and justice ought to be administered without sale, denial or delay.

16. That no private property ought to be taken or applied to public use, without just compensation.

17. That the right of trial by jury shall remain inviolate.

18. That in all criminal prosecutions the accused has the right to be heard by himself and his counsel; to demand the nature and cause of accusation; to have compulsory process for witnesses in his favor; to meet the witnesses against him face to face; and, in prosecutions on presentment or indictment, to a speedy trial by an impartial jury of the vicinage; that the accused can not be compelled to give evidence against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, but by the judgment of his peers, or the law of the land.

19. That no person, after having been once acquitted by a jury, can, for the same offense, be again put in jeopardy of life or liberty; but if, in any criminal prosecution, the jury be divided in opinion, the court before which the trial shall be had may, in its discretion, discharge the jury, and commit or bail the accused for trial at the next term of said court.

20. That all persons shall be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offenses, when the proof is evident or the presumption great.

21. That excessive bail shall not be required, or excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.

22. That the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus can not be suspended, unless when, in cases of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require it.

23. That the people ought to be secure in their persons, papers, houses, and effects, from unreasonable searches and seizures; and no warrant to search any place, or seize any person or thing, can issue, without describing the place to be searched, or the person or thing to be seized, as nearly as may be, nor without probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation.

24. That no person can, for an indictable offense, be proceeded against criminally by information, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service in the time of war or public danger, or, by leave of court, for oppression or misdemeanor in office.

25. That treason against the State can consist only in levying war against it, or in adhering to its enemies, giving them aid and comfort.

26. That no person can be attainted of treason or felony by the General Assembly; that no conviction can work corruption of blood; that there can be no forfeiture of estate for any crime, except treason, and that the estates of such persons as may destroy their own lives shall descent or vest as in cases of natural death.

27. That the free communication of thoughts and opinions is one of the invaluable rights of man, and that every person may freely speak, write, and print on any subject, being responsible for the abuse of that liberty; that in all prosecutions for libel, the truth thereof may be given in evidence, and the jury may determine the law and facts, under the direction of the court.

28. That no ex post facto law, nor law impairing the obligation of contracts, or retrospective in its operation, can be passed.

29. That imprisonment for debt can not exist in this State, except for fines or penalties imposed for violation of law.

30. That all property subject to taxation ought to be taxed in proportion to its value.

31. That no title of nobility, or hereditary emolument, privilege, or distinction can be granted.

32. That the military is, and in all cases and at all times ought to be, in strict subordination to the civil powers; that no soldier can, in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner; nor in time of war, but in such manner as may be prescribed by law, nor can any appropriation for the support of an army be made for a longer period than two years.

On request of Mr. MORTON, leave of absence was granted him for one week.

MR. WILLIAMS of Scotland requested, on account of absence when the vote was taken, to record his vote on the expulsion of Mr. Harris; which was not granted.

MR. GILSTRAP, chairman of the committee on the mode of amending the Constitution, presented the following report:

MR. PRESIDENT: A majority of the committee have instructed me to report the accompanying article on the mode of amending the Constitution. There was some diversity of opinion as to some of the changes introduced, and not such an agreement as is desirable.

The article provides for proposing amendments by a majority of the members elected to each House of the General Assembly, a specific mode of publication, and for the ratification of these amendments by a direct vote of the people upon each amendment separately, in such manner as the General Assembly may provide.

This method of ratification has much to recommend it. The voices of the voters are equally counted in ascertaining the majority, which is not the case when the ratification is by the General Assembly. By going directly to the people with these amendments, there can be no mistaking the public will; nor can there be ground for any complaint; a majority of the legal voters will certainly rule in the formation of the organic law.

The third section simply declares the right of the people to bind a convention by the organic act, and secures the effective operation of the bill of rights in behalf of the people; and to that end, requires an oath to support the Constitution of the United States and of the State of Missouri, and faithfully to demean themselves as delegates to such convention. Conventions are delegated bodies, and hence should be responsible, under the law, to the people.

All of which are respectfully submitted.

A. L. GILSTRAP, Chairman.

ARTICLE —.

Mode of Amending and Revising the Constitution.

SECTION 1. The Constitution may be amended and revised in pursuance of the provisions of this article.

SEC. 2. The General Assembly, at any time, may propose such amendments to this Constitution as a majority of the members elected to each house shall deem expedient; and the vote thereon shall be taken by ayes and noes, and entered, in full, on the journals; and the proposed amendments shall be published with the laws of that session, and also shall be published weekly in two newspapers, if such there be, within each congressional district in the State, having the largest circulation therein, for four months next preceding the general election then next coming. The proposed amendments shall be submitted to a vote of the people—each amendment separately—at the next general election thereafter, in such manner as the General Assembly may provide; and if a majority of the qualified voters of the State, voting for and against any one of said amendments, shall vote for such amendment, the same shall be deemed and taken to have been ratified by the people, and shall be valid and binding, to all intents and purposes, as parts of this Constitution.

SEC. 3. All conventions hereafter organized in this State shall be bound by the terms of the organic act calling such convention, not inconsistent with the Constitution and laws of the United States; and each member shall take an oath to support the Constitution of the United States, and of the State of Missouri, and to faithfully demean himself as a delegate in said Convention.

The foregoing article was read the first and second time by its title, and ordered to be printed.

allowed to solemnize the rights of matrimony, or to act as an officer in any corporation within this State.

First—All persons who have been, or who hereafter may be, voluntarily engaged in any armed insurrection or rebellion, or in any armed hostile array, against the government of the United States, or of the State of Missouri.

Second—All persons who have been, or who hereafter may be, voluntarily engaged in giving aid and comfort to any person or persons described in the preceding subdivision.

Fourth—All persons who have, or who hereafter may have, since the tenth day of June, A. D. 1862, voluntarily adhered to the cause of the (so-called) Confederate States of America; Provided, That any person who may be disqualified, under the first or second subdivision of this section, for acts done, or words spoken or written, prior to the said tenth day of June, A. D. 1862, and who, prior to said day, shall have taken the benefit of any proclamation of pardon or of amnesty, in relief therefrom, issued under the authority of the President of the United States, or of the Governor of the State of Missouri, or under any ordinance of her Convention, and who shall have continued faithfully to keep and observe the conditions thereof, shall be relieved and excepted from all disqualifications under this section; and provided further, That any person who may be disqualified, under the provisions of the first, second or fourth subdivision of this section, prior to the tenth day of May, A. D. 1865, and who shall have, prior to that day, volunteered into the military service of the United States, and shall faithfully serve therein for the period of twelve months, unless sooner discharged, shall be relieved from such disqualification.

ARTICLE V.

Of the Judicial Department.

SECTION 1. The judicial power, as to matters of law and equity, shall be vested in a supreme court, in circuit courts, and in such inferior tribunals as the General Assembly may, from time to time, establish.

SEC. 2. The supreme court, except in cases otherwise directed by the Constitution, shall have appellate jurisdiction only, which shall be co-extensive with the State, under the restrictions and limitations in this Constitution provided.

SEC. 3. The supreme court shall have a general superintending control over all inferior courts of law. It shall have power to issue writs of habeas corpus, mandamus, quo warranto, certiorari, and original remedial writs, and to hear and determine the same.

SEC. 4. The supreme court shall consist of five judges, any three of whom shall be a quorum, and the said judges shall be conservators of the peace throughout the State.

SEC. 5. The State shall be divided into convenient districts, not to exceed four, in each of which the supreme court shall hold two sessions annually, at such time and place as the General Assembly may appoint; and, when sitting in either district, it shall exercise jurisdiction over causes originating in that district only; but the General Assembly may direct, by law, that the said court shall be held at one place only.

SEC. 10. The judges of the supreme court shall hold office for the term of ten years, and until their successors shall be duly elected and qualified, except as hereinafter provided.

SEC. 7. At the general election, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight, all the five judges of the supreme court shall be elected by the qualified voters of the State, and shall enter upon their office on the first Monday of January, next ensuing. At the first session of the court thereafter, the judges shall, by lot, determine the duration of their several terms of office, which shall be, respectively, two, four, six, eight, and ten years, and shall certify the result to the Secretary of State. At the general election, every two years after said first election, one judge of said court shall be elected, to hold office for the period of ten years from the first Monday of January, next ensuing. The judge having, at any time, the shortest time to serve, shall be the presiding judge of the court.

SEC. 8. If a vacancy shall happen in the office of any judge of the supreme court, by death, resignation, removal from the State, or other disqualification, the Governor shall appoint a suitable person to fill the vacancy until the next general election, when the same shall be filled by election, by the qualified voters of the State, for the residue of the term.

SEC. 9. In case of a tie, or a contested election between the candidates, the same shall be determined in the manner prescribed by law.

SEC. 10. If, in regard to any cause pending in the supreme court, the judges sitting shall be equally divided in opinion, no judgment shall be entered therein based on such division; but the parties to the cause may agree upon some person, learned in the law, who shall act as special judge in the cause, and who shall therein sit with the court, and give decision in the same manner, and with the same effect, as one of the judges. If the parties cannot agree upon a special judge, the court shall appoint one.

SEC. 11. The judges of the supreme court shall give their opinion upon important questions of constitutional law, and upon solemn occasions, when required by the Governor, the Senate, or the House of Representatives; and all such opinions shall be published in connection with the reported decisions of said court.

SEC. 12. The circuit court shall have jurisdiction over all criminal cases, which shall not be otherwise provided for by law; and exclusive original jurisdiction in all civil cases which shall not be cognizable before justices of the peace, until otherwise directed by the General Assembly. It shall hold its terms at such time and place, in each county, as may be by law directed.

SEC. 13. The State shall be divided into convenient circuits, for each of which, except as in the next succeeding section specified, a judge shall be elected by the qualified voters of the respective circuits, and shall be elected for the term of six years, but may continue in office until his successor shall be elected and qualified; and the judge of each circuit, after his election or appointment, as hereinafter provided, shall reside in, and be a conservator of, the place within the circuit for which he shall be elected or appointed; and if any vacancy shall happen in the office of any circuit judge, by death, resignation, removal out of his circuit, or by any other disqualification, the Governor shall, upon being satisfied that a vacancy exists, issue a writ of election to fill such vacancy: Provided, That said vacancy shall happen at least six months before the next general election for said judge; but if such vacancy shall happen within six months of the general election aforesaid, the Governor shall appoint a judge for such circuit; but every election or appointment to fill a vacancy shall be for the residue of the term only. And the General Assembly shall provide, by law, for the election of said judges in their respective circuits; and in case of a tie, or contested election between the candidates, the same shall be determined in the manner to be prescribed by law. And the General Assembly shall provide, by law, for the election of said judges, in their respective circuits, to fill any vacancy which shall occur at any time at least six months before a general election for said judges. The first general election for circuit judges shall be on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1869, and on the same day every six years thereafter. No judicial circuit shall be altered or changed at any session of the General Assembly next preceding the general election for said judges.

SEC. 14. From and after the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, the circuit court of the county of St. Louis shall be composed of three judges, each of whom shall try causes separately, and all, or a majority of whom, shall constitute a court in bank, to decide questions of law, and to correct errors occurring in trials; and, from and after that day, there shall not be in said county any other court of record having civil jurisdiction, except a court of probate and county court. The additional judges authorized by this section, shall be appointed by the Governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate, and shall hold their offices until the next general election of judges of the circuit courts, when the whole number of the judges of the said court shall be elected for the term of six years. The General Assembly shall have power to increase the number of the judges of said court, from time to time, as the public interest may require.

SEC. 15. If there be a vacancy in the office of judge of any circuit, or if he be sick, absent, or from any cause unable to hold any term of court of any county of his circuit, such term of court may be held by a judge of any other circuit, and at the request of the judge of any circuit, any term of court in this circuit may be held by the judge of any other circuit.

SEC. 16. No person shall be elected or appointed a judge of the supreme court, nor of a circuit court, before he shall have attained to the age of thirty years.

SEC. 17. Any judge of the supreme court, or the circuit court, may be removed from office on the address of two-thirds of each house of the General Assembly to the Governor for that purpose; but each house shall state, on its respective journal, the cause for which it shall wish the removal of such judge, and give him notice thereof; and he shall have the right to be heard in his defense, in such manner as the General Assembly shall by law direct, but no judge shall be removed in this manner for any cause for which he might have been impeached.

SEC. 18. The judges of the supreme court, and the judges of the circuit courts shall, at stated times, receive a compensation for their services, to be fixed by law.

SEC. 19. The circuit court shall exercise a superintending control over all such inferior tribunals as the General Assembly may establish, and over justices of the peace in each county in their respective circuits.

SEC. 20. There shall be clerks of the courts created or directed by this Constitution, who shall be elected by the qualified voters of the respective counties, in such manner, and hold their offices for such time, and be rewarded in such manner, as the General Assembly shall by law provide.

SEC. 21. Inferior tribunals shall be established in each county for the transaction of all county business.

SEC. 22. There shall be established in each county a probate court, which shall be a court of record, open at all times, and holden by one judge, elected by the voters of the county, who shall hold his office for the term of — years, and shall receive such compensation, payable out of the county treasury, or fees, or both, as shall be provided by law.

SEC. 23. SEC. 2. A criminal court of record is hereby established in each of said districts, composed of one judge for each district, who shall be appointed by the Governor of the State, and hold office during his pleasure, until otherwise provided by the General Assembly.

SEC. 3. The criminal court hereby established shall have original criminal jurisdiction, concurrent with the circuit courts (except misdemeanors), within each district, so extensive throughout the district, in all respects as the circuit courts now have in each county. And the judge of each district shall have power to cause to be summoned and impaneled, from time to time, grand juries; to appoint his own times and places within his district for holding his court, to do which no notice shall be required; and it shall continue in session, from day to day (Sundays excepted) as long as may be necessary.

And each and every sheriff, in each district, shall be subject to be ordered by the judge thereof, to attend his court, summon grand and petit jurors, serve writs and other process, issued from such court, and shall obey the same. The private seal of the clerk, with his signature, shall be a sufficient authentication of any writ or order; and the approval of the judge, following the signature and seal of the clerk, shall be a sufficient authentication of any record. Appeals and writs of error shall lie from these courts to the supreme court.

In each of said districts there shall be a prosecuting attorney, appointed by the Governor, who shall hold office during his pleasure; shall be subject to the same laws, and entitled to the same fees, as circuit attorneys, except that his annual salary, paid quarter-yearly, out of the State treasury, shall be one thousand dollars.

For the purpose of ascertaining the sense of the people in regard to the adoption or rejection of this Constitution, the same shall be submitted to the qualified voters of the State, at an election to be held on the — day of —, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, at the several election precincts in this State, and elsewhere, as hereinafter provided. On that day, or on any day not more than fifteen days prior thereto, such qualified voters of this State as shall then be absent from the places of their residence, by reason of being in the military service of the United States, or of this State, whether they then be in or out of this State, shall be entitled to vote on the adoption or rejection of this Constitution. For that purpose a poll shall be opened in each Missouri regiment or company in such service, at the quarters of the commanding officer thereof, and the voters of this State belonging to such regiment or company, and any others belonging to any such regiment or company, and who may be present, may vote at such poll. Any one or two commissioned officers of such regiment or company, who may be present at the opening of the poll, shall act as judge or judges of the election; and if no such officer be present, then the voters of such regiment or company present shall elect two of the voters present to act as such judges. Every such judge shall, before any votes are received, take an oath, or affirmation, that he will honestly and faithfully perform the duties of judge, and make proper returns of the votes given at such election; and such oath the judges may administer to each other. The said election shall be conducted by, and the returns thereof made to, the clerks of the several county courts, and by them certified to the Secretary of State, as provided by law in the case of elections of State officers; and where an election shall be held in a regiment or company, the returns thereof, with the poll-books, shall be certified to the Secretary of State, and may be transmitted by mail, or by any messenger to whom the judges of the election may entrust the same for that purpose.

SEC. 5. Any qualified voter of this State, within the State, who, on the day of said election, shall be absent from the place of his residence, may vote at any place of voting, upon satisfying the judges that he is a qualified voter, and being sworn by them that he has not voted, and will not vote, in said election, at any other election precinct.

SEC. 6. At said election, no person shall be allowed to vote who is not a qualified voter according to the terms of this Constitution. The judges of election shall administer, to every person offering to vote, the oath or affirmation prescribed by this Constitution, in lieu of the oath now required to be taken by voters, under the ordinance of June 10, 1862; and should any such person decline to take said oath, he shall not be permitted to vote at said election; but the taking thereof shall not be deemed conclusive evidence of the right of such person to vote, but such right may be disputed and disproved.

On motion of MR. BONHAM, the Convention resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole, to consider amendments to the Constitution. After some time spent therein, the President resumed the chair, and MR. BONHAM reported that the Committee had, according to order, had under consideration amendments to the Constitution, and particularly the article on Elections, Qualifications of Voters, Officers, and others, but had come to no resolution thereon.

On motion of MR. BONHAM, the Convention adjourned until half-past 2 o'clock P. M.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment, the President in the Chair.

On motion of MR. WEATHERBY, the following resolutions, heretofore offered by MR. Williams of Scotland, were ordered to be spread upon the journal:

Be it resolved by the people of the State of Missouri, in Convention assembled:

1. That it shall be the duty of each delegate elected to this Convention to lay out, frame, put together, build and make a Constitution that will harmonize, not with the views of a majority of the members of this Convention, nor with the views of a majority of the people of the State of Missouri; but it shall be his duty to make a Constitution that will harmonize in every particular with his own individual prejudices, so that when it is submitted for ratification or rejection, not to the people of the State, but to himself individually, it may be adopted without one dissenting voice. Adopted unanimously.

2. That if this Convention should have the audacity and effrontery to adopt, by a majority of all the members elect, a Constitution other than the one mentioned in the first resolution, then it shall be the duty of all the delegates who feel aggrieved in consequence thereof, to stump every county, township, school district, precinct, school-house, farm-house, meeting-house, log-house, saw mill, beer saloon, and beer garden in the State; so that when the people become fully aware that the Constitution does not harmonize with the individual prejudices of the delegate so aggrieved, they may reject it by an overwhelming majority; and that we pledge St. Louis to give a majority of five thousand against it.

3. That St. Louis is Missouri; that Turner Hall is the forum of America, the mouth-piece of this State, and celebrated for its great Barons, its Cromwellian style of doing business, its lager beer and big petitions.

4. That St. Louis is, and by right ought to be, a free and independent city, with full power to elect its own Governor and Legislature; and that all attempts to annex it to the State of Missouri, or to subject it to such laws as those to which other parts of the State are subjected, ought to be resisted with the whole power of the German empire.

5. That, in order that the orations delivered in this hall may be preserved in all their original purity, grace, and elegance, this Convention shall employ a special reporter, whose duty it shall be to write down all speeches, word for word, and letter for letter, just as they fall from the lips of the orators; with the accent, emphasis, articulation, pronunciation, gesture, and all the other variations, as near as may be, together with the direct bearing that they have upon the subject under discussion, in order that they may be deposited in the museum in this city, to be exhibited as unnatural curiosities; and that all money received for such exhibition shall be paid into the State treasury to defray the expenses of this Convention.

6. That there should be written over the door leading to little Library Hall, in large letters, the following words, to-wit: "All kinds of turning and twisting done here—gas for sale cheap, and blowing done to order."

7. That there are but three seats on the bench of the Supreme Court, and that there should be one more, to be filled by the great American Solon.

And whereas, certain lawyers, pettifoggers, and one-horse judges have been wrangling and contending in this Convention for nearly three months to create new positions, and vacating others to be filled by themselves individually, and have accomplished nothing but waste of time and public money; therefore be it

8. Resolved, That all lawyers, pettifoggers, judges and clerks of courts, and especially all aspirants to a judgeship, are respectfully requested to ask for leave of absence for six months, or until the poor mudsills shall have extricated the business of this body from the inextricable confusion into which it has been brought through their agency.

9. That all "party breakers," "convention smashers," and "wheel blockers," who oft and again threaten to annihilate this "one-horse convention," though we admit that their minds are as profound and as philosophical as a Bacon, and their eloquence has all the strength of Demosthenes, and all the beauty of a Cicero, with wit superior to a Randolph, and sarcasm exceeding a Burgess, still they often remind us that some animals are distinguishable by their great length of ears, and, though clothed in the skins of lions, yet we can hardly be deceived by the furious braying of self-conceited asses.

10. That virtue and public morals are dead, and that the great Missouri State Convention killed them.

11. That this Convention was called together for that purpose only.

12. That it is the duty of this Convention to bury their remains, erect a monument to their memory, inscribe some touching and mournful epitaph thereon, and then adjourn, and sneak, in shame and silence, to our homes.

13. That, before doing this, however, and since we have slain virtue and killed public morals, and expressed a willingness to stab the Protestant Church under the fifth rib to conciliate the minority, we should now, as a further act of conciliation, declare that the ten commandments are a humbug; that there is no God but Bacchus, and that death is an eternal state of bacchanalian revelry. Then we shall have completed our labors, and can go home rejoicing.

On motion of Mr. BONHAM, the Convention resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole to resume the consideration of amendments to the Constitution. After some time spent therein, the President resumed the chair, and Mr. WEATHERBY reported that the committee had, according to order, had under consideration amendments to the Constitution, and particularly the article on Elections and Qualification of Voters, Officers, and others, but had come to no resolution thereon.

Mr. WILLIAMS of Caldwell asked leave of absence for Mr. Holdsworth for five days, which was granted.

Mr. NEWGENT offered the following affidavits, relative to, and sustaining, his past loyalty:

STATE OF KANSAS, }
County of Miami. } ss.

John Moudy, on oath, says that he is a resident of Paola, Miami county, Kansas; that in the spring of A. D. 1861, he lived in Bates county, Missouri, and was well acquainted with Andrew G. Newgent of Cass county, and know that he was reputed from the first as a Union man; that he made Union speeches in the counties of Cass and Bates; and that, on or about the first day of May, A. D. 1861, he and I came to Kansas together, after night, to make arrangements with the loyal people of Kansas for protection. I further say that I was intimately acquainted with said Newgent from the fall of A. D. 1856, until he entered the Union army, and never knew him otherwise than as an unswerving Union man, and cheerfully indorse him as such. JOHN MOUDY.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, this fourteenth day of March, A. D. 1865.

R. W. MASSEY, N. P.

PAOLA, KANSAS, March 14, 1865.

I willingly state that on the last of May, 1861, I returned to Cass county, Missouri, from Kentucky. I found A. G. Newgent making speeches for the Union cause. The first of June, I was mustered major of a battalion of Federal soldiers; A. G. Newgent was mustered quartermaster, and served as such until the battalion was raised to a regiment, when he was appointed colonel. He (A. G. Newgent) has been, ever since May 20th, 1861, unswervingly (to my knowledge) a Union—yes, a radical—man, notwithstanding the Republican states to the contrary. A. H. DEANE.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, this fourteenth day of March, A. D. 1865.

R. W. MASSEY, N. P.

STATE OF MISSOURI, }
Jackson County. }

Before the undersigned personally appeared Elihu F. Rogers, who, being by me first duly sworn, doth depose and say that he is, and was at the outbreak of the rebellion, well acquainted with Andrew G. Newgent; that then, as now, he (Newgent) was an unconditional Union man; that he made speeches for the Union, which were considered by secessionists, at that time, of the rankest kind, and for which he was branded by them as an abolitionist; that, to the certain knowledge of this deponent, he (Newgent) spent both time and money for the maintenance of the Federal Union, by making Union speeches in various parts of the country, wherever he had friends sufficient to protect him against secession mobs, and in purchasing clothing for soldiers; and that, after giving aid to recruiting for the Cass county regiment, home guards, was mustered into the service of the United States, June 27, 1861. E. F. ROGERS.

Subscribed and sworn to before me, this 10th day of March, A. D. 1865, at Kansas City, Missouri. J. H. SMITH,

*First Lieut. and Ass't Pro. Mar.
Fourth Sub-Dist., Central Missouri.*

Jackson County. }

Before the undersigned personally appeared Lewis B. Huff, Ashbel Smith and William P. Deton, and all of Jackson county, Mo., who being duly sworn depose and say: That on the 26th of April, 1861, they were severally residents of Cass county; that they were at that time well acquainted with Andrew G. Newgent, and know that he was at that time a strong Union man, opposed to secession, and accused and persecuted on account thereof; that they will remember the passage of the resolutions published in the St. Louis Republican of March 6th, 1865; and also that the same has of late been brought forward by others with the intent to prejudice him; that Andrew G. Newgent never joined in said meeting, or sat upon said committee as a sympathizer or advocate of secession; that said resolutions were prepared by R. O. Boggess, previous to said meeting, and contained in addition a resolution recommending the hanging of Union men who should refuse to leave upon notice, which, through the opposition of A. G. Newgent in committee, was stricken out. The affiant William P. Deton for himself deposes: That he was present when said resolutions came before the meeting, and then and there listened to the first and only man whom he remembers to have had courage enough, at that time, to speak for the Union, and that man was A. G. Newgent; that he then, speaking upon those resolutions, denounced secession and rebellion; that this affiant remembers distinctly the following sentiment then uttered, to-wit: "That if this State seceded our homes will become stables for cavalry," etc.; drawing a picture of the middle States in such an event; that a few days after Col. A. G. Newgent, by reason of his Unionism, was forced to flee from Harrisonville for his life, and that after he had gone affiant saw two armed rebels, who asked him if he had heard what Colonel Newgent had said at the Convention, in favor of the Union, and that they were in search of him to give him his quietus. Affiant Lewis B. Huff says he met Colonel Newgent when he was fleeing from Harrisonville, and said to him: "Newgent, what hand have you had in this meeting in town?" (i. e. Harrisonville.) He answered affiant as follows (this was two or three days after the meeting): "I have done that which has saved you and me, and the rest of the Union men of Harrisonville."

All of these deponents say that they were afterward engaged in removing Colonel Newgent's family from Harrisonville, where he dare not go; that he fled to Austin, and thence to Crescent Hill, and that up to June 27 he spent his time making Union speeches and raising the Cass county regiment of Missouri home guards, in which he was First Lieutenant and Quartermaster from the 27th of June to the 1st of August, when he received his commission as colonel, from General Fremont.

LEWIS B. HUFF,
ASHBEL SMITH,
WM. P. DETON.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 10th day of March, A. D. 1865.

J. H. SMITH,

STATE OF MISSOURI, } ss.
County of St. Louis. }

Be it remembered, that on this 8th day of March, 1865, before the undersigned, Judge of the Ninth circuit of Missouri, personally came William A. Jack and Elias P. West, who, being by me duly sworn, upon their oaths state: That at a meeting held at the city of Harrisonville, in Cass county, on the 26th day of April, 1861, the proceedings of which were republished in the Missouri Republican, of the 5th of March, 1865, Andrew G. Newgent and these affiants were appointed, with others, a committee to draft resolutions; that the resolutions recommended by said committee, and adopted by the meeting, were opposed in committee by the said Newgent and these affiants, and were not supported in the meeting by affiants, nor, as they believe, by said Newgent; that said West, being named chairman of the committee, called another to the chair, and came down and offered resolutions different from those adopted, the effect of which was to invite back and extend protection to Lincoln men who had left the county on account of the excitement of the day, which latter resolutions were supported by said Newgent and these affiants in the committee, but were voted down and others adopted, against the consent of said Newgent and these affiants; that the public call for said meeting invited persons of all political parties to participate in the same, and its object, as affiants, and as they believe said Newgent understood, was to invite back and extend protection to citizens who had left that county on account of their political opinions; that, in a few days after said meeting, said Newgent went to work energetically, raising troops for the United States service, in what was called the home guards; and that affiants have not now, nor have they ever had, any doubt of the unconditional loyalty of said Newgent, and that he was and is generally so reputed in his county and where known. We have known Colonel Newgent for ten or fifteen years; Colonel Newgent was recognized by both loyal and disloyal men as an unconditional Union man in the spring of 1861.

WILLIAM A. JACK,
ELIAS P. WEST.

Mr. DRAKE offered the following new proposition as a Declaration of Rights, which was read the first time:

ARTICLE —.

Declaration of Rights.

That the general, great and essential principles of liberty and free government may be recognized and established, and that the relation of this State to the Union and Government of the United States, and those of the people of this State to the rest of the American people, may be defined and affirmed, we do declare—

1. That we hold it to be self-evident that all men are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, among which are life, liberty, the enjoyment of the fruits of their own labor, and the pursuit of happiness;

2. That there can not be, in this State, either slavery or involuntary servitude, except in punishment of crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted:

3. That no person can, on account of color, be disqualified as a witness; or be disabled to contract, otherwise than as others are disabled; or be prevented from acquiring, holding, and transmitting property; or be liable to any other punishment, for any offense, than that imposed upon others for a like offense; or be restricted in the exercise of religious worship; or be hindered in acquiring education; or be subjected, in law, to any other restraints and disqualifications, in regard to any personal rights, than such as are laid upon others under like circumstances:

4. That all political power is vested in and derived from the people; that all government of right originates from the people, is founded upon their will only, and is instituted solely for the good of the whole:

5. That the people of this State have the inherent, sole and exclusive right of regulating the internal government and police thereof, and of altering and abolishing their Constitution and form of government, whenever it may be necessary to their safety and happiness; but every such right should be exercised in pursuance of law, and consistently with the Constitution of the United States:

6. That this State shall ever remain a member of the American Union; that the people thereof are a part of the American nation; and that all attempts, from whatever source or upon whatever pretext, to dissolve said Union, or to sever said nation, ought to be resisted with the whole power of the State:

7. That every citizen of this State owes paramount allegiance to the Constitution and Government of the United States, and that no law or ordinance of this State, in contravention or subversion thereof, can have any binding force:

8. That the people have the right peaceably to assemble for their common good, and to apply to those vested with the powers of government for redress of grievances, by petition or remonstrance; and that their right to bear arms in defense of themselves, and of the lawful authority of the State, can not be questioned:

9. prosecutions on presentment or indictment, to a speedy trial by an impartial jury of the vicinage; that the accused can not be compelled to give evidence against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, but by the judgment of his peers or the law of the land:

19. That no person, after having been once acquitted by a jury, can, for the same offense, be again put in jeopardy of life or liberty; but if, in any criminal prosecution, the jury be divided in opinion, the court before which the trial shall be had may, in its discretion, discharge the jury, and commit or bail the accused for trial at the next term of said court:

20. That all persons shall be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offenses, when the proof is evident or the presumption great:

21. That excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted:

22. That the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus can not be suspended, unless when, in cases of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require it:

23. That the people ought to be secure in their persons, papers, houses, and effects from unreasonable searches and seizures; and no warrant to search any place, or seize any person or thing, can issue, without describing the place to be searched, or the person or thing to be seized, as nearly as may be, nor without probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation:

24. That no person can, for an indictable offense, be proceeded against criminally by information, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service in the time of war or public danger, or, by leave of court, for oppression or misdemeanor in office:

25. That treason against the State can consist only in levying war against it, or in adhering to its enemies, giving them aid and comfort:

26. That no person can be attainted of treason or felony by the General Assembly; that no conviction can work corruption of blood; that there can be no forfeiture of estate for any crime, except treason, and that the estates of such persons as may destroy their own lives shall descend or vest, as in cases of natural death:

27. That the free communication of thoughts and opinions is one of the most invaluable rights of man, and that every person may freely speak, write, and print on any subject, being responsible for the abuse of that liberty; that in all prosecutions for libel, the truth thereof may be given in evidence, and the jury may determine the law and facts, under the direction of the court:

28. That no ex post facto law, nor law impairing the obligation of contracts, or retrospective in its operation, can be passed:

29. That imprisonment for debt can not exist in this State, except for fines or penalties imposed for violation of law:

30. That all property subject to taxation ought to be taxed in proportion to its value:

31. That no title of nobility, or hereditary emolument, privilege, or distinction, can be granted:

And if a majority of the votes given upon the question, at any such election, shall have been in favor of colored suffrage, the persons of color, being otherwise qualified as voters, shall be entitled to vote at all elections by the people. ARTICLE —.

Elections, Qualifications of Voters and others.

SECTION 1. After the adoption of this Constitution, all general elections shall be held biennially, commencing on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November, A. D. 1866, and every two years thereafter, on Tuesday, before the first Monday of the same month: Provided, The General Assembly may, by law, prescribe a different day.

SEC. 2. Every white male citizen of the United States (except idiots, insane persons, and such as are disqualified in the third section of this article for disloyal practices and sympathies), who shall have attained to the age of twenty-one years, been a resident of this State one year, and of the county in which he offers to vote two months, next before an election, shall be entitled to be registered, and to vote at all elections.

SEC. 3. Persons who, since the seventeenth day of December, A. D. 1861, shall have voluntarily engaged in war, rebellion, insurrection, or warlike array (or who, since said day, shall have voluntarily adhered to, openly sympathized with, or in any way aided, abetted, or encouraged others so engaged) against the government of the United States, or of the State of Missouri, or the military forces or loyal people thereof, and persons who, after having voted at any election, shall have claimed protection of any foreign government, to secure exemption from any military draft, or from service in the militia forces of this State, are hereby disqualified to vote, hold office, serve on juries, teach in public schools, serve as judges or clerks of any election, or as an officer of any corporation in this State: Provided, however, That any such person who, after having committed the acts aforesaid, shall have enlisted, as a volunteer, in the military service of the United States, or of this State, and served one year, or more, and been thereafter honorably discharged, is hereby relieved against the disabilities hereinabove imposed.

SEC. 4. All elections shall be by ballot, and continue one day only, except that the votes of qualified electors, absent in the military service of the United States, or of this State, shall be taken in any manner, on any day or days within twenty days before any election day, and returned in any time and manner as the General Assembly may, by law, prescribe.

SEC. 5. The General Assembly shall have power to exclude from the privileges of an elector, or other privilege, any person who may have been convicted of bribery, perjury, or other infamous crime.

SEC. 6. Electors, during attendance at elections, and in going to and returning therefrom, shall be privileged from arrest, in all cases except treason, felony, or breach of the peace.

SEC. 7. No person in the military, naval, or marine service of the United States, shall, by being stationed in any garrison, military or naval station within this State, be considered a resident of this State.

SEC. 8. For the purpose of preserving in purity the elective franchise to the loyal people, and of carrying into effect the provisions of this article of the Constitution, it shall be the duty of the General Assembly, before the next general election, to enact a uniform registration law, with such safeguards as will secure the registration of the qualified electors in every county, protect the ballot-box to loyal voters, and exclude therefrom the persons disqualified in section three of this article: Provided, That until such law shall have been enacted, elections may be conducted, and returns made, as now provided by law.

SEC. 9. It shall be the duty of the General Assembly, in addition to a registration law, to pass all such laws as may be found necessary to enforce the provisions of the several sections of this article, and especially the disqualifications imposed in the third section.

SEC. 10. Two years after the suppression of the rebellion and the restoration of peace between the Government of the United States and the so-called Confederate States of America, the General Assembly shall have power to declare, by law, the third section of this article, in whole or in part, inoperative and void, with such discriminations as they may by law provide.

SEC. 11. Before any person shall hold any position as an officer in any corporation vote at any election, or teach in any public school in this State, he shall take and subscribe to the following constitutional oath: "I, A. B., do solemnly swear (or affirm) that, since the 17th day of December, 1861, I have never, voluntarily, engaged in war, rebellion, insurrection, or warlike array (nor have I, since said day, voluntarily, adhered to, openly sympathized with, or in any way aided, abetted, or encouraged others so engaged) against the Government of the United States or of the State of Missouri, or the military forces, or the loyal people thereof; nor have I, since said day, having voted at any election, ever claimed the protection of any foreign government, to secure exemption from any military drafts, or from service in the militia forces of this State; but, since said day, I have, at all times, faithfully adhered to my allegiance to the Government of the United States and of the State of Missouri. I will support, defend and protect the Constitution of the United States and of this State against all enemies or opposers, so help me God."

Mr. STRONG, Chairman of the Committee on Education, presented the following report:

The committee to whom was referred the article of the Constitution upon Education, would respectfully report, that they have had the subject under consideration, and herewith present an article which embodies the views of the committee.

It will be readily admitted that the subject of general education is one of the most important that can engage the attention of those who desire the success and permanency of free institutions. All the constitutional safeguards which can be thrown around the liberty of the people will avail but little, unless the people themselves possess a sufficient degree of knowledge and intelligence rightly to appreciate the benefits of free government.

In our own State, just emerging from the desolations and dangers of a terrible civil war, and throwing off the shackles of a system of domestic slavery, which paralyzed energy, discouraged enterprise, and proscribed the general diffusion of knowledge, it seems a most appropriate time to establish a system of public schools, which, in the munificence of its provisions, the comprehensiveness of its objects, shall make free Missouri a worthy pattern for all States that would carry the means of a good education to the door of every inhabitant, without distinction of race, of color, or condition.

The plan we propose contemplates the establishment of a free school in every neighborhood where a sufficient number of children can be found to compose a school, in which the primary branches of instruction—reading, writing, spelling, arithmetic, geography, and grammar—shall be taught to every child in the State, who desires or needs the advantages of such instruction.

As population increases, the same plan will permit the establishment of schools of a higher grade, for instruction in the higher branches of education. Provision is also made for the establishment of a State University, which will furnish all the advantages of the most liberal course of instruction, with departments or colleges, which may be located at different points within the State, in which special instruction shall be given in the art of teaching, also in agriculture, and in the natural sciences, especially in their application to the development of the extraordinary agricultural and mineral resources of the State.

The thorough training of professional teachers, thereby securing for that most honorable and important calling, the rank and dignity of the so-called "learned and liberal professions," appears to be the first step towards securing the complete success of any system of popular education. Until this is effected, we shall be dependent for most of our teachers upon those who, however well qualified so far as literary attainments are concerned, have never contemplated the profession of a teacher as the business of life, and enter upon it as a temporary expedient, to secure the means for attaining some other profession or position, deemed more honorable or desirable, rather than as a position of usefulness and influence, worthy the noblest energies and most ardent devotion of a lifetime.

A system which depends for its success upon the efforts of those who have no permanent interest in it, labors under great disadvantages. A successful teacher must be not only well trained in the theory of his profession, but he must possess an enthusiastic devotion to it, and that entire consecration of all his faculties to its prosecution, which, in this, as in all other professions, is essential to success. In theology, law and medicine, we expect a professional education, and schools are endowed for special instruction upon those subjects.

Why should not the teacher be prepared for his most important work, by special instruction in the peculiar duties of his profession?

The departments of agriculture and the natural sciences, will have a most important bearing upon the development of the agricultural and mineral resources of the State.

Whatever prejudice may exist against what is called "book farming," it is nevertheless true that knowledge and intelligence are as valuable in the cultivation of the soil as in any other pursuit. Scientific research has not only developed the mode whereby two blades of grass can be made to grow where only one would grow before, but it has discovered the means whereby the exhausted soil and the sterile waste might be reclaimed and made to yield abundant harvests.

As Missouri possesses a soil and climate peculiarly adapted to the production of the greatest variety and abundance of fruits and grains, and especially of the grape, it seems appropriate that we should establish, at the earliest practicable moment, a department for instruction in those sciences which have a direct bearing upon the development of this agricultural wealth, not only that we may secure the greatest return for the labor and capital invested, but that we may give dignity and importance to the pursuits of the husbandman, and make his calling what it should be, the most independent and honorable that can engage the attention of a freeman.

What science can do for agriculture, it can also do, perhaps in a higher degree, in developing and reducing to practical value, the varied and exhaustless mineral resources of the State, thereby inviting among us capital, labor and skill from other countries, and adding to the wealth and attractiveness of our commonwealth.

The management of the affairs of the public schools is committed to a board of education, composed of three persons, two of whom are officers of the State Government, and the other is elected for the express purpose of superintending the affairs of these schools. This officer will be the president of the board, and will be mainly responsible to the public for the success of the system of free schools. He is to hold his office for four years, being two years longer than the term of other State officers. Most of your committee deemed it proper to make his term of office four years, because of the extended field with which he must become ultimately acquainted, and because of the necessity of securing uniformity and a general harmony of plan in the schools throughout the State, to insure efficiency; and no man, in the short space of two years, could expect to organize and set in motion so extensive a system of public schools as our plan contemplates, nor to become acquainted with its workings and necessities after it was organized. Frequent changes in the mode of instruction, or in any of the general arrangements of such schools, must necessarily be detrimental, and should be avoided.

The election of the superintendent is left with the people. Much will depend upon the character and qualifications of this officer. He should be a man not only of thorough mental culture and extensive information, but of enlarged and liberal views, having some proper estimate of the responsibility of his position, and the magnitude of the work entrusted to him. The training of the children and youth of a free commonwealth is a trust of no ordinary importance. He should be able to secure the confidence of the individual parent, who will entrust to him his most valued possessions (his children), at the same time that he rightly guards the best interests of the State at large. As none are more deeply interested in securing a competent and worthy superintendent than those who are to support these schools, and be benefited by them, it seems eminently proper to leave the selection of this officer to the choice of the people.

Another feature of our plan is found in the attempt to secure an equal distribution of all funds held for purposes of common schools throughout the State. Your committee consider that it would be very advantageous to the cause of popular education, if local funds were, as far as possible, merged in the public school fund held by the State; but as this can not be accomplished without infringing upon vested rights, the equalization can only be secured by discriminating in favor of those sections of the State which have no public funds, so that the children in those sections will receive an amount from the State fund equal to the amount received by those favored with local funds. There seems to be a propriety in this mode of distribution which needs no argument to commend it to all the friends of equal justice.

The removal of slavery, as one of the institutions of the State, and the consequent change of policy toward the colored race among us, has imposed upon the commonwealth the duty of furnishing to this hitherto oppressed and neglected people the means of education. We are under imperative obligations to do this, from a sense of justice to them, and from a regard to our own safety. One of the deepest wrongs inflicted upon the African race, by the system of slavery, was the deprivation of all means of education and self-improvement. So long as the State doomed him to slavery, it was deemed essential to her security that he should be kept in ignorance. Intelligence and slavery could not long exist together. But since he has been made a free man, it is equally essential that he should be made intelligent. Provision has therefore been made for an equal participation by colored children in the benefits of the public school fund, with the whites. The only distinction between the races, found in the article we submit, is that which enables the General Assembly to establish separate schools for children of color. We do not expect, and have not sought, to obliterate what has been termed an "antipathy of the races," by constitutional or legislative enactments.

In distributing the school fund we have provided that only those who actually receive instruction shall be entitled to it, and then just in proportion to the length of time during which they attend the public schools. The great object to be secured is the education of every child in the State to that extent which is perhaps most generally understood by the phrase, "a good common school education," while a higher degree of attainment ought to be, and will be, provided for all who desire it, under our system, when fully organized. Nothing less than this would deserve the name of popular education. To secure at least this degree of mental culture, provision is made for requiring attendance at the public schools of all children who are not otherwise instructed, during such a period of time as will enable each child to acquire the rudiments of education. The time fixed in the article is four years, of four months each: that is, each child, not incapacitated by mental or physical infirmity, must receive at least sixteen months instruction, at some period between the ages of five and eighteen years.

We suppose the instances will be rare indeed where the State will be obliged to compel an acceptance of its munificent bounty, in providing the means of education for all the children and youth in the State. But should ignorance or cupidity desire to withhold from any child the advantages secured by this liberal provision on the part of the State, the law should provide the means whereby such cruel neglect on the part of any parent or guardian could be prevented.

One of the maxims of the law, as rigidly enforced as almost any other, is that "ignorance of the law furnishes no excuse" for its violation. Ample provision is made by the State for the publication of the laws, by which the people are to regulate their conduct. But of what avail are such provisions, unless the people are able to read? As well might the enactments of the General Assembly be fastened upon lofty pillars, too high to be seen, like the edicts of an ancient tyrant, or published in an unknown language, as to be printed and circulated where the advantages of education had never been enjoyed. If, then, the State would insure the success of her efforts to make every one acquainted with the laws of the land, she should furnish to every citizen an education which will enable him at least to read the Constitution and laws under which he lives.

We trust the day is not far distant when the curse of civil strife will be removed; when those who have so gallantly fought the battles of freedom will be able to "beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into pruning hooks," and return in peace and security to their own firesides.

Among the earliest indications of returning prosperity let them see the school house established in every neighborhood, and the blessings of education provided for their children, as a pledge of a grateful commonwealth that the free institutions so nobly defended by the fathers shall be secured to their descendants.

We have thus endeavored to set forth, in general terms, some of the principles of the system of popular education, which is embodied in the article herewith submitted. We ask from the Convention a favorable consideration of the merits of the plan proposed, believing, as we do, that the action of this Convention upon the subject of public schools, will have much to do in encouraging desirable emigration to our State.

A careful and thrifty husbandry may pour into the marts of commerce, and into the granaries of every inhabitant of the State, abundant productions of our exuberant soil; capital and skill may secure, for our rich and exhaustless mines, returns of untold wealth; but, after all, the security of free institutions, and the honor and glory of a free commonwealth, will be found only in an intelligent and virtuous people.

SEC. 3. The supervision of public instruction shall be vested in a Board of Education, whose powers and duties shall be prescribed by law; a Superintendent of Public Schools, who shall be the president of the board, shall be elected by the qualified voters of the State; he shall possess the qualifications of a State Senator, and hold his office for the term of four years; he shall perform such duties and receive such compensation as may be prescribed by law. The Secretary of State and Attorney General shall be ex-officio members, and, with the superintendent, compose said board of education.

SEC. 4. The General Assembly shall also establish and maintain a State University, with departments for instruction in teaching, agriculture, and in natural science, as soon as the public school fund will permit.

The proceeds of all lands that have been, or hereafter may be, granted by the United States to this State, and not otherwise appropriated by the United States; also, all moneys, stocks, bonds, lands, and other property, now belonging to any fund for purposes of education; also, the net proceeds of all sales of lands, and other property and effects, that may accrue to the State by escheat, or from sales of estrays, or from unclaimed dividends, or distributive shares of the estates of deceased persons, or from fines, penalties and forfeitures; also, any proceeds of the sales of the public lands, which may have been, or hereafter may be, paid over to this State (if Congress will consent to such appropriation); also, all other grants, gifts, or devises, that have been, or hereafter may be, made to this State, and not otherwise appropriated by the terms of the grant, gift, or devise, shall be securely invested and sacredly preserved as a public school fund, the annual income of which fund, together with so much of the ordinary revenue of the State as may be necessary, shall be faithfully appropriated for establishing and maintaining the free schools and the university in this article provided for, and for no other uses or purposes whatsoever.

SEC. 6. No part of the public school fund shall ever be invested in the stock or bonds, or other obligations of any State, or of any county, city, town, or corporation. The stock of the Bank of the State of Missouri, now held for school purposes, and all other stocks belonging to any school or university fund, shall be sold in such manner and at such time as the General Assembly shall prescribe; and the proceeds thereof, also, the proceeds of the sales of any lands or other property, which may now, or hereafter, belong to said school fund, may be invested in the bonds of the United States, bearing not less than six per centum interest per annum; and may also be loaned upon good and sufficient unincumbered real estate security.

SEC. 7. No township or school district shall receive any portion of the public school fund, unless a free school shall have been kept therein for not less than four months during the year for which distribution thereof is made. The General Assembly shall have power to require, by law, that every child, of sufficient mental and physical ability, shall attend the public schools during the period between the ages of five and eighteen years, for a term equivalent to six months, (unless educated by other means.)

SEC. 8. The General Assembly shall, as far as it can be done without infringing upon vested rights, reduce all lands, moneys, and other property, used or held for school purposes, in the various counties of this State, into the public school fund herein provided for; and in making distribution of the annual income of said fund, shall take into consideration the amount of any county or city funds, appropriated for common school purposes, and make such distribution as will equalize the amount appropriated for common schools throughout the State.

SIXTY-NINTH DAY.

THURSDAY, MARCH 30th, 1865.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment, the President in the chair.

The proposition of Mr. King, to amend section four, of the forty-fourth standing rule, was called up.

Mr. SMITH of Worth offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the title of the proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be: "King's" Constitution of "Drake," that it be bound in morocco or "Duck," "Owen" to "Holcomb" and "Hughes," neglect it has become weak, hollow and faint; therefore it should be "Bush"-ed by "Lint-on," and run through the "Barr's," in order that it may graze upon the "Green," "Budd's" of "Clover," until it has become "Strong." Thus "Foster"-ed with sweet "Williams" and decorated with "St. Gerns," "Gilstrap," and "Husmann" and "Switzler," can not sink it into the "Meyer," while it is "Krekel"-ing about, "Harris"-ing the people. Although neglected by "Gilbert" and all "Holland," this "New-gent" is perfectly safe in the hands of "Bonham" and "Mack," let the "Weather-by" what it may. As "Gamble"-ing is the game to pass bills through this body, let the "Rohrer" loose, and all hands pitch in, without "Swearing-en" be governed by the rules laid in the down of "Drake's" manual.

The President ruled the proposition of Mr. Smith as out of order.

Mr. DRAKE moved the previous question, which was sustained.

The question then being on the adoption of Mr. King's proposition to amend section four of the forty-fourth standing rule. Mr. DRAKE demanded the ayes and noes, and the vote being taken, stood as follows:

NOES—Messrs. Bedford, Bush, D'Oench, Ellis, Evans, Gilbert of Platte, Gilstrap, Green, Holcomb, Holland, Husmann, Linton, Meyer, Rohrer, St. Gem, Smith of Worth, Switzler, Williams of Caldwell, and Mr. President—19.

ABSENT WITH LEAVE—Messrs. Fletcher, Foster, Holdsworth, Hughes, Martin, Morton, Newgent, and Thilenius—8.

ABSENT WITHOUT LEAVE—Messrs. Davis of New Madrid, Grammer, Nixdorf, Owens, and Williams of Scotland—5.

SICK—Messrs. Cowden, Mitchell, and Peck—3.

So the proposition of Mr. King was adopted.

Mr. HUSMANN asked leave of absence for ten days.

Objections being made to giving such leave, Mr. BONHAM demanded the ayes and noes thereon, and the vote being taken, stood as follows:

AYES—Messrs. Adams, Barr, Bedford, Budd, Bunce, Bush, Childress, Clover, Davis of Nodaway, Dodson, D'Oench, Drake, Ellis, Esther, Filley, Fulkerson, Gamble, Gilbert of Lawrence, Gilbert of Platte, Gilstrap, Green, Henderson, Holcomb, Holland, Hume, King, Leonard, Linton, McPherson, Mack, Meyer, Rankin, Rohrer, St. Gem, Smith of Mercer, Smith of Worth, Sutton, Swearingen, Switzler, Weatherby, Williams of Caldwell, and Mr. President—42.

NOES—Messrs. Bonham, Evans, and Strong—3.

ABSENT WITH LEAVE—Messrs. Fletcher, Foster, Holdsworth, Hughes, Martin, Morton, Newgent, and Thilenius—8.

ABSENT WITHOUT LEAVE—Messrs. Davis of New Madrid, Folmsbee, Grammer, McKernan, Nixdorf, Owens, and Williams of Scotland—7.

SICK—Messrs. Cowden, Mitchell, and Peck—3.

EXCUSED FROM VOTING—Mr. Husmann—1.

So leave of absence was granted Mr. Husmann, as asked for.

On request of Mr. D'OENCH, leave of absence was granted him for this afternoon.

On request of Mr. EVANS, leave of absence was granted him for ten days from to-morrow.

On motion of Mr. BUDD, the pending article on State Indebtedness was taken up.

Mr. GILSTRAP called up the substitute offered by him for said article.

On motion of Mr. DRAKE, the Convention adjourned until half-past 2 o'clock P. M.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment, the President in the chair.

By request of Mr. WILLIAMS of Caldwell, Messrs. Barr and Ellis were granted leave of absence for this afternoon, on account of transacting business with the Committee on Militia.

Mr. DRAKE offered the following as the ordaining clause of the Constitution, which was read the first and second time:

Confiscation.

The committee to whom was referred the ordinance for the confiscation of the property of rebels, respectfully report that they had had the matter under consideration, and report the accompanying article for the consideration of this Convention. In coming to this conclusion, the committee beg leave to state that, in the admittance of Western Virginia into the Union, the Congress of the United States admitted the right of the State to confiscate property, both real and personal, to the State, for treasonable acts committed by persons against that State. Missouri, being one of the compact of States of the United States, and loyal to the general government of the United States, claims only equal rights with her sister States in the confiscation of rebel property. All of which is respectfully submitted.

Mr. SWITZLER offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That this Convention, desirous again to testify its appreciation of the priceless blessings guaranteed to the people by the Union of the States, have heard with joy and thanksgiving that Richmond (Confederate Capital) and Petersburg (one of the Gibraltar of the rebellion) have fallen, by the gallantry and heroism of the national troops; these glorious victories adding new lustre to our arms, and affording us reason to hope that this disastrous and wicked insurrection is virtually overthrown; and that, at no distant period, peace, on the basis of the Federal Union of all the States, will be restored.

On motion of Mr. STRONG, the resolution was laid over and made the special order for to-morrow morning.

On motion of Mr. DRAKE, the Convention adjourned until 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

SEVENTY-FIFTH DAY.

THURSDAY, APRIL 6th, 1865.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment, the President in the chair.

The pending resolution, offered by Mr. Switzler yesterday, was called up.

Mr. STRONG offered the following amendment thereto, which was accepted by Mr. Switzler:

Amend the resolution by adding these words: "And triumphantly vindicating the wisdom and patriotism of our honored chief magistrate, who, with a brave heart and ready purpose, has successfully carried forward, by force of arms, the glorious work of suppressing rebellion by the military power of the government; and illustrating, with equal clearness, the miserable folly and want of loyalty and patriotism of those who denounced Abraham Lincoln as 'the despot whom God in his wrath permits to occupy the Presidential chair;' who asserted the right of traitors to float the flag of treason, and justified the slaughter, by traitors, of these same gallant and heroic national troops, asserting that they 'met a merited doom,' and regretting that more of them were not shot; who justified and rejoiced in the traitorous conduct of that perjured traitor Claiborne F. Jackson, who, with the oath of fidelity to the Federal Constitution on his lips, prostituted his official position to place Missouri among the rebel States, against the will of a large majority of her citizens; who denounced the call of President Lincoln for seventy-five thousand of these same gallant and heroic troops, to defend the Union of the States, as 'illegal, inhuman, and diabolical;' and who publicly declared that, if there were any of those gallant and heroic soldiers in Missouri who were willing to 'aid a black-republican President in the butchery of the Southern people'—and thus assist in achieving 'these glorious victories, adding new lustre to our arms'—'they were on the wrong side of Mason and Dixon's line, and had better, for their health, take up their beds and walk, and walk fast;' and who most loudly denounced all attempts at coercion, from the start, well knowing it was the only means of suppressing rebellion, and securing 'these glorious victories' over which we now all unite in rejoicing. This Convention rejoices in the fact that the patriotic soldiers did 'take up their beds and walk,' and that they have pursued their walk over the whole territory of secession, until they have pitched their tents in the rebel capital at Richmond; and have demonstrated the fact that victory and success are wonderful promoters of patriotic rejoicing and of loyalty, and that the submission and respect of rebels and rebel sympathizers are best secured by the exhibition of a power in the government that they cannot successfully resist."

Mr. BUSH offered the following amendment to the original resolution:

Amend the resolution by inserting the words "freedom and," after the words "basis of," in the last sentence.

Which was accepted by Mr. Switzler.

The Committee on Printing respectfully report that, after a careful investigation of the expense of printing and binding the Journal and Debates of the Convention, and inviting proposals for the work from various persons and establishments, they have found the proposal of Messrs. McKee, Fishback & Co. as low as any other, and have accordingly made an arrangement with them to do the work at the following rates:

For each thousand ems of composition, sixty-five cents. For paper, $10.40 per ream. Press work, 37½ cents per token. For binding, folding and stitching, with strong paper cover, similar to the copies of the proceedings of the Convention of 1861, 10 cents per volume. The quality of paper, printing, and style, to be uniform with that of the Journal and Debates of the Convention of 1861.

The committee recommend the adoption of the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Convention be instructed to deliver to McKee, Fishback & Co. the copy of the Journal of the Convention, for printing, after having carefully compared the same with the original record.

Resolved, That the Reporter of the Convention be instructed to deliver to McKee, Fishback & Co., the copy of the Debates and Proceedings, for printing.

CHAUNCEY I. FILLEY,
WYLLYS KING.

Majority Committee.

We agree to do the work specified in the foregoing report on the terms therein stated.

McKEE, FISHBACK & CO.

Mr. D'OENCH made the following minority report:

The undersigned, a member of the Committee on Printing, desires to say that he fully agrees with the report of the majority of said committee as far as the arrangement for printing and binding with Messrs. McKee, Fishback & Co., of this city, is made; but differs in this: that he recommends a separate contract for the printing of the Journal only, which would form a volume by itself, and could be published at an earlier day; and that the speeches and proceedings should not be printed, as it will save a very large amount to our impoverished State. The undersigned is of opinion that, if the Convention desires to have the speeches and proceedings printed, the committee should be instructed to that effect, when a special contract could be made.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

W. D'OENCH.

St. Louis, April 8, 1865.

Mr. GREEN offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the journal of the proceedings of this Convention, only, shall be published at public expense; that the printing of the debates is unnecessary; and that the Committee on Printing be authorized to cause so many copies of the journals of the proceedings to be printed as may be necessary to furnish fifty copies to each member.

Mr. DRAKE, chairman of the Committee on Enrolling, presented the following report:

MR. PRESIDENT: The Enrolling Committee beg leave to report that they have carefully examined and compared the two enrolled copies of the Constitution with the several engrossed articles thereof, as adopted by the Convention, and find the same to be correctly and truly enrolled; and herewith lay the said two enrolled copies of the Constitution before the Convention.

The committee further report that, in order to secure the enrollment of the Constitution in a proper manner and in due time, they were obliged to employ two gentlemen, Messrs. Andrew W. Mead and Michael J. McGrath, to do the work; and it was agreed to pay them twenty cents per hundred words. The number of words in the Constitution, upon a careful computation, we find to be 17,062; and there is therefore due to each of those gentlemen the sum of $34.12, which the committee recommend should be authorized to be paid to them; and we therefore submit the following resolution for adoption by the Convention:

Resolved, That the Committee on Accounts shall allow and pay to Andrew W. Mead and Michael J. McGrath, each, the sum of $34.12, for their services in enrolling the Constitution.

C. D. DRAKE.

APPENDIX,

CONTAINING THE CONSTITUTION ADOPTED BY THE CONVENTION OF 1865, THE PROCLAMATIONS OF THE RATIFICATION THEREOF BY THE PEOPLE, AND THE ORDINANCES ADOPTED BY THE CONVENTION.

CONSTITUTION

OF THE STATE OF MISSOURI, AS REVISED, AMENDED, AND ADOPTED IN CONVENTION, BEGUN AND HELD AT THE CITY OF ST. LOUIS, ON THE SIXTH DAY OF JANUARY, EIGHTEEN HUNDRED AND SIXTY-FIVE.

We, the people of the State of Missouri, grateful to Almighty God, the Sovereign Ruler of nations, for our State government, our liberties, and our connection with the American Union, and acknowledging our dependence upon Him for the continuance of those blessings to us and our posterity, do, for the more certain security thereof, and for the better government of this State, ordain and establish this revised and amended Constitution:

ARTICLE I.

DECLARATION OF RIGHTS.

That the general, great, and essential principles of liberty and free government may be recognized and established, and that the relations of this State to the Union and Government of the United States, and those of the people of this State to the rest of the American people, may be defined and affirmed, we do declare:

1. That we hold it to be self-evident, that all men are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, among which are life, liberty, the enjoyment of the fruits of their own labor, and the pursuit of happiness:

2. That there can not be, in this State, either slavery or involuntary servitude, except in punishment of crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted:

3. That no person can, on account of color, be disqualified as a witness; or be disabled to contract, otherwise than as others are disabled; or be prevented from acquiring, holding, and transmitting property; or be liable to any other punishment, for any offense, than that imposed upon others for a like offense; or be restricted in the exercise of religious worship; or be hindered in acquiring education; or be subjected, in law, to any other restraints or disqualifications, in regard to any personal rights, than such as are laid upon others under like circumstances:

4. That all political power is vested in and derived from the people; that all government of right originates from the people, is founded upon their will only, and is instituted solely for the good of the whole:

5. That the people of this State have the inherent, sole, and exclusive right of regulating the internal government and police thereof, and of altering and abolishing their Constitution and form of government, whenever it may be necessary to their safety and happiness; but every such right should be exercised in pursuance of law, and consistently with the Constitution of the United States:

6. That this State shall ever remain a member of the American Union; that the people thereof are a part of the American Nation; and that all attempts, from whatever source or upon whatever pretext, to dissolve said Union, or to sever said Nation, ought to be resisted with the whole power of the State:

7. That every citizen of this State owes paramount allegiance to the Constitution and Government of the United States; and that no law or ordinance of this State, in contravention or subversion thereof, can have any binding force:

8. That the people have the right peaceably to assemble for their common good, and to apply to those vested with the powers of government for redress of grievances, by petition or remonstrance; and that their right to bear arms in defense of themselves, and of the lawful authority of the State, can not be questioned:

9. That all men have a natural and indefeasible right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own consciences; that no person can, on account of his religious opinions, be rendered ineligible to any office of trust or profit under this State, nor be disqualified from testifying, or from serving as a juror; that no human authority can control or interfere with the rights of conscience; and that no person ought, by any law, to be molested in his person or estate on account of his religious persuasion or profession; but the liberty of conscience hereby secured shall not be so construed as to excuse acts of licentiousness, nor to justify practices inconsistent with the good order, peace, or safety of the State, or with the rights of others:

10. That no person can be compelled to erect, support, or attend any place of worship, or to maintain any minister of the Gospel or teacher of religion; but whatever contracts any person may enter into for any such object ought, in law, to be binding and capable of enforcement, as other contracts:

11. That no preference can ever be given, by law, to any church, sect, or mode of worship:

12. That no religious corporation can be established in this State; except that, by a general law, uniform throughout the State, any church, or religious society, or congregation, may become a body corporate, for the sole purpose of acquiring, holding, using, and disposing of so much land as may be required for a house of public worship, a chapel, a parsonage, and a burial ground; and managing the same, and contracting in relation to such land, and the buildings thereon, through a board of trustees, selected by themselves; but the quantity of land to be held by any such body corporate, in connection with a house of worship or a parsonage, shall not exceed five acres in the country, or one acre in a town or city:

13. That every gift, sale, or devise of land to any minister, public teacher, or preacher of the Gospel, as such, or to any religious sect, order, or denomination; or to or for the support, use, or benefit of, or in trust for, any minister, public teacher, or preacher of the Gospel, as such, or any religious sect, order, or denomination; and every gift or sale of goods or chattels to go in succession, or to take place after the death of the seller or donor, to or for such support, use, or benefit; and also every devise of goods or chattels, to or for the support, use, or benefit of any minister, public teacher, or preacher of the Gospel, as such, or any religious sect, order, or denomination, shall be void; except always any gift, sale, or devise of land to a church, religious society or congregation, or to any person or persons in trust for the use of a church, religious society or congregation, whether incorporated or not, for the uses and purposes, and within the limitations, of the next preceding clause of this article:

14. That all elections ought to be free and open:

15. That courts of justice ought to be open to every person, and certain remedy afforded for every injury to person, property, or character; and that right and justice ought to be administered without sale, denial, or delay:

16. That no private property ought to be taken or applied to public use, without just compensation:

17. That the right of trial by jury shall remain inviolate:

18. That in all criminal prosecutions the accused has the right to be heard by himself and his counsel; to demand the nature and cause of accusation; to have compulsory process for witnesses in his favor; to meet the witnesses against him face to face; and in prosecutions on presentment or indictment, to a speedy trial by an impartial jury of the vicinage; that the accused can not be compelled to give evidence against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, but by the judgment of his peers, or the law of the land:

19. That no person, after having been once acquitted by a jury, can, for the same offense, be again put in jeopardy of life or liberty; but if, in any criminal prosecution, the jury be divided in opinion, the court before which the trial shall be had, may, in its discretion, discharge the jury, and commit or bail the accused for trial at the next term of said court:

20. That all persons shall be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offenses, when the proof is evident or the presumption great:

21. That excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted:

22. That the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus can not be suspended, unless when, in cases of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require it:

23. That the people ought to be secure in their persons, papers, houses and effects, from unreasonable searches and seizures; and no warrant to search any place, or seize any person or thing, can issue, without describing the place to be searched, or the person or thing to be seized, as nearly as may be; nor without probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation:

24. That no person can, for any indictable offense, be proceeded against criminally by information, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service in the time of war or public danger, or, by leave of court, for oppression or misdemeanor in office:

25. That treason against the State can consist only in levying war against it, or in adhering to its enemies, giving them aid and comfort:

26. That no person can be attainted of treason or felony by the General Assembly; that no conviction can work corruption of blood; that there can be no forfeiture of estate for any crime, except treason; and that the estates of such persons as may destroy their own lives shall descend or vest as in cases of natural death:

27. That the free communication of thoughts and opinions is one of the invaluable rights of man, and that every person may freely speak, write, and print, on any subject, being responsible for the abuse of that liberty; that in all prosecutions for libel, the truth hereof may be given in evidence, and the jury may determine the law and the facts, under the direction of the court:

28. That no ex post facto law, nor law impairing the obligation of contracts, or retrospective in its operation, can be passed:

29. That imprisonment for debt can not exist in this State, except for fines or penalties imposed for violation of law:

30. That all property subject to taxation ought to be taxed in proportion to its value:

31. That no title of nobility, or hereditary emolument, privilege, or distinction, can be granted:

32. That the military is, and in all cases and at all times ought to be, in strict subordination to the civil power; that no soldier can, in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner; nor in time of war, but in such manner as may be prescribed by law; nor can any appropriation for the support of an army be made for a longer period than two years.

ARTICLE II.

RIGHT OF SUFFRAGE.

SECTION 1. All elections by the people shall be by ballot. No election shall continue longer than one day, except as provided in the twenty-first section of this Article.

SEC. 2. General Elections shall be held biennially, on the Tuesday next after the first Monday in November. The first general election under this Constitution shall be held on that day, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six. Should Congress direct the appointment of electors of President and Vice President of the United States on any other day than that now established, the General Assembly may change the time of holding general elections, so as to provide for holding them on the day which may be designated by Congress for that purpose, and on the corresponding day two years thereafter. No special election, State, county, or municipal, shall be appointed to be held on a Monday.

SEC. 3. At any election held by the people under this Constitution, or in pursuance of any law of this State, or under any ordinance or by-law of any municipal corporation, no person shall be deemed a qualified voter, who has ever been in armed hostility to the United States, or to the lawful authorities thereof, or to the Government of this State; or has ever given aid, comfort, countenance, or support to persons engaged in any such hostility; or has ever, in any manner, adhered to the enemies, foreign or domestic, of the United States, either by contributing to them, or by unlawfully sending within their lines, money, goods, letters, or information; or has ever disloyally held communication with such enemies; or has ever advised or aided any person to enter the service of such enemies; or has ever, by act or word, manifested his adherence to the cause of such enemies, or his desire for their triumph over the arms of the United States, or his sympathy with those engaged in exciting or carrying on rebellion against the United States; or has ever, except under overpowering compulsion, submitted to the authority, or been in the service, of the so-called "Confederate States of America;" or has left this State, and gone within the lines of the armies of the so-called "Confederate States of America," with the purpose of adhering to said States or armies; or has ever been a member of, or connected with, any order, society, or organization, inimical to the Government of the United States, or to the Government of this State; or has ever been engaged in guerrilla warfare against loyal inhabitants of the United States, or in that description of marauding commonly known as "bush-whacking;" or has ever knowingly and willingly harbored, aided, or countenanced, any person so engaged; or has ever come into or left this State for the purpose of avoiding enrollment for or draft into the military service of the United States; or has ever, with a view to avoid enrollment in the militia of this State, or to escape the performance of duty therein, or for any other purpose, enrolled himself, or authorized himself to be enrolled, by or before any officer, as disloyal, or as a Southern sympathizer, or in any other terms indicating his disaffection to the Government of the United States in its contest with rebellion, or his sympathy with those engaged in such rebellion; or, having ever voted at any election by the people in this State, or in any other of the United States, or in any of their Territories, or held office in this State, or in any other of the United States, or in any of their Territories, or under the United States, shall thereafter have sought or received, under claim of alienage, the protection of any foreign government, through any consul or other officer thereof, in order to secure exemption from military duty in the militia of this State, or in the army of the United States; nor shall any such person be capable of holding, in this State, any office of honor, trust, or profit, under its authority; or of being an officer, councilman, director, trustee, or other manager of any corporation, public or private, now existing or hereafter established by its authority; or of acting as a professor or teacher in any educational institution, or in any common or other school; or of holding any real estate, or other property, in trust for the use of any church, religious society, or congregation. But the foregoing provisions in relation to acts done against the United States shall not apply to any person not a citizen thereof, who shall have committed such acts while in the service of some foreign country at war with the United States, and who has, since such acts, been naturalized, or may hereafter be naturalized, under the laws of the United States; and the oath of loyalty hereinafter prescribed, when taken by such person, shall be considered as taken in such sense.

SEC. 4. The General Assembly shall immediately provide by law for a complete and uniform registration, by election districts, of the names of qualified voters in this State; which registration shall be evidence of the qualification of all registered voters to vote at any election thereafter held; but no person shall be excluded from voting at any election, on account of not being registered, until the General Assembly shall have passed an act of registration, and the same shall have been carried into effect; after which no person shall vote unless his name shall have been registered at least ten days before the day of the election; and the fact of such registration shall be not otherwise shown than by the register, or an authentic copy thereof, certified to the judges of election by the registering officer or officers, or other constituted authority. A new registration shall be made within sixty days next preceding the tenth day prior to every biennial general election; and after it shall have been made, no person shall establish his right to vote by the fact of his name appearing on any previous register.

SEC. 5. Until such a system of registration shall have been established, every person shall, at the time of offering to vote, and before his vote shall be received, take an oath in the terms prescribed in the next succeeding section. After such a system shall have been established, the said oath shall be taken and subscribed by the voter at each time of his registration. Any person declining to take said oath shall not be allowed to vote, or to be registered as a qualified voter. The taking thereof shall not be deemed conclusive evidence of the right of the person to vote, or to be registered as a voter; but such right may, notwithstanding, be disproved. And, after a system of registration shall have been established, all evidence for and against the right of any person as a qualified voter shall be heard and passed upon by the registering officer or officers, and not by the judges of election. The registering officer or officers shall keep a register of the names of persons rejected as voters, and the same shall be certified to the judges of election; and they shall receive the ballot of any such rejected voter offering to vote, marking the same, and certifying the vote thereby given as rejected; but no such vote shall be received unless the party offering it take, at the time, the oath of loyalty hereinafter prescribed.

SEC. 6. The oath to be taken as aforesaid shall be known as the Oath of Loyalty, and shall be in the following terms:

“I, A. B., do solemnly swear, that I am well acquainted with the terms of the third section of the second Article of the Constitution of the State of Missouri, adopted in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-five, and have carefully considered the same; that I have never, directly or indirectly, done any of the acts in said section specified; that I have always been truly and loyally on the side of the United States against all enemies thereof, foreign and domestic; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the United States, and will support the Constitution and laws thereof, as the supreme law of the land, any law or ordinance of any State to the contrary notwithstanding; that I will, to the best of my ability, protect and defend the Union of the United States, and not allow the same to be broken up and dissolved, or the Government thereof to be destroyed or overthrown, under any circumstances, if in my power to prevent it; that I will support the Constitution of the State of Missouri; and that I make this oath without any mental reservation or evasion, and hold it to be binding on me.”

SEC. 7. Within sixty days after this Constitution takes effect, every person in this State holding any office of honor, trust, or profit under the Constitution or laws thereof, or under any municipal corporation, or any of the other offices, positions, or trusts mentioned in the third section of this Article, shall take and subscribe the said oath. If any officer or person referred to in this section shall fail to comply with the requirements thereof, his office, position, or trust, shall, ipso facto, become vacant, and the vacancy shall be filled according to the law governing the case.

SEC. 8. No vote in any election by the people shall be cast up for, nor shall any certificate of election be granted to, any person who shall not, within fifteen days next preceding such election, have taken, subscribed, and filed said oath.

SEC. 9. No person shall assume the duties of any State, county, city, town, or other office, to which he may be appointed, otherwise than by a vote of the people; nor shall any person, after the expiration of sixty days after this Constitution takes effect, be permitted to practise as an attorney or counselor at law; nor, after that time, shall any person be competent as a bishop, priest, deacon, minister, elder, or other clergyman of any religious persuasion, sect, or denomination, to teach, or preach, or solemnize marriages, unless such person shall have first taken, subscribed, and filed said oath.

SEC. 10. Oaths taken in pursuance of the seventh, eighth, and ninth sections of this Article shall be filed, as follows: By a State civil officer, or a candidate for a State civil office, and by members and officers of the present General Assembly, in the office of the Secretary of State; by a military officer, in the office of the Adjutant General; by a candidate for either house of the General Assembly, in the clerk's office of the County Court of the county of his residence, or in that of the county where the vote of the district is required by law to be cast up, and the certificate of election granted; by a city or town officer, in the office where the archives of such city or town are kept; and in all other cases, in the office of the clerk of the County Court of the county of the person's residence.

SEC. 11. Every court in which any person shall be summoned to serve as a grand or petit juror, shall require him, before he is sworn as a juror, to take said oath in open court; and no person refusing to take the same shall serve as a juror.

SEC. 12. If any person shall declare that he has conscientious scruples against taking an oath, or swearing in any form, the said oath may be changed into a solemn affirmation, and be made by him in that form.

SEC. 13. In addition to the oath of loyalty aforesaid, every person who may be elected or appointed to any office shall, before entering upon its duties, take and subscribe an oath or affirmation that he will, to the best of his skill and ability, diligently and faithfully, without partiality or prejudice, discharge the duties of such office according to the Constitution and laws of this State.

SEC. 14. Whoever shall, after the times limited in the seventh and ninth sections of this Article, hold or exercise any of the offices, positions, trusts, professions, or functions therein specified, without having taken, subscribed, and filed said oath of loyalty, shall, on conviction thereof, be punished by fine not less than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not less than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment; and whoever shall take said oath falsely, by swearing or by affirmation, shall, on conviction thereof, be adjudged guilty of perjury, and be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not less than two years.

SEC. 15. Whoever shall be convicted of having, directly or indirectly, given or offered any bribe to procure his election or appointment to any office, shall be disqualified for any office of honor, trust, or profit, under this State; and whoever shall give or offer any bribe to procure the election or appointment of any other person to any office, shall, on conviction thereof, be disqualified for a voter, or any office of honor, trust or profit under this State, for ten years after such conviction.

SEC. 16. No officer, soldier, or marine, in the regular army or navy of the United States, shall be entitled to vote at any election in this State.

SEC. 17. No person who shall make, or become, directly or indirectly, interested in, any bet or wager depending upon the result of any election, shall vote at such election.

SEC. 18. Every white male citizen of the United States, and every white male person of foreign birth who may have declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States, according to law, not less than one year nor more than five years before he offers to vote, who is over the age of twenty-one years, who is not disqualified by or under any of the provisions of this Constitution, and who shall have complied with its requirements, and have resided in this State one year next preceding any election, or next preceding his registration as a voter, and during the last sixty days of that period shall have resided in the county, city, or town where he offers to vote, or seeks registration as a voter, shall be entitled to vote at such election for all officers, State, county, or municipal, made elective by the people; but he shall not vote elsewhere than in the election district of which he is at the time a resident, or, after a system of registration of votes shall have been established, in the election district where his name is registered; except as provided in the twenty-first section of this Article.

SEC. 19. After the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, every person who was not a qualified voter prior to that time, shall, in addition to the other qualifications required, be able to read and write, in order to become a qualified voter; unless his inability to read or write shall be the result of a physical disability.

SEC. 20. For the purpose of voting, no person shall be deemed to have gained or lost a residence by reason of his presence or absence while employed in the service of the United States, nor while engaged in the navigation of the waters of this State, or of the United States, or of the high seas; nor while a student in any seminary of learning; nor while kept at any poorhouse or other asylum at public expense; nor while confined in any public prison.

SEC. 21. Any qualified voter, under the eighteenth section of this Article, who may be absent from the place of his residence by reason of being in the volunteer army of the United States, or in the militia force of this State, in the service thereof, or of the United States, whether within or without the State, shall, without registration, be entitled to vote in any election occurring during such absence. The votes of all such persons, wherever they may be, may be taken on the day fixed by law for such election, or on any day or days within twenty days next prior thereto; and the General Assembly shall provide, by law, for the taking, return, and counting of such votes. Every such person shall take the same oath that all other voters may be required to take, in order to vote.

SEC. 22. Voters shall, in all cases except treason, felony, or breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their continuance at elections, and in going to and returning from the same.

SEC. 23. Any person who may, at any time, have done any act which, under the third section of this Article, has disqualified or may disqualify him as therein expressed, and who shall, after the commission of such act, have voluntarily entered the military service of the United States, and have been honorably discharged therefrom, and, after such discharge, have demeaned himself in all respects as a loyal and faithful citizen, may be relieved from such disqualification. In order thereto, he shall, in person, present his petition to the Circuit Court of the county of his residence, stating specifically the act or acts which produced such disqualification, and the grounds upon which he prays to be relieved therefrom; and the court shall set a day for hearing the cause, not less than five days after the presentation of the petition; when, if it appear by competent proof that the petitioner is justly entitled to the relief prayed for, the court shall make a decree removing such disqualification. But any act done by such person after the date of such decree, which would impose a disqualification under said third section of this Article, shall make such decree null and void, and remit him to his previous condition of disqualification; and no such decree shall be granted a second time in his favor.

SEC. 24. After any person shall have been so relieved by the decree of a Circuit Court, he shall, in order to vote, or hold any of the offices, positions, or trusts, or exercise any of the privileges or functions hereinbefore specified, take the oath of loyalty aforesaid, except the part thereof which refers to the third section of this Article and to the past acts or loyalty of the person taking the oath.

SEC. 25. After the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-one, and until the date hereinafter named, the General Assembly shall have power, if a majority of all the members elected to both houses concur therein, to suspend or repeal any part of the third, fifth, and sixth sections of this Article, so far as the same relate to the qualifications of voters, but no farther. After the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five, the General Assembly may wholly suspend or repeal the third, fourth, fifth, sixth, eighth, ninth, tenth, eleventh and twelfth sections of this Article, or any part thereof, if a like majority of both houses concur therein. But no such suspension or repeal shall have the effect of dispensing with the taking, by every person elected or appointed to any office in this State, of so much of the oath of loyalty aforesaid as follows the word "domestic." On the passage of any bill suspending or repealing any of said sections, or any part thereof, the votes of both houses shall be taken by yeas and nays, and entered on the journals of the houses, respectively. The General Assembly shall also have power, at any time, to remove any such suspension or repeal, and reinstate the provisions suspended or repealed in full force and effect as a part of this Constitution. Every suspension or repeal made in pursuance of this section shall be general in its terms, and not in any case in favor of any named person; but the General Assembly may except from the benefit of such suspension or repeal any person, or class of persons, it may see fit.

SEC. 26. The General Assembly shall provide for the exclusion from every office of honor, trust, or profit within this State, and from the right of suffrage, of any person convicted of bribery, perjury, or other infamous crime.

ARTICLE III.

DISTRIBUTION OF POWERS.

The powers of government shall be divided into three distinct departments, each of which shall be confided to a separate magistracy; and no person charged with the exercise of powers properly belonging to one of those departments shall exercise any power properly belonging to either of the others, except in the instances hereinafter expressly directed or permitted.

ARTICLE IV.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

SECTION 1. The legislative power shall be vested in a General Assembly, which shall consist of a Senate and a House of Representatives.

SEC. 2. The House of Representatives shall consist of members to be chosen, every second year, by the qualified voters of the several counties, and apportioned in the following manner: The ratio of representation shall be ascertained at each apportioning session of the General Assembly, by dividing the whole number of permanent inhabitants of the State by the number two hundred. Each county having one ratio, or less, shall be entitled to one Representative; each county having three times said ratio shall be entitled to two Representatives; each county having six times said ratio shall be entitled to three Representatives; and so on above that number, giving one additional member for every three additional ratios. When any county shall be entitled to more than one Representative, the County Court shall cause such county to be subdivided into as many compact and convenient districts as such county may be entitled to Representatives; which districts shall be, as near as may be, of equal population; and the qualified voters of each of such districts shall elect one Representative, who shall be a resident of such district.

SEC. 3. No person shall be a member of the House of Representatives who shall not have attained the age of twenty-four years; who shall not be a white male citizen of the United States; who shall not have been a qualified voter of this State two years, and an inhabitant of the county which he may be chosen to represent one year, next before the day of his election, if such county shall have been so long established; but if not, then of the county from which the same shall have been taken; and who shall not have paid a State and county tax.

SEC. 4. The Senate shall consist of thirty-four members, to be chosen by the qualified voters for four years; for the election of whom the State shall be divided into convenient districts.

SEC. 5. No person shall be a Senator who shall not have attained the age of thirty years; who shall not be a white male citizen of the United States; who shall not have been a qualified voter of this State three years, and an inhabitant of the district which he may be chosen to represent one year, next before the day of his election, if such district shall have been so long established; but if not, then of the district or districts from which the same shall have been taken; and who shall not have paid a State and county tax. When any county shall be entitled to more than one Senator, the County Court shall cause such county to be subdivided into as many compact and convenient districts as such county may be entitled to Senators; which districts shall be, as near as may be, of equal population; and the qualified voters of each of such districts shall elect one Senator, who shall be a resident of such district.

SEC. 6. Senators shall be apportioned among their respective districts, as nearly as may be, according to the number of permanent inhabitants in each.

SEC. 7. Senators and Representatives shall be chosen according to the rule of apportionment established in this Constitution, until the next decennial census taken by the United States shall have been made, and the result thereof as to this State ascertained, when the apportionment shall be revised and adjusted on the basis of that census. In the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, and every tenth year thereafter, there shall be taken, under the authority of this State, a census of the inhabitants thereof; and after every such census the apportionment of Senators and Representatives may be based thereon, until the next succeeding National census; after which it may be based upon the National census, until the next succeeding decennial State census; and so on, from time to time, the enumerations made by the United States and this State shall be used, as they respectively occur, as the basis of apportionment.

SEC. 8. Senatorial and Representative districts may be altered, from time to time, as public convenience may require. When any Senatorial district shall be composed of two or more counties, they shall be contiguous.

SEC. 9. The first election of Senators and Representatives under this Constitution shall be held at the general election in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, when the whole number of Senators and Representatives shall be chosen.

SEC. 10. At the regular session of the General Assembly chosen at said election, the Senators shall be divided into two equal classes. Those elected from districts bearing odd numbers shall compose the first class, and those elected from districts bearing even numbers shall compose the second class. The seats of the first class shall be vacated at the end of the second year after the day of said election, and those of the second class at the end of the fourth year after that day; so that one-half of the Senators shall be chosen every second year. In districting any county for the election of Senators, the districts shall be numbered so as to effectuate the division of Senators into classes, as required in this section.

SEC. 11. No member of Congress, or person holding any lucrative office under the United States or this State (militia officers, justices of the peace, and notaries public excepted), shall be eligible to either house of the General Assembly, or shall remain a member thereof after having accepted any such office, or a seat in either house of Congress.

SEC. 12. No person who now is, or may hereafter be, a collector or holder of public money, or assistant or deputy of such collector or holder of public money, shall be eligible to either house of the General Assembly until he shall have accounted for and paid all sums for which he may be accountable.

SEC. 13. If any Senator or Representative remove his residence from the district or county for which he was elected, his office shall thereby be vacated.

SEC. 14. The Governor shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies as may occur in either house of the General Assembly.

SEC. 15. No Senator or Representative shall, during the term for which he shall have been elected, be appointed to any civil office under this State which shall have been created, or the emoluments of which shall have been increased, during his continuance in office as a Senator or Representative, except to such offices as shall be filled by elections of the people.

SEC. 16. Senators and Representatives shall, in all cases except treason, felony, or breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during the session of the General Assembly, and for fifteen days next before the commencement and after the termination of each session; and for any speech or debate in either house they shall not be questioned in any other place.

SEC. 17. The members of the General Assembly shall severally receive from the public Treasury such compensation for their services as may, from time to time, be provided by law; but no law increasing such compensation shall take effect in favor of the members of the General Assembly by which the same shall have been passed.

SEC. 18. A majority of the whole number of members of each house shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner and under such penalties as each house may provide.

SEC. 19. Each house shall appoint its own officers; shall judge of the qualifications, elections, and returns of its own members; may determine the rules of its proceedings; may arrest and punish, by fine not exceeding three hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in a county jail not exceeding ten days, or both, any person not a member who shall be guilty of disrespect to the house, by any disorderly or contemptuous behavior in its presence, during its session; may punish its members for disorderly behavior; and, with the concurrence of two-thirds of all the members elected, may expel a member; but no member shall be expelled a second time for the same cause.

SEC. 20. Each house shall, from time to time, publish a journal of its proceedings, except such parts thereof as may, in its opinion, require secrecy; and the yeas and nays on any question shall be taken, and entered on the journal, at the desire of any two members. Whenever the yeas and nays are demanded, the whole list of members shall be called, and the names of absentees shall be noted, and published with the journal.

SEC. 21. The sessions of each house shall be held with open doors, except in cases which may require secrecy.

SEC. 22. Neither house shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than two days at any one time, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses may be sitting.

SEC. 23. Bills may originate in either house, and may be altered, amended, or rejected by the other; and every bill shall be read on three different days in each house, unless two-thirds of the house, where the same is pending, shall dispense with this rule; and every bill, having passed both houses, shall be signed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and by the President of the Senate.

SEC. 24. No bill shall be passed unless by the assent of a majority of all the members elected to each branch of the General Assembly, and the question upon the final passage shall be taken immediately upon the last reading; and the yeas and nays shall be taken thereon and entered upon the journal.

SEC. 25. No act shall be revived or re-enacted by mere reference to the title thereof; nor shall any act be amended by providing that designated words thereof shall be struck out, or that designated words shall be struck out and others inserted in lieu thereof; but in every such case the act revived or re-enacted, or the act or part of act amended, shall be set forth and published at length, as if it were an original act or provision.

SEC. 26. The style of the laws of this State shall be—“Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Missouri, as follows.”

SEC. 27. The General Assembly shall not pass special laws divorcing any named parties; or declaring any named person of age; or authorizing any named minor to sell, lease, or encumber his or her property; or providing for the sale of the real estate of any named minor or other person, laboring under legal disability, by any executor, administrator, guardian, trustee, or other person; or changing the name of any person; or establishing, locating, altering the course, or affecting the construction of roads, or the building or repairing of bridges; or establishing, altering, or vacating any street, avenue, or alley in any city or town; or extending the time for the assessment or collection of taxes, or otherwise relieving any assessor or collector of taxes from the due performance of his official duties; or giving effect to informal or invalid wills or deeds; or legalizing, except as against the State, the unauthorized or invalid acts of any officer; or granting to any individual or company the right to lay down railroad tracks in the streets of any city or town; or exempting any property of any named person or corporation from taxation. The General Assembly shall pass no special law for any case for which provision can be made by a general law: but shall pass general laws providing, so far as it may deem necessary, for the cases enumerated in this section, and for all other cases where a general law can be made applicable.

SEC. 28. The General Assembly shall never authorize any lottery; nor shall the sale of lottery tickets be allowed; nor shall any lottery heretofore authorized be permitted to be drawn, or tickets therein to be sold.

SEC. 29. The General Assembly shall have no power to make compensation for emancipated slaves.

SEC. 30. The General Assembly shall have no power to remove the county seat of any county, unless two-thirds of the qualified voters of the county, at a general election, shall vote in favor of such removal. No compensation or indemnity for real estate, or the improvements thereon, affected by such removal, shall be allowed.

SEC. 31. The General Assembly shall have no power to establish any new county with a territory of less than five hundred square miles, or with a population less than the ratio of representation existing at the time; nor to reduce any county now established to less than that area, or to less population than such ratio.

SEC. 32. No law enacted by the General Assembly shall relate to more than one subject, and that shall be expressed in the title; but if any subject embraced in an act be not expressed in the title, such act shall be void only as to so much thereof as is not so expressed.

SEC. 33. The General Assembly shall direct, by law, in what manner, and in what courts, suits may be brought against the State.

SEC. 2. The Governor shall be at least thirty-five years old, a white male citizen of the United States ten years, and a resident of this State seven years, next before his election.

SEC. 3. The Governor elected at the general election in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight, and each Governor thereafter elected, shall hold his office two years, and until a successor be duly elected and qualified. At the time and place of voting for members of the House of Representatives, the qualified voters shall vote for a Governor; and when two or more persons have an equal number of votes, and a higher number than any other person, the election shall be decided between them by a joint vote of both houses of the General Assembly, at their next session.

He shall, at each session of the General Assembly, communicate to that body each case of reprieve, commutation, or pardon granted, stating the name of the convict, the crime of which he was convicted, the sentence and its date, the date of the commutation, pardon, or reprieve, and the reasons for granting the same. He shall take care that the laws be distributed and faithfully executed; and shall be a conservator of the peace throughout the State.

SEC. 7. The Governor shall, from time to time, give to the General Assembly information relative to the state of the Government, and shall recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall deem necessary and expedient. On extraordinary occasions he may convene the General Assembly by proclamation, wherein he shall state specifically each matter concerning which the action of that body is deemed necessary; and the General Assembly shall have no power, when so convened, to act upon any matter not so stated in the proclamation.

SEC. 8. When any office shall become vacant, the Governor, unless otherwise provided by law, shall appoint a person to fill such vacancy, who shall continue in office until a successor shall be duly elected or appointed, and qualified, according to law.

SEC. 9. Every bill which shall have been passed by both houses of the General Assembly, before it becomes a law shall be presented to the Governor for his approbation. If he approve, he shall sign it; if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the house in which it shall have originated; and the house shall cause the objections to be entered at large on its journals, and shall proceed to reconsider the bill. After such reconsideration, if a majority of all the members elected to that house shall agree to pass the same, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall, in like manner, be reconsidered; and if approved by a majority of all the members elected to that house, it shall become a law. SEC. 10. Every resolution to which the concurrence of the Senate and House of Representatives may be necessary, except on questions of adjournment, of going into joint session, and of amending this Constitution, shall be presented to the Governor; and, before the same shall take effect, shall be proceeded upon in the same manner as in the case of a bill.

SEC. 11. The Governor shall, at stated times, receive for his services an adequate salary, to be fixed by law; which shall neither be increased nor diminished during his continuance in office.

SEC. 12. There shall be a Lieutenant Governor, who shall be elected at the same time, in the same manner, for the same term, and shall possess the same qualifications, as the Governor.

Before entering on the duties of their office they shall give security in such amount, and in such manner, as shall be prescribed by law. Whenever a county shall be hereafter established, the Governor shall appoint a sheriff and a coroner therein, who shall continue in office until the next succeeding general election, and until a successor shall be duly elected and qualified.

Every such judge shall, before any votes are received, take an oath or affirmation that he will honestly and faithfully perform the duties of judge, and make proper return of the votes given at such election; and such oath the judges may administer to each other. In any election held in a regiment or company, the polls shall be opened at eight o'clock A. M., and closed at six o'clock P. M.

SEC. 3. The election provided for in the next preceding section shall be by ballot. SEC. 5. Any qualified voter of this State, within the State, who, on the day of said election, shall be absent from the place of his residence, may vote at any place of voting, upon satisfying the judges that he is a qualified voter, and being sworn by them that he has not voted, and will not vote, in said election at any other election precinct.

SEC. 6. At said election no person shall be allowed to vote who would not be a qualified voter according to the terms of this Constitution, if the second Article thereof were then in force. Should any such person decline to take said oath, he shall not be permitted to vote at said election; but the taking thereof shall not be deemed conclusive evidence of the right of such person to vote; but such right may be disputed and disproved. Any person who shall falsely take, or, having taken, shall thereafter willfully violate, the oath prescribed in this section, shall, upon conviction thereof by any court of competent jurisdiction, be adjudged guilty of the crime of perjury, and shall be punished therefor in accordance with existing law.

SEC. 7. On the first day of July next ensuing said election, the Secretary of State shall, in presence of the Governor, the Attorney General, or the State Auditor, proceed to examine and cast up the returns of the votes taken at said election, and certified to him, including those of persons in the military service; and if it shall appear that a majority of all the votes cast at such election were in favor of the Constitution, the Governor shall issue his proclamation, stating that fact, and this Constitution shall, on the fourth day of said month of July, be the Constitution of the State of Missouri.

SEC. 8. The officer now known as the "Auditor of Public Accounts" shall hereafter be styled State Auditor.

AN ORDINANCE

FOR THE PAYMENT OF STATE AND RAILROAD INDEBTEDNESS.

Be it ordained by the People of the State of Missouri, in Convention assembled, as follows:

SECTION 1. There shall be levied and collected from the Pacific railroad, the North Missouri railroad, and the St. Louis and Iron Mountain railroad companies, an annual tax of ten per centum of their gross receipts for the transportation of freight and passengers (not including amounts received from, and taxes paid to, the United States), from the 1st of October, 1866, to the 1st of October, 1868, and fifteen per centum thereafter; which tax shall be assessed and collected in the county of St. Louis, in the same manner as other State taxes are assessed and collected, and shall be appropriated by the General Assembly to the payment of the principal and interest now due, or hereafter to become due, upon the bonds of the State, and the bonds guaranteed by the State, issued to the aforesaid railroad companies.

SEC. 2. A like tax of fifteen per centum shall be assessed and collected from the Hannibal and St. Joseph railroad company, and from the Platte Country railroad company, whenever default is made by said companies, or either of them, in the payment of the interest or principal of the bonds of the State, or the bonds guaranteed by the State, issued to said companies, respectively; which tax shall be assessed and collected in such manner as the General Assembly may, by law, direct, and shall be applied for the payment of principal and interest of said bonds, as the same may become due and payable.

SEC. 3. The tax in this ordinance specified shall be collected from each company hereinbefore named, only for the payment of the principal and interest of the bonds for the payment of which such company shall be liable, and, whenever such bonds and interest shall have been fully paid, no further tax shall be collected from such company; but nothing shall be received by the State, in discharge of any amounts due upon said bonds, except cash, or other bonds or obligations of this State.

SEC. 4. Should either of said companies refuse or neglect to pay said tax, as herein required, and the interest or principal of any of said bonds, or any part thereof, remain due and unpaid, the General Assembly shall provide, by law, for the sale of the railroad and other property, and the franchises of the company, that shall be thus in default, under the lien reserved to the State, and shall appropriate the proceeds of such sale to the payment of the amount remaining due and unpaid from said company.

SEC. 5. Whenever the State shall become the purchaser of any railroad or other property, or franchises, sold as hereinbefore provided for, the General Assembly shall provide, by law, in what manner the same shall be sold, for the payment of the indebtedness of the railroad company in default; but no railroad or other property, or franchises, purchased by the State, shall be restored to any such company until it shall have first paid, in money, or in Missouri State bonds, or in bonds guaranteed by this State, all interest due from said company; and all interest thereafter accruing shall be paid semi-annually, in advance; and no sale or other disposition of any such railroad or other property, or the franchises, shall be made without reserving a lien upon all the property and franchises thus sold or disposed of, for all sums remaining unpaid; and all payments therefor shall be made in money, or in the bonds or other obligations of this State.

SEC. 6. The General Assembly shall provide, by law, for the payment of all State indebtedness not hereinbefore provided for; and for this purpose a tax of one quarter of one per centum on all real estate, and other property and effects subjected to taxation, shall be assessed and collected, and shall be appropriated for the payment of all such indebtedness that may have matured; and the surplus, if any, shall be set apart as a sinking fund for the payment of the obligations of the State that may hereafter become due, and for no other purpose whatsoever.

SEC. 7. At the election to be held on the sixth day of June, eighteen hundred and sixty-five, for the purpose of ascertaining the sense of the people in regard to the adoption or rejection of the Constitution adopted by this Convention, the question of the adoption or rejection of this Ordinance shall be submitted to the voters of this State, who shall be qualified as voters under the provisions of Article 13th of said Constitution, and shall take the oath in said Article prescribed; and the vote at such election shall be taken, and returns thereof made, at the same time, under the same restrictions, and in the same manner, as in said Article is provided for the vote upon the question of the adoption or rejection of said Constitution. The election herein provided for shall be by ballot. Those ballots in favor of this Ordinance shall have written or printed thereon the words, "Shall the railroads pay their bonds? Yes." Those opposed to this Ordinance shall have written or printed thereon the words, "Shall the railroads pay their bonds? No." If the majority of all the votes cast at such election shall be in favor of this Ordinance, the same shall be valid, and have full force and effect as a part of the Constitution of this State, whether the New Constitution adopted by this Convention be adopted or rejected. If a majority of such votes shall be against this Ordinance, it shall have no force or validity whatsoever.

The Governor of this State shall, by proclamation, make known the result of the election herein provided for.

Adopted in Convention, April tenth, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five.
